IN CHICAGO.

The President's Triumphal Reception—His Speech, Etc.

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—The parade was very large and variegated. Regular infantry, cavalry and artillery and many different militia organizations headed it and were followed by veterans of the war, civil societies of all classes, etc. When the President's carriage reached the reviewing stand, the United States steamer Michigan, which lay in the harbor just opposite, fired a Presidential salute of 21 guns. This was the signal for a mob of 50,000 people to overrun the procession and toward the stand in their eagerness to see the President. When the President made his way to the stand he and a few officials with him were almost pushed over the railing, by the mob who engaged in an insane struggle for the front. During the fight of the jam, a terrific crash was heard, and half a hundred people who had squeezed themselves into the reporter's table, were precipitated to the ground. No one was seriously injured, though the incident almost created a panic. When comparative quiet had been restored, Mayor Roche stepped forward and delivered his welcoming address.

In response to Mayor Roche's address of welcome,

THE PRESIDENT SAID:

It was soon after the election of 1884 that an old resident of your city was earnestly urging me to pay you a visit. He endeavored to meet all objections that were started and insisted with an unyielding pertinacity that the invitation be accepted. At last, and after all persuasion seemed to fail, he vehemently broke out with this declaration: "The people up where I live don't think a man is fit for President who has never seen Chicago." I have often thought of this since that time, and sometimes I have felt I was not doing for the people and the public welfare all that might be done or all that I would like to do; have wondered whether things would have gone on better if I had

VISITED CHICAGO.

Indeed it has, I believe, been publicly stated on one or more occasions lately, when the shortcomings of the present Chief Executive were under discussion, that nothing better could be expected of a man who never had been west of some designated place or river and this, I suppose, means the same thing that my Chicago friend meant, and involves the same accusation and conclusions. If my alleged official crimes and misdemeanors are thus charitably accounted for, I shall not complain. While I confess that the declaration of the representative of this city as I have given it is an evidence of that local pride and loyalty of which your city is the all have heard of it, if they never have seen it, for every one of your people seems to have organized himself into a committee of one to spread its glories abroad, and now that I am here, I feel like saying with the Queen of Sheba that the half was not told me.

After relating the history of Chicago's growth President Cleveland concluded as follows:

You have said that the President ought to see Chicago. I am here to see it and its hospitable, large-hearted people. But because your city is great and your interests so large and important, I know you will allow me to suggest that I have left a city you ought to see and know more about. In point of fact it would be well for you to keep your eye closely upon it all the time. Your servants and agents are there. They are there to protect your interests and aid your efforts and to advance your prosperity and well-being. Your busling trade and your wearing ceaseless activity of hand and brain will not yield the result you deserve unless wisdom guides the policy of your government, and unless your needs are regarded at the capital of the nation.

It will be well for you not to forget that in the performance of your political duties with calm thoughtfulness and there lies not only a safeguard against business disaster, but an important obligation of citizenship.

Mrs. Cleveland became fatigued and left the carriage at the Palmer House, being escorted directly to her rooms where she rested quietly for several hours. Reports that she had been taken suddenly ill were circulated, but they were unfounded. Mrs. Cleveland was very tired, but nothing more serious, and she is now with the President receiving the public in the rotunda of the hotel.

It was 1:25 o'clock when the last of the long procession and the crowd began to disperse. There was such a jam then that the President the platform for some time. Finally, however, he got away almost faint with hunger and exertion and had dinner. In less than an hour the public reception at the Palmer House began and a mob of one hundred thousand people rushed like wild beasts at the President and his wife. So thunderous was the din that a score of enterprising trumpeters seemed engaged in a dumb show. In vain did the police, clubs in hand, endeavor to stem the rush. The rope barriers were swept away at the first rush. Mrs. Cleveland was retired into an alcove while the President plunged into a surging crowd and sturdily shouldered himself into the place where it had been decided he should stand. Three times did the flies of brawny, dismounted cavalrymen seize the ends of one of the ropes that had been dashed to the floor and strive to drag back the

COULD NOT LEAVE

EAGER MULTITUDE.

Only with the aid of a double cordon of police did the maneuvers of the soldiers bring the faintest semblance of order. The President, meanwhile shook hands right and left, until he was red in the face, and his collar lay limp above his black coat. Behind him, at the entrance to the alcove stood Mrs. Cleveland bowing and smiling good naturedly to the crowd. She stepped a little nearer her husband when the first appearance of a line had begun to be formed. At the head came a detachment of Union veterans bearing a tattered battle flag of the Eleventh Kansas Volunteers. While the President warmly greeted the old soldiers one after another, the color bearer stepped forward to Mrs. Cleveland and, gently lowering the old flag, bid her clip off one of its precious shreds as a memento of the day. The gracefully complied, and while the spectators went wild with enthusiasm displayed her trophy proudly to the ladies at her side. A low estimate of the number of persons with whom the President shook hands is 6,000 but they were the fortunate few thousands in the corridors, and thousands upon thousands in the streets failed even to catch a sight of his face. During the crush outside it is safe to say as many as fifty women had to be borne from the throng into the stores near by, fainting from exhaustion.

Simplicity and lack of ostentation were the distinguishing characteristics of the evening reception at the Columbia Theatre. Ten thousand tickets of admission had been issued and only ticket holders were admitted.

THE FLOOR

had been laid throughout the house level with the stage and beautifully carpeted, while the whole interior of the theatre was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns, palms and bunting. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland stood together, each having a pleasant word and hearty handshake for all comers. Mrs. Cleveland's costume was elegant and her demeanor enchanted everyone. It seemed as though she never would tire of welcoming the people who were gladdened by her presence, and the President was no less gracious. The reception was a notable event in Chicago's history. It had been announced that the reception would close at 11 o'clock, but the President and wife seeing the long line of anxious faces lingered past the hour. It was nearly midnight when the reception closed, and then two or three thousand people were turned away disappointed.

The Bulgarian Situation.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—De Giers, minister of foreign affairs, has written a letter to Chakir Pasha, Turkish embassador, announcing Russia's acceptance of the Porte's proposal to send an Ottoman commissioner to Bulgaria to act in conjunction with a Russian lieutenant-governor of princely rank, but instead of the latter being subordinate to the Ottoman commissioner, Russia proposes that the Ottoman commissioner have second rank. The Porte's acceptance of the Russian General Emroth as lieutenant-governor of Bulgaria is regarded as pledging Turkish support to Russian proposals involving, if necessary, Turkish initiative action in Bulgaria.

The Socialists.

BERNE, Oct. 5.—The conference of socialists at St. Gall was resumed on Tuesday afternoon. The police did not interfere. The Conference passed resolutions protesting against various things. To-day's discussion was regarding the course to be pursued by the socialist party in future elections. A large majority opposed any compromise with the bourgeoise parties even when second ballots should be necessary. A resolution in accordance with that sentiment was adopted.

Casualty Cases.

GOODRICH, Ont., Oct. 5.—Captain John McDonald of the schooner J. G. Kalfage, reports that Monday, about 30 miles off Thunder Bay, Lake Huron, he saw a three-masted vessel founder with all hands. The Kalfage, owing to a terrific storm, was unable to ascertain the name or render any assistance.

AMANDA, O., Oct. 5.—By the explosion of a boiler in David Young's saw mill, George Lape, Percey Lape, Simon Young and Amos Young were instantly killed, and Mrs. Simon Young seriously injured.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 5.—Six million feet of valuable lumber in the yards and on the docks here burned last night. Loss, $100,000; insurance small.

THE KNIGHTS.

Third Day—An Address from Davitt, Etc.

MINNEAPOLIS, October 5. — Michael Davitt, the Irish agitator, arrived here last night. He is making the trip for his health and will return in a week. This morning he addressed the National Assembly Knights of Labor with reference to the condition of affairs in Ireland. He said that the Irish people were bearing with fortitude, indignities worse than those that had precipitated many bloody revolutions. It was impossible to tell whether more stringent measures might not force them to an outbreak which of course was the great object of the tories. As for the home rule sentiment it was spreading like wild fire over Britain, and there was no doubt that were an election held next year Gladstone would sweep the country like a whirlwind. The preliminary work was well in hand.

said of the relations of the Irish question to the cause of labor, that the Irish movement has rendered a service to the cause of reform elsewhere. He spoke at length regarding the struggle of labor, and said that the spectacle of the Knights of Labor working without interference from the government or interfering with the government, gives them across the water a pride and a pleasure. "We view it," said he, "with interest and expectancy; the masses view it with alarm."

At the conclusion of Mr. Davitt's speech, Mr. Powderly introduced resolutions which were received with enthusiasm, expressing hearty sympathy for the Irish people, condemning the oppressive laws by which Ireland is governed and the of the English government. After reading the resolution, five minute addresses were made by the delegates, all favorable to the adoption of the resolution.

The convention of the Knights of Labor was called to order at 9:15 this morning. The unfinished work of the credentials committee was first taken up. When the session closed last night the credentials of only 180 delegates had been passed upon. It is understood that numerous protests were referred back to the credentials committee for additional information. The committee finished its work and it was ready to report this morning. The revised list of protests is not large, probably four and perhaps eight. It is quite likely however that the fight over the protests will be

LONG AND BITTER.

The whole afternoon session was consumed in considering protest cases. The case of J. R. Buchanan of Denver was decided against his admission. This vote is announced as being strictly on the question of law, his local assembly having been suspended for non-payment of dues and he with it.

Buchanan took his defeat very philosophically, and admitted that Powderly had treated him very fairly, giving him more privileges on the floor than he had ever seen him give any one.

The convention was flooded with circulars issued by the executive board of District Assembly 82, criticising Powderly and commenting unfavorably upon his speech and the replies to attacks made upon him at Denver last May. As soon as Buchanan's case was disposed of, the against Assembly 163, of Pennsylvania, were taken up. The report of the committee in favor of admitting the delegates was adopted. The next cases taken up were those of Chas. S. Leib and Geo. A. Schilling, of District 24, Chicago, and the gentlemen were quickly admitted, as also were delegates from District 53, District Assembly 216, Shoemakers' National District, were barred out owing to the fact that the district had held no meeting since receiving its charter. A few more cases will be taken up to-morrow. They will be speedily disposed of, and the regular routine of business will move forward.

Powderly's address will probably be read to morrow. There is little doubt but that the convention will last two to three weeks.

The Railroads.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The examination of John I. Blair with reference to the cost of the construction of the Sioux City & Pacific road, was concluded to-day, but nothing of general interest was elicited.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Ex-Governor Pattison, chairman of the Pacific Investigation Commission, to night made an absolute denial of the statement recently published to the effect that the commission incurred a bill of $22,000 in junketing over the Central Pacific. The only bill that the company had against the commission was for $1,900 for personal fares and expenses of the commission and stenographers, and $4,500 for an engine made necessary in the investigation.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 5.—The annual meeting of the Louisville & Nashville Railway was held to-day. The old officers were re-elected. The report of the president for the year shows: Gross earnings, $15,080,584; operating expenses, $9,047,053; net earnings after deducting all charges against income, interest and rentals, $1,407,874.

Criminalities.

DENVER, Oct. 5. — The story that John Kemper, who recently had lived in Denver, had written a letter to his sister in Dayton, Ohio, confessing to murdering his father in Cincinnati in 1885, is discredited here. It is reported his sister is about to be married, and if any such letter has been written, those here acquainted with the case believe it was for the purpose of getting money from her, young Kemper thinking his sister would be willing liberally rather than have a scandal just at the time of her marriage.

MOSCOW, Oct. 5.—Workmen in the cotton mill at Klin raised a riot to-day and set fire to the factory, which was destroyed. Many persons were killed. Troops have been sent to restore order. The cause of the riot is not stated.

DUBLIN, Oct. 5. — Callinan, one of the moonlighters implicated in the killing of Constable Whelahan, and who turned Queen's evidence, was taken to-day to Ennis to testify against his accomplices. He swore as to the plot against Sexton and identified seven of the prisoners as having participated in the killing of Whelahan. Callinan admitted that he planned a number of

MOONLIGHT RAIDS.

He said he had been in the pay of the police five years; that he received from Whelahan, just before the raiding of Sexton, a small sum of money in payment of his share for arranging the raid. This caused a sensation.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 5.—The federal grand jury, to-day, returned an indictment against T. McFeeley, station agent of the Manitoba Railroad at Moorehead, on the charge of a violation of the inter-state law previously mentioned in these dispatches. The Manitoba Railroad company was also indicted on the ground of aiding and abetting him.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—Several thousand female cigar makers gathered in one of the factories and engaged in a riot. The civil guards surrounded the factory. The women took possession of the building and barricaded it. They still hold the building.

CONFERENCE IN ALABAMA.

Twenty Baptisms Within the Last Half Year.

TRIMBLE, CULLMAN CO.,
Ala., Sept. 27, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

During our late conference we had a time of rejoicing and a spiritual repast which will be long remembered by the Elders who participated.

Our first meeting was held at 11 a.m. on Saturday the 24th inst. There were present on the occasion, President John Morgan; Wm. J. Woodbury, president of the Alabama Conference, and of the traveling Elders, Redick R. and Reuben W. Allred, Geo. W. Baker, Jr., Arthur O. Lee, Amasa M. Rich, Horace Morrill, David T. Hibbert and Hyrum B. Morris.

The Elders sang "Let Zion in her beauty rise." Prayer offered by Elder Geo. W. Baker after which the Elders sang "The Day Dawn is Breaking."

President Woodbury explained the object of the conference and spoke very forcibly on the necessity of complying with the

into the Church of Christ. Elders H. B. Morris, R. W. Allred, A. M. Rich and R. R. Allred spoke briefly upon the first principles of the Gospel.

President Morgan made a few closing remarks showing that condemnation comes through failing to keep the commandments of God, because we cease to progress.

The Elders sang "Hark listen to the trumpeters" and the benediction was pronounced by Elder A. O. Lee.

Sunday, 11 a. m. After singing "When the Rosy Light of Morning," prayer was offered by Elder A. O. Lee. The Elders sang, "Redeemer of Israel." A few opening remarks were made by Elders Baker and Morrill, when President Morgan followed with an elaborate discourse upon the Universal Apostasy, and Restoration of the Gospel. The hymn, "O, Say What is Truth," was sung and the closing prayer was offered by Elder R. R. Allred.

Council meetings were held each day in which much good counsel was given by President Morgan. Throughout our conference the Spirit of God was manifested and we feel that we can go to our fields of labor with renewed energy to work for the salvation of the souls of men.

Elders Redick and Reuben Allred are released to return home with the November company of Saints.

DURING THE LAST HALF YEAR

there have been twenty persons baptized and seventeen children blessed as a result of our labors. New fields of labor are being opened and the fruits of our labors will probably be realized in the near future, as the spirit of investigation has taken possession of a goodly number of people who appear to desire the truth.

We occasionally receive some persecution, but we "think it not strange," for so it was of old; but as a rule we are treated with kindness and we feel to thank the Lord that we are called to labor with a people who are proverbial for their hospitality.

Ever praying for the welfare of Zion and the ultimate triumph of the cause of truth, I remain your brother in the Gospel covenant,

GEORGE W. BAKER, JR.,
Clerk of Conference.
