WILL HONOR THE FOURTH.

Wedding Permits—Good Attendance at A. C. Summer School.

Special Correspondence.

Logan Cache Co., June 14.—Logan will celebrate Independence day. The committee which had the matter in hand have outlined the program as follows: There will be a parade and the big meeting at the Tabernacle will be the chief feature of the evening and the afternoon will be given over to the horse races, excepted in the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks.

Judge Howell will hold court here tomorrow and the trial of E. R. Davis will be set up for trial.

Joseph Morrison is removing his family to Fremont.

A large number of leading parties are going up the canyon today to be on hand when the law expels them.

Prof. Dole, who has charge of the police department at the Agricultural college, has been called and will accept a commission at the Agricultural college of Rhode Island.

Mr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.

Seventy-five teachers are attending the summer school at the Agricultural college.

Mrs. Mary Hansen Johnson, who underwent an operation yesterday on Tuesday, is still very ill. If no further complications arise, it is believed she will be out of danger in a day or two.

Roy Egert left this morning for Europe where he will fill a mission in England.

The funeral of Marian Adams was held at the Fifth Ward hall Wednesday, James A. M. Langton and William Hyde were the pallbearers.

A conference of the Germans of the state will be held at the tabernacle Sunday next.

PLEASANT GROVE.

SUDDEN CALL OF NOBLE WOMAN

Mrs. Olivia Pratt Driggs Closes Grand Career at 65.

Special Correspondence.

Pleasant Grove, Utah Co., June 12.—Mrs. Olivia Pratt Driggs, the eldest daughter of Parley P. Pratt and Mary Ann Frost Pratt, and wife of B. W. Driggs, died here at her home very Rutha—have preceded their mother to the great beyond. Mrs. Driggs is survived by one brother from her mother's family—Moroni L. Pratt of Provo—and one sister, Mrs. Mary Ann Winters of Salt Lake.

The home of "Aunt Ollie," as she was affectionately called, was a social center, especially while her family was being reared. Her home was a scene of warmth and cheer of her friends. She was a "honor-maker" in the best sense, and her doors were always open to young and old. From her was radiated a spirit of culture and cheer that helped to leave the soberer side of life, and the spirit of the gospel was not absent, for Sister Driggs remained always true to the faith of her parents. In the passing away of this sister, there can be no regrets other than the sorrow of parting from her, and the loss of a great consolation in the pleasant memories in which her life has been enshined.

The funeral will be held in Clark's hall Friday, June 15, at 1 p.m.

PAYSON.

ANOTHER SAD DROWNING.

Little Three-Year-Old Girl Falls in Sa-lem Canal With Fatal Results.

Special Correspondence.

Paysonton, Utah Co., June 14.—A sad accident occurred last evening at a place east of Payson—the south end of Salem field. The three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Payson Curtis fell into the Salem canal, which runs along the south end of the field, and was drowned before being rescued.

She floated about half a mile from the place where she fell. It was not known how far she swam, and not until after she was missed a search was instituted, with the sad result as stated. The mother of the child was staying with her mother, Rutha Hulse, when the father was out herding sheep, and word will have to be had from him before time is set for the funeral.

UNION.

CHORISTER HONORED.

William E. Cox Surprised and Made Recipient of Presentation.

Union Salt Lake Co., June 12.—Thursday evening is the regular time for choir practice in Union Ward, and June 7, 1906, being near the birthday of Chorister William E. Cox, Mrs. Sarah Buckston, leader of the Union Ward singing class, and president of the Primary, and Mrs. Sarah A. Denby, whose husband, Charles E. Denby, is now filling a mission in Germany, organized a surprise for the chorister, and mentioned, with justifiable pride, that baton their parents obeyed.

Many leaders we had, All good and none bad, To make better his chair and his waird Without discord or jar.

Singers' tempers to mar, Gets and keeps them at work hard.

In eighteen seventy-seven, With few dollars for leaven, We began holding up our waird choir.

And every year we sing, In foul weather or fine.

He has given us his best without hire.

Now the daughters and sons Of the very same ones.

Who his choir many years ago made,

Let their young voice ring To the rhythmic song of that baton their parents obeyed.

Many leaders we had, All good and none bad,

To make better his chair and his waird Without discord or jar.

Singers' tempers to mar, Gets and keeps them at work hard.

In tune and in time, In meter and rhyme.

In harmony pleasant and true;

So tonight we are in fine

With kind words of cheer Give your honor where honor is due.

To you and your wife—

She the bright of the sun,

Her home noble and grandly at home,

When children fifteen Caused much trouble, we ween.

But not one from right path doth yet roam.

Kings of armies may die From their darts not shot.

To the world a bond is this; These are ours, give you to your best.

On the earth a grip is this;

As three times rolled on.

Giving self to God, leaving the rest.

And on the natal day.

Let us wish them alway,

The peace true religion can bring.

And many years more,

Hope we you have in store.

To guide us and lead us while we sing.

MRS. OLIVIA P. DRIGGS.

sudden yesterday morning. She had spent the evening before until about 10 o'clock visiting with friends, and when they left she seemed as well as for some time past; but when her son, who had slept in a nearby room, arose, it was found that his mother had passed away. For two years and more the gall woman has been a constant sufferer of lung asthma, and within recent months her health was added upon by heart disease, which was the immediate cause of her death.

Mrs. Driggs was the first child born of Mormon missionary parents in a foreign land. She came to the world in Manchester, England, June 1, 1841, while her father and mother were carrying the gospel to the world—their mother being the first woman missionary to a foreign land from the Latter-day Saints. As the family returned to Nauvoo, after a stay of six months, the Missionary of the steamer Maid of Lowe, another daughter was born to them. They were met by the Prophet Joseph, who carried the missionary mother ashore from the steamer.

The family remained in Nauvoo until almost all the Saints had left for the west. They passed through all the trying times which marked the expulsion from Illinois, being in the city when the battle of Nauvoo occurred. When here they removed to Winter Quarters, where they stayed until just after the pioneers had started west. Mrs. Pratt took her children and returned to Maine to make a farewell visit with her parents before she left for the valley.

During the year 1852 the family crossed the plains. They remained in Salt Lake one year, then removed to Pleasant Grove, where they have since resided.

In 1857 the deceased was married to R. W. Driggs by Orson Hyde. A few months later the sad news of the assassination of her lamented father came.

Mrs. Driggs was a pioneer mother and an exemplary one. She passed through the struggles incident to the settling of Utah, meeting and mastering her difficulties with courage and cheer. Twelve children came to bless the home of these eight still live—B. W. Driggs, Jr., M. Luna Clark, Pres. Don C. Driggs of Teton Stake, Ida.

Parley Driggs, Leland M. Driggs, and George Smith. Mrs. Alice Brown, and Will K. Driggs. Four daughters—Ella, Mrs. Florence Todd, Beatrice and

It Costs Nothing

To find out for a certainty whether or not your heart is affected. One person in four has a weak heart; it may be you. If so, you should know it now, and save serious consequences. If you have short breath, fluttering, palpitation, hungry spells, hot flushes; if you cannot lie on left side; if you have fainting or smothering spells, pain around heart, in side and arms, your heart is weak, and perhaps diseased. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure will relieve you. Try a bottle, and see how quickly your condition will improve.
