AT FOUR O'CLOCK.

THE RESULT OF THE INQUEST. THE investigation into the cause of the death of W. G. Young, which has been conducted by Coroner G. J. Taylor and complete vindication of Dr. S. B. Young from the suspicions which were entertained concerning him. It should be understood that there has been no prosecution. That term used during the inquiry was incorrect. Dr. Young has not been legally "charged" with anything.

The friends of the deceased conceive i the idea that he had perhaps died from some injury, and that this was the reason why more information had not been given in regard to his demise. But they and that portion of the public who have paid attention to the evidence, are now thoroughly convinced that G. W. Young died from natural causes. The Coroner's jury so decide, after a full and ample inquest, with a post morten examination conducted by the best surgical and medical talent of this report to the Secretary of the Interior city. It is decided also that the deceased did not die of smallpox, although the eruption which appeared on his head and body, as described by the witnesses, gave good reasons to designinglor unscrupulous brains than those not familiar with the disease to his. But even if he had been the father suspect that it was that infectious mal-

The utmost that can be said by the enemies of Dr. Young is that he was indiscreet. No one can entertain the idea for a moment that he did any intentional wrong. The friends of the deceased did not think that Dr. Young had personally misused the patient, but imagined that perhaps in his insanity he had become obstrepolous and we trust that the animus which appeared to exist in the first part of the inquiry has passed away. "Foul play" are hard words to be used against any one, and it is now evident that they were entirely unjustifiable. Dr. S. B. Young's establishment is a private in-Young's establishment is a private institution, not a public one, and therefore any reflection cast upon it are directed to him and not to any municipal, county, or territorial authority. We are glad to see that Dr. Young come out of this investigation entirely freed from the faintest cloud of the suspicion entertained against him at its in-

THE TWO DRUMMERS TRY TO EXPLAIN.

WE have this day received the annexed communication in reference to an article copied into this paper from the Chicago Tribune:

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, January 25, 1884.

In your issue of the 23d, you republish an article purporting to be an interview between several commercial travellers and a reporter of the Chicago Tribune. Now we are the representatives of the firms named in your article, and wish to deny any responsibility for the same, as we did not use the language ascribed to us or advance any idea that would be construed as

You say we admitted the interview, which is true, but we did not say we would retract, as we had nothing to retract, not having said what your article makes us say. We hope you will publish this, not that we do it to curry haver with anyone, but as an act of fairness to us both.

This reply amounts to little or nothing. It does not help the cause of the writers in the least. They shelter themselves under the statement that they did "not use the language ascribed to them." That is merely to say that the words which appeared in print were the reporter's, without any explanation as to where without any explanation as to where he obtained the ideas which he put into words. The truth is that when spoken to on the subject in Chicago, one of them attempted to deny the whole thing, but this being in the parlance of Burlock a Co. wish to send men like this to get the trade of the "Mormon" people, that's all right. It is equally right for "Mormon" firms to refuse commercial relations with men who, after transacting business and receiving courtesies, go away and palign them and do them all the injury possible to small minds and narrow souls.

GOVERNOR MURRAY'S MODESTY.

Among the accusations against Gover-nor Murray that have floated about the country, we have never heard that anybody ever charged him with mod-esty. That sentiment is very far from being conspicuous in his composition. When he is made the central figure of a group of persons belonging to that class who wish the Constitution overridden that they may seize the reins of local government and rule and ruin, he takes it as a matter of course. This class is composed of chronic receptionists, and when Mr. Murray gets an ovation from them, the scene would not be destitute of an

He is overwhelmed with the weight of his own greatness, and seeks to hide from his better judgment the giaring fact that the whole affair is a "modern sham."

It appears that Mr. Murray's unfortion has led him into a serious blunder, causing him to go so far as to claim the authorship of a portion of President Arthur's message. This assumption is tainted with grim incongruity as coming from a person whose public documents-notably the and message to the Territorial Legislature-were not in any sense original with him, having been prepared by other and more subtle but not more of the anti-" Mormon" portion of the President's Message—which we greatly doubt-it says but little for his good sense and discretion that he should for the sake of being considered something extra, make the fact known. Besides, such a preposterous claim was almost in the nature of an insult to Mr. Arthur, who, judging from the fol-lowing from the Omaha Bee, evidently views it in that light:

but imagined that perhaps in his insanity he had become obstrepolous and that violence had been used, resulting fatally. The investigation, which Dr. Young was anxious to have complete, dissipates this notion entirely. Softening of the brain led to the patient's decase. Both parties to the investigation have stated to the Coroner that they are thoroughly satisfied with the inquest, and that has been fair, impartial and complete.

It is clear that the sick man was kindly treated and supplied with such nourishment as he could! receive, and the impression that he had died of small-pox caused his hurried funeral without notice to his distant relatives, and the dislike to allow the news to go abroad that such a contagious disease existed at the asylum prompted further concealment, which, in our opinion was a grave error of judgment.

This statement is to the effect that the other person was damaged by a dog he was keeping, and that the amount demanded in reparation was excessive. Our correspondent should be able to see that a statement of any such matter from only one of the parties involved is entirely insufficlent ground upon which to base a judgment, and even if both sides offthe matter were before us, it is not a subject for treatment in a public journal. Besides the evident smallness of the issue good judgment would point out that a settlement by local methods within easy reach is the object that should be aimed at in a petty dispute in which it is impossible for the public to have any interest. Speaking in a general way, we would advise people everywhere to take the most pacific, friendly and inexpensive methods of settling little difficulties that occasionally arise even in the best ordered communities. In every place in Utah, where the Latter-day Saints live, there is no difficulty in having just conclusions reached in all ordinary misunderstandings and satisfactory solutions and arrangements are within easy reach unless one or the other, or all of the parties interested are persis-tently unreasonable and obdurate. In all matters of misunderstanding, passion should be held in subjection and questions in dispute be approached for NEPHI, Juab County, Utah, January 24th, 1884 In the year 1880 there were five Sundays in the month of Frbruary, and many writers through the newspapers at home and abroad tried to show when that had occurred before. I find in the month of February this year, 1884, five Fridays, and this has occurred before in the years 1760, 1788, 1628 and 1856, and will occur in the years 1924, 1952, 1980, 2008, 2004, 2002, 2104. If your readers will examine the above they will see that this does not occur at regular intervals, but that it is 40 years apart sometimes and at other times only 28 years, or occasionally only 12 years, as they will observe between the years 2002 and 2104.

WILLIAM GREENHALGH. HEAD-DREAS PARTY, — Paris, it seems, has invented a new amusement. It gives what are called the dinner parties en tete at which each of the guests must come with his head made up to represent some historical person or at least in the style of some picturesque period. Only the head is to be made up. The rest of the body may be clothed in the ordinary garb of the nineteenth century. As one reads of this strange custom, one esamot help thinking how very ludicrons a dinner party got up on this plan must appear to the more reasonable among its members and how curiously appropriate in the mouth of each guest ludght be the words of the Athenian weaver Bottom: "What do you see? You see an assnead of your own, do you?"

continents with the cut tof his clothes, lately tried to carry out some portion of the new plan in London by going wherever he was asked with his head made up in what he fondly fancied to be the likeness of a Roman emperor; but it was not a great success.— White-hall Review. Politicians' Wives. — Talking of funerals and flowers, we met the pretty wife of a prominent politician at the funeral of the wife of a rich coal man, who employs 200 or 300 laborers. She seemed to be quite lonely among the great crowd of Irish people who assembled to do honor to their dead countrywoman. On expressing our susprise at meeting her she said: "Oh, I didn't know the dead woman. I never saw her in my life; but I 'do' the funerals for Jack (that isn't his name). It's a matter of politics, and he doesn't always have time. We always send flowers, too. This kind of people appreciate attentions of that sort, and it tells when election comes—at least Jack says so." So now it appears that the wives of prominent politicians who have any social position are in politics, though debarred from voting. They 'do' the funerals, the weddings, the dinners and the social "inflowence" business generally, for the benefit of the party.—Pittsburg Dispatch.
