HOME FROM CALIFORNIA.

Elder Parkinson Speaks of the Progress of Church Work in that State.

The "News" had a pleasant call Saturday from Elder F. C. Parkinson of Franklin, Idaho, who returned, April 17th from a mission to California, for which section he left this city, April 7, 1896.

Elder Parkinson reports the work in California onward and upward. He says the Elders are making many friends, and in traveling without purse and scrip find the blessing of the Lord bountifully bestowed upon them. Branches of the Church are being organized throughout the state. The prejudice that once existed is no longer in evidence. In fact, says Elder Parkinson, conditions for the spread of the truth are all that could be wished for. The papers are quite friendly in their reports of meetings and all in all the prospects for future work are exceedingly bright.

Elder Parkinson spent seven months in San Jose and seventeen in San Francisco, while for a time he presided over the northern conference of the Golden Gate state. Arriving in the field, he fell in with the Tabernacle choir on its visit to the fair, and in this feature he greatly enjoyed among many others. The great drought in California, says Elder Parkinson, is causing much uneasiness and stock are being shipped out daily by the carloads.

Priesthood Meeting.

The monthly Priesthood meeting of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion was held Saturday, commencing at 11 a.m. Besides the Salt Lake presidency there were present three Patriarchs, Elder George R. Wallace, of the presidency of the High Priests' quorum; eleven presidents of Seventies, three high councilors, representatives of the presiding officers of the wards of the Stake except the Second, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Sugar House, Mountain Dell, Riverton, East Jordan, Hunter, and Pleasant Green, and members of the presidency of the First, Second, Fourth, Thirteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-fifth quorum of Elders, representatives of the lesser Priesthood and of the Stake organizations of the Sunday schools and M. I. A. On the recommendation of their Bishops, nine brethren were authorized to be ordained Elders. The detailed report, by wards, of contributions to the Pioneer monument fund was read, and the ward members were urged to greater liberality in this direction.

Addresses were made by Elders Geo. B. Wallace, Orson F. Whitney, Joseph E. Taylor, Angus M. Cannon and Geo. Goddard.

Their remarks being chiefly in the line of exhortation to faithfulness both in prosperity and in adversity, and to the acknowledgment of God's hand in all troubles, the necessity of a larger attendance at quarterly meetings and at the meetings of the Stake conference and of the utmost diligence in the performance of Church duties; the necessity of the recruiting process being encouraged among the Latter-day Saints and the young recruits being exhorted to purity while serving their country.

Adjourned to Saturday, June 11, at 10 a. m., when the first meeting of the Stake conference would be held.

For a Mothers' Congress.

A number of women in this city have recently been interested in planning a mothers' congress for Utah. Educators and mothers feel that such a congress will be very helpful. A meeting for the purpose of arranging for such a congress will be held Tuesday, May 10, at 10:30 a. m., in the woman's club room, city and county building. All interested are invited to be present.

Found His Relative.

Today we received a letter of thanks from Mr. O. J. Wilson, who called on Saturday to inquire for a relative, formerly Miss Hannah Savage, whose married name he did not know. The request for information was published in Saturday's "News," and that evening was seen and responded to by the lady, who is Mrs. Hannah B. Angell of this city. Her husband was the late Truman O. Angell, architect of the Salt Lake Temple, and one of the early Utah Pioneers.

SERVICES AT THE TABERNACLE

Elder Orson F. Whitney Addresses the Saints Sunday Afternoon.

His Theme, Teachers and Teaching—The Mission of Moses, Jesus Christ and Joseph Smith.

Elder Angus M. Cannon, president of the Salt Lake Stake, presided over the services at the Tabernacle Sunday afternoon, May 8, 1898.

The choir sang the hymn:

Great is the Lord 'tis good to praise
His high and holy name.

Prayer was offered by Elder Arthur Winter.

The choir and congregation sang:

God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform.

Elder Orson F. Whitney addressed the congregation. In commencing the speaker referred to the great responsibility of being a teacher, even temporarily, in the Latter-day Saints. In fact the duty of being a teacher of men in any age of the world was a responsibility great in its magnitude. Moses, Jesus Christ and Joseph Smith, said the speaker, were the three greatest teachers that had ever lived upon the earth, and their teachings had lived and would live through the countless ages of eternity. Jesus Christ was the great lawgiver. The principles he taught not in this earth was the insignia of greater and more glorious truths than had ever before been introduced. Moses was the great founder of jurisprudence because of the laws introduced by him. Joseph Smith, although reviled and ridiculed, had planted a tree which had borne fruit throughout the world. In all planes the great good that he had accomplished. Jesus and truly said, men did not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of thistles, and this being the case no good achievement could be wrought and unless having a divine source as seats.

Elder Whitney dilated on the early-day teachings of Moses. He also spoke of the instructions given by Jesus Christ to those of His disciples, when He spoke unto them as one having authority and not as the scribes and pharisees. Jesus came not to destroy but which could not be fulfilled, for as He had stated, His mission was to fulfill. He taught the people to love their enemies and to do all that could be done in endeavoring to become perfect even as the Father Himself was perfect. There was no offense to these teachings which caused the people to open their eyes in wonderment, for many had been taught under the Mosaic law, they knew nothing higher and therefore were hardly prepared for the new teachings of Jesus. His was a higher law and its purpose was the supplanting of that which had been in force for years before. It helped mankind to attain that perfection desired, and was therefore as essential in the consummation of God's purposes, as anything that had ever been introduced. It caught the laboring in the poor on earth and with all men and in this wasted the great significance and importance of Christ's mission.

Speaking of the Prophet Joseph and his teachings, Elder Whitney dwelt upon the similarity of them as compared with the words laid down by the Savior. The Golden Rule was a part of the Gospel in this dispensation, as it was anciently and its violation brought out infliction of punishment, as its strict observance brought the reward of eternal salvation. Follow me, said the Savior; if ye love me, keep my commandments. These commandments they were a vital part of the Gospel and should be adhered to by all claiming allegiance in His name.

Joseph Smith, in the inquisitiveness of a thoughtful boy, was led to seek Father in prayer. His prayer was answered by a vision. The Father and Son appeared unto him, told him of the lack of authority existing upon the earth and of the restoration of the Gospel which was to be brought about by the due time of the Lord. The Gospel was restored through the instrumentality of that boy, and its restoration had been accomplished by the same teachings laid down by the Savior during His earthly career. Its glory was beyond description, its surroundings ineffable and heavenly. Mankind, through obedience to its principles, could become like unto God. They attain a station of the highest exaltation—a destiny which awaited all who would follow in His steps.

The choir sang the anthem:

O Father whose almighty power.

Benediction was pronounced by Elder Brigham Young of the Council of Apostles.

THIEVES ARE OPERATING.

Suburban Hen-Houses and Residences Suffer at Their Hands.

Thieves are operating in the southeastern part of the city. On Friday night the hen coop on the premises of George Nichols, 477 west Seventh South street, was entered and several ducks and chickens stolen. Yesterday afternoon the house of Thomas Hemmingway, a Rapid Transit street car conductor, 525 west Seventh South, was burglarized in the owner's absence, but nothing of any particular value taken.

Seeking to Find a Relative.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kerr are in Salt Lake City, on a visit from Indiana. They are staying at the Palace Rooming house, 153½ west South Temple street. Mrs. Kerr is a granddaughter of William Mendenhall, formerly of Wayne county, Indiana. Her grandfather's sister came to Utah many years ago, and when last heard of, about a year since, she was residing in this city. She has been in correspondence with Mrs. Kerr's mother, but the name of her husband's name is unknown to Mrs. Kerr, who would be greatly pleased to learn something of her, and if possible to meet her. It is understood that the lady being inquired after made a visit to Indiana some years ago, and any person possessing the information desired by Mrs. Kerr will confer a favor by communicating promptly, at the address given.

Strange Ideas of Salt.

Superstitions concerning salt are widely scattered over the world. When the Chinese observed the last festival of the year literally called "rounding the year," a portion of the ceremony consists in building a bonfire of pine wood before the ancestral tablets of the family. Upon the flames salt is thrown and the crackling which it occasions is regarded as an omen of good luck for the following year.

WHEN NATURE

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is the Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co.
