ADMINISTRATIONS ARE VINDICATED.

Committee Finds no Evidence of Graft in Administrations of Ex-Mayor Glasmann.

SKREEN FILES MORE CHARGES.

Peter Shupe Discharged—Pitiable Condition of Affairs Brought Out At the Trial.

Ogden, Utah, Feb. 2.—The vindication meeting of the past two city administrations of Ogden was held last evening with City Councilman William Craig acting as chairman. The meeting was held in the city council chamber, there being present besides the law committee and ex-Mayor Glasmann about 25 owners of slot machines, a few gamblers and spectators.

One peculiar feature about the meeting was that there were no accusers present to set forth wherein any of the city officials were guilty of grafting. Subpoena had been issued by the law committee and served by Chief of Police Browning on a majority of the owners of slot machines and gambling houses, requesting their presence at the meeting.

Ex-Mayor Glasmann addressed the committee stating that the calling of the meeting had been laughed at by some of our enemies, said he, "have delighted in referring to grafts in the past two administrations, and some papers have openly charged that some city officials had grafted from the slot machine owners and gamblers, and that these things that caused me to ask for the investigation. He thought that the men who had made the charges would have honor enough to come before the committee and disclose their knowledge of the grafting. Mr. Glasmann was sorry the district attorney, who he says has been one of the most outspoken in making such charges, was not present. "If he has evidence of grafting why don't he file information in the courts and punish the persons whom he claims have received the grafts," said the speaker. The witnesses who had been subpoenaed were then sworn by Recorder Critchlow and the examination commenced, but it was a decidedly one-sided affair, as Mr. Glasmann was the only one who asked any questions.

The following gentlemen, owners of slot machines, were sworn: C. H. Smith, Denny A. Smith, J. E. Davidson, T. C. Foley, A. M. Van der Vlies, L. Bossato, Thomas Tenney, E. A. Munsel and John Baumeister, and those gambling houses: J. F. Smith, John Hamner, Louis Seville, and Eugene Leavitt. Of each gentleman these questions were asked:

Have you ever paid to any city official, city councilman, committee of city councilmen, chairman of the police committee, mayor or anyone else money or its equivalent for the privilege of running slot machines or to conduct any other business?

Have you paid to any other person or persons directly or indirectly money or anything else or other considerations? Answer—No.

Have you ever offered to bribe any one for the privilege of running slot machines or gambling houses? Answer—No.

If any one should accuse you of doing any city official or any other person directly or indirectly for the privilege of running slot machines or gambling houses, what would you say that their statements were, true or false? Answer—False.

Chief of Police Browning was asked a number of questions along similar lines and gave similar answers.

The following letter from District Attorney Hulaniski was read:

"W. J. Critchlow, City Recorder: 'Dear Sir—In accordance with your request, I hereby acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo in relation to my appearance as a witness before a committee of the city council appointed to investigate charges of graft against certain city officers, during the administration of ex-Mayor Glasmann. You understand that an investigation of that kind could only be called for the purpose of eliciting evidence with a view to a prosecution of the guilty parties. As prosecuting attorney, I shall be glad to receive any information developed by such investigation, but it would be manifestly improper for me, as district attorney, to disclose any confidential communication given me in my official capacity which are privileged under the law. For that reason I shall not appear. Very respectfully, (Signed) 'GEO. HALVERSON.'"

Mr. Craig, in behalf of the committee, thanked all present for their attendance and was pleased that the city administration had been vindicated from the charge of grafting.

AMENDED CHARGES FILED.

Attorney Skeen Files Additional Accusations Against Councilman Chambers.

Ogden, Feb. 2.—Attorney J. D. Skeen, who has filed accusations in the Second district court against several of the Ogden city councilmen, charging them with fraudulently appropriating various sums of money to their own use from the city treasury, this morning filed an amended accusation in the district court against Councilman Chambers, wherein he alleges the offense previously published, and further alleges that Mr. Chambers willfully neglected to perform his official duty as city councilman in that he allowed and joined with the other councilmen in allowing claims to himself and the other councilmen without first inquiring into the legality and rightfulness of such claims, when by such inquiry of the city attorney he could and would have readily ascertained that each and every one of said claims was an improper and wrongful charge against the city of Ogden.

It is the duty of defendant to have opposed the allowance of such claims until he had made such inquiry. Mr. Skeen further alleges that defendant well knew that neither he nor the other councilmen whose claims were allowed had rendered to Ogden City any services for which said claims were allowed and paid, and so knowing, he neglected to perform his official duty as councilman in not opposing the allowance of these claims.

PETER SHUPE DISCHARGED.

Hearing Discloses Pitiable Condition Of Affairs.

Ogden, Feb. 2.—Hearing was completed last yesterday afternoon in the action brought by Sanitary Inspector Power against Peter Shupe, charging him with violating the quarantine laws of the state by removing from his home on Jan. 2, 1906, his niece, Blanch Shupe, 17 years of age, who was suffering from smallpox. The case was submitted to the jury, composed of J. J. Hancock, A. J. Watts, J. T. Mignault and R. A. Hicks, who, after being out for a short time, brought in a verdict of "not guilty," and the court discharged the defendant. The case was prosecuted by County Attorney Hulaniski, and Attorney N. J. Harris represented the defendant.

County Attorney Hulaniski argued that the case was one of the worst cases of disregard for the health and life of others that he had ever heard of, as Mr. Shupe admitted on the witness stand that after the doctors pronounced the disease with which the girl was suffering as smallpox, he took her to the depot, and paid for her ticket to Salt Lake City. The mitigating circumstances were, however, that defendant had a large family. This family refused to stay at his home, and insisted on going to Salt Lake City, and said that she would take poison if he did not let her go, hence he took her to the depot and paid for her ticket.

An unfortunate condition of affairs is that Blanch Shupe has no home or parental abode where she could go, her father and mother being divorced, and the mother now serving a term in the Idaho state prison for killing a man, and said as it may seem, her father, William Shupe, was brought into the courtroom immediately after the hearing of Peter Shupe, and convicted of drunkenness and sentenced to 10 days on the rock pile.

SCHOOL BOYS CAPTURED.

Roy McCall the boy who escaped last November with two other inmates of the State Industrial school, has been captured at Ely, Nevada, by the sheriff of that county, who wired the sheriff of this county of the boy's arrest. The arrest of McCall was made through watching the mail. A letter addressed to his mother was observed by the authorities, the post mark showing where he was. He was working in a surveying party.

Oswald Ferris the other Industrial school inmate who ran away and was captured at Omaha, was brought back to Ogden last evening by Asst. Supt. Kness of the school.

WINTER.

Hoary old winter, in grandeur enthroned, is swaying his scepter o'er regions sublime. Through centuries the burden of years have been borne, his strength has not waned by the rolling of time.

From the ocean the fog and the vapors arise, by his breath they are wafted to regions afar. And the chains of the ice from the earth to the skies have curtained the land from the light of the star.

The hillocks are dreaming "neath mantles of white. At the foot of the mountain whose broadening face is lighted with splendor reflecting the sun. From the sun to the flakes that are forming in space.

Unmeasured the plains, like great silent seas. Are hushed from the low of the herds they have fed. King winter has claimed the valleys and led. And lulled them to sleep in his snowy white bed.

Abashed at the loss of their mantles of green The trees and the shrubs are enshrouded in white. In lieu of the fruit that in summer is seen. The hickories sparkle and glimmer with light.

The roof of the castle the church and the cot. Glitter with sheetings of heavenly snow. Which winter the sovereign in grandeur hath brought. From the helmsmen turned pale to his kingdom below.

The skies have turned pale, while the moon cannot trace In the river or stream or lake crystalline line. The aurora that once reflected her face As she sailed far above a satellite queen.

The voice of the river is muffled and low. Like the soft breath of sleep in the dead of the night. It winds its way slowly entangling the snow. And mocking the sun with his far away light.

The breath of the waterfall freezes her spray. Strange figures of art from her foam are cast. And crystalline splendor the wild rocks array. While winter, the artist is lord of the field.
