

LIGHTS AND SHADOWS OF A CITY AS SEEN BY A SALT LAKE WOMAN

It does not seem quite right that our teachers, whose income barely carries them through the year, should be expected to contribute to everything in the way of special funds, entertainments, exhibitions, etc., simply to add still more to the good of the cause. The actual every day grind of teaching the young idea ought to suffice for the good of the cause.

If there are among God's creatures any more loyal, more zealous, more unselfish workers, than our school teachers, one does not care to seek them. Our teachers are good enough for us.

This does not mean to the point of extinction. To live and dress plainly, modestly, in one place, in one rut, year in, year out, with nothing more expected than—ing vacation to gather her forces mentally, physically, financially for the ensuing year. And a mighty aid in lessening her little bank account for the summer months would be in relieving her of any and all contribution to the numerous and sundry school affairs, that make for so large an amount in the long run.

SOME MISSING ONES. What has become of the old-fashioned boy who read Plutarch's "Lives?" What has become of the old-fashioned political leader who told the people what was best for them before he found out what the people wanted?

he knew? What has become of the old-fashioned father who was a companion of his boy?—Columbia (Mo.) Herald.

WOMEN ERECT MONUMENT. A monument to the memory of Theodore I. Estes, son of Sheriff and Mrs. William K. Estes, of Oak Ridge, Nelson county, Va., was unveiled Wednesday, the first anniversary of the death of the young man who was shot and killed by ex-Judge William G. Loving, manager of Thomas F. Ryan's Nelson county estate, Oak Ridge, because of alleged wrongs offered his young daughter Elizabeth. She was taken home by Estes, following a buggy ride, in a semiconscious condition, the father being led to believe that the girl had been drugged and then assaulted. The monument is the work of the women of Nelson county, as an evidence of their faith in the integrity of the young man. The monument stands on a hill overlooking the village of Lovings-ton. The unveiling ceremony was without speechmaking and without ostentation. The women who had been instrumental in erecting the shaft placed spring flowers on the grave of the young man. This inscription is engraved on the shaft: In Memoriam THEODORE IRVING ESTES, Born January 8, 1889, Died April 22, 1907, Erected to his memory by the friends who knew and loved him, and by those in many States who, not knowing him, asked to pay their tribute also to innocence and worth. "Stoop, angels, hither from the skies; There is no holier spot of ground Than this, where manly virtue lies & mourning women crowd."

AN ANCIENT HAND FIRE ENGINE. The antiquated fire engine shown in the cut is the Cascade, which was brought to this country from England more than a century ago. It was imported by a man named Vaughan and is now the property of the heirs of the original owner at Hallowell, Me.
