LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THEATRICAL. There was a pretty large audience last night at the benefit of Mr. Ravel, and of the playing throughout the evening, nothing else could be done. The books containing full instructions for the acquisition of art can be obtained for a trifling sum—not more than two or three dollars. Send to the Office, Cincinnati, for the Manual, Reporter's Companion and Phrase Book; study and master their contents; they are so plain and explicit that a teacher is unnecessary, and success will crown your labors.

Special Notices.

A NEW MINING COMPANY.—The following was received to-day by Western Union Telegraph:

CHICAGO.—The papers are now being drawn for the incorporation of a company, including six of the leading capitalists of Kansas, to work the Emma and other mines of Salt Lake. The Emma is now producing over one hundred thousand dollars a month. It is said to be the most productive mine in the world.

TRIBUTORIAL NEWS.—The following was received by Deseret Telegraph:

RICHMOND, 21. The Pioche stage arrived to-day, loaded with passengers, and had on board 500 pounds of bullion.

It is stated that F. D. Chase and Alexander remained before Justice Warden, at Reno, for the killing of McMurtry and discharged.

Michael Casey, who killed Gossen, was examined before Justice O. C. McDonald and admitted to bail in the sum of six thousand, to appear before the next grand jury.

RICHMOND, 21. The co-operative store here was broken into last night, and about fifty dollars stolen. The robbers are not yet caught.

LOGAN, 21. President Maughan has been very ill for a few days, but is now improving.

The weather lately has been very cold and windy.

There is but little hope respecting the value of an account of all being busy with crops.

PLATTEVILLE, 21. Robert Loder, of this place, accidentally shot himself through the left hand with a shotgun, to-day, in American Fork Canyon.

A man from Omaha is prospecting for coal in the foot hills between Battle Creek and Ogallala. He has found some coal, but coal and iron have been found and he says he is going his bottom dollar on it. He has eight men employed.

We have information, from a private source, that the coal discoveries alluded to above are in the neighborhood of two miles in length, and that some of the veins are nearly thirty feet in thickness.

LADY REPORTERS.—In a late number of the Reporter, a monthly journal published in London, and printed in the reporting style of phonography, its editor, Mr. Thomas Reed, in an article on "Lady Reporters," stated that he had never known a lady who was a competent phonographic reporter.

In to-day's paper appears a discourse delivered a short time since by Elder Orson Pratt, which, as our readers will see, was reported by Miss Julia Young, daughter of President Brigham Young. After translation it was submitted to Elder Pratt for revision, and he expressed great surprise and pleasure at finding it so accurately reported, there not being an omission from beginning to end.

This little circumstance should encourage our young folks in the pursuit of knowledge. Phonography is a beautiful art and one of the most useful in existence. Its acquisition requires no extra amount of intelligence, but perseverance only. Any boy or girl of ordinary intelligence, who takes up the art of writing or reading in the reporting style of phonography, has the power to write from 120 to 150 words a minute, and can do it with such facility that when they learn it, can be done they are filled with eagerness to learn how.

But in most cases they give out when they find that it cannot be attained in a few weeks, or even more than one in six or eight who are not willing to make the study until they have mastered the art. This is a great pity, for it really could be mastered by most of those who have a desire to it, but they would only persevere but persevered the art, for the reply given by the ancient mathematician Pythagoras, King is essentially true respecting phonography:—"there is no royal road" to its science.

Miss Julia Young and some thirty others commenced the study of shorthand a little over a year and a half ago, and though the whole class might now have been leaving writers had they been faithful in studying it; but phonography, after a few weeks' application, can be learned so easily that the labor must be continued or its acquirement is impossible. This is too much for most young folks, and if they continue to write, with ease and pleasure, they are able to write, with ease and pleasure, 120 words per minute, and to read it with ease when written; and if they continue their practice occasionally at lectures and hair practice occasionally
