

EVENING NEWS. Thursday, March 21, 1887.

FRAGMENTS.
 EGGS are now at 12c cents per dozen.
 LOOK out for silly tricks and traps to-morrow.
 BAIRD'S minstrels exhibit in Provo this evening.
 F. AUERBACH will return from the east this evening.
 YESTERDAY'S OGDEN Herald contains eight marriage announcements.
 PETER RHENGRUEN was admitted to citizenship in the Third District Court this morning.
 BAIRD'S Minstrels appear at the Theatre to-morrow evening. There will be no April fool nonsense about this.
 HON. JOHN T. CAINE will arrive from Washington to-morrow evening's train.
 LAST EVENING C. R. BARRATT, Esq., received official notice from Washington of his appointment as Postmaster of Salt Lake City.
 THE dog tax collector would reap a rich harvest by an official visit to Second and Third South streets, south of Pioneer Square.
 MRS. BROOKS, who shot at officer Brown, of Ogden, a few days ago, has been placed under $200 bonds to await the action of the grand jury.
 AN immense eagle, measuring nine feet from tip to tip of the wings, has been on exhibition in front of Hyde's fish and fruit market for several days past. The glorious bird was brought up from Southern Utah.
 IN the Police Court this morning, David O'Hara pleaded guilty to the charge of being drunk and was fined $5, which he will doubtless work out; John Hickey, on the same charge and plea, was taxed $5, which he paid.
 THE responsibility for the bad condition of the Devil's Gate road has been shifted on to ex-Governor Murray. The Legislature appropriated $1,000 to be used by Weber County in putting the road in repair, and Mr. Murray vetoed the appropriation bill.
 A somewhat serious case of assault and battery occurred in the French Park yesterday. John and William Cowen, for causes not yet brought to light, fell upon one William Bowen, with clubs, inflicting an ugly wound on the latter's head. An investigation is pending.—Territorial Enquirer, March 20.
 IT will be remembered that Brother Julius F. Wells was under the necessity of returning from a recent visit to the east earlier than he anticipated, owing to the sickness of his wife. The lady has been quite ill ever since, especially of late. We are pleased to be able to state that, on inquiry to-day, we learned that the condition of the patient was somewhat improved.
 THE performance of "Comrades," given in the Twentieth Ward school-house, last evening, by the dramatic company of that ward, was witnessed by a crowded house. The parts were all well acted. The performance concluded with a one act farce, "The Vegetable Vendor," which, judging from the applause and laughter, was a complete success. A few of the band was in attendance and discoursed some pleasing selections.
 TO-MORROW evening the Mutual Improvement Association of the Seventeenth Ward will give an entertainment in the ward house, commencing at 8 o'clock. The two act drama of "Noemie" will be given, followed by an olio in which Mrs. Nellie Bruce-Pugsley, Mr. H. S. Goddard and Mr. G. J. Bywater will give choice selections. The farce of "Tricks" will conclude the performance. Admission 25 cents.
 LAST evening C. H. Bliss, who was wounded in the stabbing affray at Price on Tuesday, was brought to the hospital in this city to be cared for. While the other party in the fight was kept at Provo; he has five wounds and Bliss two, but neither is dangerously injured. The row occurred over Bliss accusing White, foreman on the section on the D. & R. G. W. where Murray was killed, of being knocked off a handcar, at having run the car at a dangerously high rate of speed.
 "Historical Record"—The March number of this publication, by Elder Andrew Jensen, consists of a "Chronology of Important Events of the Year 1885." It is in conformity with the plan of the "Church Chronology," and should come in handy to all who will prove an excellent work of reference. The utmost care has been taken to have all dates, etc., correctly stated.
 Third District Court.—Following were the proceedings this morning, there being no session this afternoon.
 J. W. Cochran vs. David Duncombe; verdict for plaintiff of $55.
 In the matter of the estate of Anilla Hood; motion to modify and vacate order requiring administrator to pay money, heard on answer and showing made, submitted.
 Frank Wright vs. Aschelm et al.; motion of defendants for continuance granted on payment of costs, $140.55.
 D. B. Stover and W. J. McIntyre, petit jurors, were excused for the term.
 Peter Rhengreen was admitted to citizenship.
 Fanny Talk.—A ludicrous incident occurred in the Third District Court this morning. A case was on trial in which damages were claimed for a sheep-owner marking some of plaintiff's animals which had got into his herd; the attorney for the plaintiff, to offset the defendant's testimony, on his fact and engaged in the customary task of making the jury feel uncomfortable. He said, among other things, "These were our sheep; they strayed into the defendant's herd, what was his duty—to mark our sheep or send them back to us? Plainly, the latter; but he did not send back our sheep; on the contrary, he cut off our ears." It is to be hoped there is enough left for identification.
 Conference Theatricals.—The Home Dramatic Company of this city have, as has been announced before, secured for their Conference performance the assistance of Mr. Aaron A. Cummings, Miss Ivy Clawson and Little Miss Ardelie Cummings, all of Salt Lake. They will appear in excellent characters in "Rosedale" and "Lost in London." In the first named, Miss Clawson sustains the leading and difficult character of Rosa Leigh, Mr. Cummings his well known and highly successful impersonation of Eliot Grey and Little Miss Cummings, the boy-character of Arthur. The prominent members of the local company have also good characters.
 "Lost in London," another of the Home Dramatic's new productions, also affords fine opportunity for acting, and is undergoing careful and extensive preparation in the way of new scenery, etc.—Enquirer.

FATALITY INJURED. HON. LOREN FARR, OF OGDEN, HURT AT POCATELLO.

YESTERDAY Hon. Loren Farr, of Ogden, left that place on the Utah & Northern train to do some business in Idaho, and on reaching Pocatello last night met with an accident that, from the meagre account we have been able to obtain, will probably result fatally. The train arrived at Pocatello at 7:30 p. m., and it seems that Mr. Farr, for some reason, went out on the platform of the car. In some way he fell and received dangerous injuries, though just what caused him to fall is not definitely known. He was picked up and given the best attention that could be under the circumstances, and a telegram sent to his family in Ogden, stating what had happened, and that recovery was, to say the least, doubtful.
 This morning a telegram announced that he was falling fast, and that the physicians declared that he could not possibly recover. Steps were taken to convey him by special train from Ogden to convey him home. The full particulars of the terrible occurrence will probably be learned on the arrival of the northern train at Ogden at 4 p. m. to-day.
 This news will be received by a host of people with the most profound regret. Brother Farr being widely known and much respected, and being a man of considerable ability, manifested throughout a long and useful career. There will be deep sympathy for his family, on whom the sad intelligence falls with terrible force.
 "The Contributor."—The April number of the Contributor is before us, with an unusually excellent table of contents. The frontispiece is an artistic group of "Old Nauvoo Residents," and comprises views of the homes of President Brigham Young, Joseph C. Kimball, Wilford Woodruff and Bishop Edward Hunter. "The Rise and Fall of Nauvoo," by B. H. Roberts, chapter five, tells of the incorporation of the city and of the political rights secured the people by its famous charter. The third number of "The Eastern Question," by J. M. Farmer, is an admirable description of scenes in and about Constantinople. A story entitled "The Mission School," by Samuel Sorghum, will be read with interest in the chapter of "Biblical Cosmogony, on the Days and Date of Creation," will afford the student of science and Scripture food for reflection.
 The first number on "Electricity," by Prof. J. E. Talmage, appears, exhibiting several simple experiments to illustrate the presence of that wonderful force. A new poem, full of grace and beauty, by Bishop O. F. Whitney, is entitled, "The Mountain and the Valley." The editorial space is occupied by an "Epistle to the Young Men of Israel," by President Wilford Woodruff, written on his eightieth birthday and of peculiar interest to the young people of Zion. The number concludes with "Comments of the Day," from the pen of President Joseph F. Smith.
 A magazine of home literature with everything new and original within its pages, of such merit as the Contributor supplies every month, should find a welcome place in the hearts and homes of the people.

THE CATAWBA NATION. Their Present Condition—Victims of Lecherous Whites—Indians Emancipated—Gospel—Arms Under Whipped—Another Shot Band Slightly Wounded—Another Scheme to Murder Them.

CATAWBA INDIAN NATION. S. C., March 23d, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

Comparatively little is known concerning the Catawba Indians. Less than one hundred survive to remind the rising generation of the once formidable tribe which the effacing finger of time and the ravages of disease have reduced to the present diminutive number. Their reservation, which some forty odd years since comprised fifteen square miles, has, through the cunning of white settlers, gradually been reduced to one square mile. The State of South Carolina annually appropriates eight hundred dollars to their support, which is their main dependence, as they only cultivate a small portion of their land. All of their time, with the exception of that occupied in farming and working for neighboring whites, is spent in hunting and fishing. The Catawba River, which forms their eastern and northern boundary line, affords them excellent fishing facilities. During the winter season the Indian women are extensively engaged in manufacturing crockery, which contrivance considerably towards their support.
 For years the Indian nation have been the favorite resort of lecherous whites, who's devilish lusts the young Indian women have been made to satisfy. The Catawbas, unlike other tribes, have had no advantage of any educational facility other than that afforded by the missionaries. Though considerable difficulty was experienced in introducing the Gospel amongst the Indians, yet the labors of the Elders have been crowned with encouraging success, which is abundantly evident in the fact that four-fifths of the Catawbas have identified themselves with the Church. Eight of the Catawba Salaries migrated to Colorado last month, and the rest would gladly follow their example, had they the necessary means. The lecherousness which obtained amongst the Indians first visited it, was powerfully checked by the doctrine of Christ, or "Mormonism," called "Mormonism" over the change that the "Mormon" Elders had wrought, and thinking that their expulsion from that section of country would cause the Indians to return to their former state, a mob was organized with a view to exterminate the Elders. Directed by a Judas to whose the brethren had been converted, the mob succeeded in capturing one, the other making good his escape. As he reached the woods he was caught sight of by the mob, who fired some twenty rounds at him, a shot taking effect in his chest, making a slight flesh wound. Having cruelly castigated the one whom they approached, the mob decamped as suddenly as it had approached. "This barbarous deed was committed within the pale of civilization," by men professing to be followers of the meek and lowly Jesus. While retaining under the ban of excommunication, they have been permitted to remain in the country, and to the indignation of the people, such atrocities can go unwhipped of justice in America, the land of liberty, religious tolerance and civilization. Surely such a display of Christianianity and humanity out-herods and out-does the barbarism of the savage Indians.
 Since the above described incident occurred the Elders have occasionally visited the Indian nation, regardless of the threatened violence. It is believed that the Elders' expulsion had occasioned no release, but that it, to the contrary, had caused them to adhere more tenaciously than before to the principles inculcated in "Mormonism," and suspecting that their tenacity was due to secret visits of the "Mormons," the conscience of the regulators in order to prevent from coming amongst the Indians any more, threatened to hang the first Elder they had their hands on. These measures being found insufficient to accomplish their object, it became necessary to adopt something more expeditious. Accordingly they devised the diabolical plan of attaching heavy weights to the first Mormon Elder they apprehended and then sinking him in the Catawba River. It was undoubtedly a reluctance to share this fate with a companion and myself, while on my first visit to the Indians, leave our comfortable quarters by the fire and scamp into the woods, while a crowd of drunken men, armed with the Nation's weapons, lay in wait for the first Mormon Elder they could lay hands on.
