Enlarged and Planting Increased.

Special Correspondence, Carsy, Blaine Co., Idaho, July 18.-The cheering prospect for an abundant supply of water this season, inspired many to exert themselves to larger crops and break up much more new land. After the crops were put in this spring, the people of the valley turned out, almost to a man, and en-larged the canals, expending in labor and money over two thousand dollars. We now have two large canals, one on each side of the river, carrying ove twelve thousand inches. By filling the two canals a body of water is obtained of sufficient quantity to allow of nearly all the farmers irrigating at the same time, without taking turns.
