Verdict of Not Guilty in the Wool Stealing Case. Special Correspondence.

Farmington, Utah, Sept 3, 1901.—The case of the State of Utah vs. Carl Englebretsen, charged with burglary, which has been on trial before Judge Rolapp and a jury during all of Saturday last and the greater part of today, the concluding day of this term, was finally terminated today by the jury rendering a verdict of "not guilty." The defendant sold some wool to the A. M. Goslen hide house in Salt Lake City on March 15th 1900, which with going towards the slaughter house the night before the robbery, with the same outfit from which he sold the wool to Goslen, and that ever since that time the defendant had been away from his home, cluding the officers; and most of the time out of the state. The theory of the defense was that the defendant came into possession of the wool by legitimate trade. The jury consisted of Levi S. Heywood, W. H. Mansell, Geo. Tubbs, Israel Barlow, Jr., Wm. E. Smith, Robt. N. Watts, George P. Adams and George R. Rampton.
It is interesting to note that after the defendant had regained his liberty, he made the remark "that all I stole was the wool anyhow." The attorneys in the case were District Attorney A. B. Hayes, of Ogden, representing the state, and Ray Van Cott, representing the defense, Congressman Sutherland was among Light Crops of Shrunken Wheat Stock Doing Well on Range.

Special Correspondence. Holden, Millard Co., Sept., 2 .- Bro Sidney Teaples, an old and respected itizen and ploneer, has been very sick for ten weeks past, at times his life has almost been despaired of, his many friends will be pleased to learn that he is at present slowly recovering, but is still very weak.

The threshing is just completed, the crops have been quite light especially the wheat, it being nearly all shrunken. Several miners have been at work tunneling into the hill at the old Whisky creek prospect, but on account of disigreements arising between them they have stopped work and have gone to their homes at Eureka, Utah. The fruit crop is all that could be asked, so far as quantity goes, but is of an inferior quality, especially the peaches and plums.

Stock is doing very well upon the range this summer, though there has been some losses through poison or other causes.
