A Hoard of Money for War.

The German News has published the following curious information on the war treasure of the German empire:

"This treasure amounts to the sum of one hundred and fifty millions (150,000,000) of thalers. In the fortress of Spandau, in the vicinity of Berlin, stands a circular tower called Zuliusthurm, which contains the war treasure of the empire. On the 7th ult., Counsellors Michaelis and Guenther presented the keys of this tower to the committee of the debts of the empire, which, of that day, commenced the first examination of this important deposit.

"On the first floor are placed, in gold coin of ten and twenty marks, forty-five millions of marks; on the second floor seventy-five millions. Every million of thalers is deposited upon a separate shelf, and is itself divided into ten compartments, each containing three hundred thousand marks, which are enclosed in boxes.

"The examination was performed so that the members of the committee counted the shelves and the boxes. Then the boxes were weighed one after another. When a box appeared too light or too heavy, the enclosed coin was counted. A few soldiers, with the necessary qualifications, had been summoned for this work. The committee found everything right.

"A member of the committee informed our reporter that the tower has still a good deal of room, and that the treasure could be greatly increased without filling it. Several hours were necessary to perform this examination.

"There are two keys for the treasure; one has been intrusted to the chancellor, the other is in the hands of the president of the committee on the debts of the empire. The lock is so constructed that both keys are indispensably necessary to open it. These funds are to be reserved, and in case of another war, are intended to defray the preliminary expenses of mobilizing the army—preparing it for the field. The former Prussian treasure, reserved for this purpose, which consisted of thirty millions of thalers, was deposited in the vaults of the old royal palace of Berlin."

The tower of Spandau, so to speak, conceals in its vaults the destiny of nations, and its contents may enable Germany at some period in the future to decide upon the peace or war of Europe.

BREVITIES.

When a man cannot drive well, he makes up the deficiency of edution in that respect by severely pounding his animals.

The planting of trees around mining claims is urged in California. They are so handy to have in lynching neighborhoods.

Billy Patterson died in Georgia, the other day, and his heirs and assigns will not carry out that enquiry concerning the personality of the individual who once struck him. The blow seems to have been fatal at last.

The Olympia, Oregon, Record says: "Half-grown girls, in bands of four or five, trip gaily through the streets of Salem every morning on their way to the 'fountain of knowledge,' with their arms full of books, their minds full of boys, and their mouths full of gum-drops."

When old Sam Crowder, down in Pike, was running for Justice of the Peace, his wife, in anticipation of the honers in store for her, said, "My dear, when you get to be Justice of the peace what will I be?" "You," said old Sam, "why you'll be the [illegible] and you [illegible] was."

Gentlemen who notice a suspicious looking character dogging their footsteps will be careful neither to knock him down nor call in the police. Remember that it is fashionable, new-a-days, for wives to employ private detectives, and it is not pleasing to expose your domestic troubles to the cold glare of an unsympathizing public.—Cincinnati Times.

We once knew a man who had large hot legs of roasted mutton every morning for his breakfast; and what gigantic pieces de resistance he had for his dinner only his cook and butcher knew. When he bought turkeys he bought two—one for himself and one for his family. No Emperor in the days of Roman decadence ever ate more than this honest New England citizen, and he lived to be eighty, in spite of hot sausages every night just before going to bed.—Ex.

You feel a superiority over the whole human race as you stand at the altar with your fair young bride. You would not change places with the President. Yet a few short years; a few whiskings of broom-handles, an untimely stoppage or two of wafted flat-irons, and your weary body will rest under the swaying willow, while some young gallant will bring your late afflicted partner out to the cemetery and whisper love in her ear, as together they strew pea-nut shells over your grave. "Oh, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"—Carson Tribune.

TESTIMONIAL.
Editor Deseret News:
I had a son who appeared to be in ill health, being in a pining condition. I was unable to determine the nature of the disease which affected him. A few days since I placed him under the treatment of Dr. Plant, who, within a few hours, and without pain or inconvenience to the lad, freed the patient of a tape-worm about forty feet long, since which time the boy has been improving. I wish you to publish this circumstance, as much for the benefit of people afflicted similarly to my boy as to award credit to Dr. Plant, whose skill in that line of complaints can be relied on, besides his charges are moderate.
