With the beginning of June Cupid literally mounts the throne of the social kingdom, and will wave his scepter triumphantly over a myriad of events created by his wiles. The chief affair of the coming week will be the marriage of Utah's chief executive, Gov. Heber M. Wells, and Miss Emily Katz, the event to take place on June 5. Several other weddings are set for the same day, among them those of Mr. John W. Young, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Young, and Miss Gertrude M. Watkins, of Provo; and Miss Minnie Fleming and Mr. George Krueger. Preceding these an interesting event will take place on June 4th in the marriage of Miss Mary Burke and Mr. R. H. Channing. On the 6th the marriages of Miss Florence Howat and Mr. Louis E. Schoppe, Miss Mamle Swan and Mr. Jesse Badger will take place, that of Miss Colton and Dr. Worthington occurs on the 8th, and with the other similar functions arranged, the week will prove a notable one in the wedding annals of the city. One of the most elaborate events of the week was the luncheon given this afternoon by Mrs. Robert Smith in honor of Miss Burke and Miss Colton. The event took place at the Alta club, the gold room being used. The color scheme was pink and white, and was carried out in a beautiful ar-rangement of pink and white roses intertwined with green vines. Favors of pink and white roses were used, white being for the brides and pink for the others. The guests were: Miss Burke, Miss Colton, Mrs. D. S. Murray, Mrs. W. M. Ferry, Mrs. Ed. Ferry, Mrs. D. C. Roberts, Miss Blanch Burke, Miss Nason, Mrs. Adelaide Nason Miss Lowe Miss Glie, Miss Park, Mrs. Donnell Miss Thorn, Miss McCornick, Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Post, Miss Judge, Miss Keith, Mrs. Hempstead, Mrs. J. designed by the architect, Miss Jo. sephine Wright Chapman of Boston, Miss Chapman is a daughter of Mrs. Mary A, Chapman, who has the literary program in charge, Mrs, Chapman is the state regent of the Daugaters of the Revolution of Massachuetts.

The musical program is under the able management of Mrs. Frank E. Fitz, who is fast winning a leading position among the many society ladies now entering the field of composition. Her songs have been generously wel-comed by the lovers of refined and en. during music, and she has reached the hearts of the people through the sin-cerity of her writings. She is a daugh-ter of David Slade, for more than arty years a prominent business man of Boston, through him having inherited Massachusetts, and is directly descena ed from that illustrious Nicholas Dan. forth identified with the founding of Harvard College. She is an ardent pa-Any triotic worker. Was The Dramatic Review, in a recent is, shall sue, said: "While for four years Mrs. Fitz has given to the public occasional compositions of rare charm, which have met with responsive appreciation, she achieved the highest encomium of her work when at the farewell concert of the Twentleth Century Exposition that eminent master leader, John Philip Sousa, played her leading composition, 'America Columbia.' The applause which followed is a promise of the popular favor with which it is bound to meet." This song has been adopted by the Daughters of the Revolution as

DINING ROOM IN FERDINAND P. DICKERT'S RESIDENCE.

The home of Ferdinand P. Dickert is one of the many fine residences which adorn South Main street, It is situated between Fifth and Sixth South streets, and although built some years ago is most convenient and tasteful in arrangement and architecture. The cut above snows the dining room-a spacious apartment whose many windows and general style make it an extremely attractive one. The room is tastefully furnished, its most tempting feature being the numerous pieces of rare china with which cabinets, sideboards and shelves are filled, comprising a collection made in the various countries of Europe visited by Mr. Dickert's family when abroad. Across the hall from the dining room is the parlor, a handsome apartment done in walnut and furnished in pale green; and opening from this on the west is the library, appropriately filled with bookshelves, writing desks, lounging, and easy chairs necessary to the comfort and attractiveness of the ideal reading and writing room. The sleeping apartments are upstairs, and are similar in spaciousness and comfort to those below.
