

THE EVENING NEWS.

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

"Abandoned to Fate," at the Opera House, to-morrow night.

"The Young Lady," at the Theatre, by the Dramatic Association Company.

Concert for the benefit of the Sunday School Union at the Theatre, to-morrow night.

The storm appears to have spent its strength and the prospect is excellent for pleasant conference weather.

W. B. Dodridge has established his headquarters at Ogden, as superintendent of the Utah & Northern Pacific, and Mr. C. E. Wurtelle, formerly of the Oregon Short Line, has become superintendent of the western division of the Utah Pacific, in place of Mr. D. C. Jones.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Don't Forget.—Do not forget the concert to-morrow night, in the Theatre, for the benefit of the Sunday School Union. It will be a splendid affair. Get your seats now and avoid the rush.

Opera House.—"Abandoned to Fate," the attraction provided at the Opera House for to-morrow night. We understand it to be in the nature of a reading by Mr. Hays, illustrated by pictures.

"Relief of Lucknow."—To-morrow night the sensational play of "Relief of Lucknow," by the Relief of Lucknow, will be put upon the boards of the Salt Lake Theatre by the Dramatic Association. It is a piece that generally draws well, and we expect to-morrow's performance will be no exception to the rule.

N. W. S. A. Convention.—Slates E. B. Wells and Zina D. H. Young, delegates from Utah to the National Woman's Suffrage Association Convention, returned from Omaha last evening. The Utah delegates received numerous courtesies, and Mr. Wells was re-elected Vice-President of the Association for Utah. The Convention was held from Tuesday, Sept. 25th, till Thursday, Sept. 27th. It did a great deal of good enlightening people with whom they met upon the situation of affairs in this Territory.

Mandamus.—This morning, a writ of mandamus was served upon Judge F. D. Richards, requiring him to turn over his office as Probate Judge of Weber County, with books, papers and other official documents, to the Governor's appointee, J. N. Kimball, or show cause why this should not be done. The time for the return of the writ is set for the 10th of October, in the First District Court, before Judge Emerson, the same day as the cases are set in the Third District Court. Thus it will be seen that the plan to have all cases in the Territory managed in this city does not prevail among the board appointees.

Order by the Commission.—The Commission has issued the following order:

Ordered that there be four additional polling places established in Beaver County, as follows, viz: The mine office at the Cave Mine, in Minersville Precinct.

At the Carbonate Mine in Grampian Precinct.

At the Horne Silver Mine in Grampian Precinct.

At the Shaulmine in Salt Precinct.

And the Registration officer of the county is instructed to furnish to the judges of said additional polling places, respectively, copies of the precinct registration list, of those precincts in which said additional polling places are situated, and to the judges of each of said polling places, as required in rule 5 of the rules governing registration officers.

Appropriate Suggestions.—Let the children who take part in the concert on Saturday evening come with warm clothing on. They should all meet together in each ward at the meeting house, and there be brought in comfortable conveyances to the Assembly Hall punctually at half-past six, to enable Brother Evan Stephens to properly arrange them before entering the Tabernacle.

Present will please carry out the suggestion, and be sure to have them at the meeting house by six o'clock, to enable the children to be properly arranged for the concert.

The Bishops of each Ward are particularly requested to have suitable teams provided for the purpose of not only taking the children there but home again after the concert is over. The sudden change of the weather has suggested this arrangement, and we have full confidence in its being cheerfully complied with.

Respectfully,
GEORGE Q. CANNON.

Feet Features.—Messrs. Solomon Brothers & Gold, boot and shoe manufacturers of this city, state that they have made some interesting observations in their business operations regarding the feet of people of different nationalities. The result is that, as a rule, the feet of people of British birth represent the widest range of variety, their being no national rule as to shape, being a heterogeneous mixture of the thin, the thick, the high, the low, the long and the short. The feet of Scandinavians are, as a rule, of the long and fat type, with a remarkable width at the toes. Their children born here are, on the contrary, provided with short, broad, "stumpy" feet, very high at the instep, being the reverse of the pedal extremities of their parents. People born in the European States have, as a rule long, thin feet, the rule among native Utahans is contrary to this, theirs being generally short and "stubby." For this reason many of the eastern makers of boots and shoes are comparative useless for the young men of this community. Making a point to observe these peculiarities in feet, the Solomon Brothers & Gold in the selection of the kinds of coverings for the feet, are endeavoring to meet the demand being in favor of the short, broad, and high order.

A TERRIBLE OUTRAGE.

TWO YOUNG LADIES ARE BRUTALLY BEATEN WHILE IN BED.

At 2 o'clock this morning a fearful outrage was perpetrated at the house of Mr. G. D. Schell, of the Seventeenth Ward. In a north room of the house Mr. Schell's three step-daughters, Misses Etta, Blanche and Daisy, the two first named in one bed. At the hour mentioned a man entered the bed-chamber and Miss Etta and Blanche over the head, inflicting long, galling lashes, cutting clear to the skin. Miss Etta's face is also so severely swollen, as to greatly disfigure her features, and the weapon used by the intending murderer dug a hole into the young lady's shoulder.

The younger girl, Daisy, was awakened by one of her sisters calling out that some one was striking her, and she uttered a loud scream, which awakened Mrs. Schell, who was sleeping in another part of the house. She seized a lamp and rushed to the scene of the outrage, and just as she reached the door of the room adjoining the bedroom, Etta made her appearance covered with blood, presenting a horrible spectacle, and the perpetrator of the deed was just going through the west window. Unfortunately he had gone too far for Mrs. Schell to get a glimpse of him, as he was already on the right of the movement of the blind as it flapped against the window when the man sprang out.

A surgeon was called to attend to the unfortunate young ladies. The scalp wounds were sewed and the patients received the attentions necessary under the circumstances, considering the nature of the injuries they are doing as well as could be expected, although Miss Etta manifests very distressing symptoms, including vomiting, chills and fever.

It is a diabolical deed that only a human fiend could be guilty of perpetrating. The affair has caused quite a sensation and the police are endeavoring to ascertain the identity of the microcosm, the chief of the force taking the lead practically and personally in affixing the matter. A general impression prevails that the act must have been the work of an insane person, and quite a number appeared to believe it probable that it was done by Richard Matthews, who has been demented for a considerable time, and resides in the adjoining house. But a searching investigation of his person and premises failed to confirm this suspicion. The inquiry developed the important fact, however, that some of the neighbors have been in dread of Mr. Matthews. It was learned that, in his insane state, he had imagined himself some great judge and had passed judgment upon different persons, condemning them to suffer various penalties, and he has stated that persons who did not act according to his decrees should die, or that he should kill them. It need not be here stated that a man in his condition should be properly cared for.

A gentleman named Mechem, from the country, is stopping with his sister, Mrs. Snyder, a short distance north of Mr. Schell's. At the time at which the outrage occurred his horses were making a noise. Supposing they had got among his grain sacks, he went out, and when he was close to the fence two men ran past on the sidewalk, coming from the direction of the Schell residence, and he thought from their stepping lightly that they were seeking to elude observation.

Mrs. Schell states that at four different times a man has been seen prowling around the premises, and once observed by the girls looking in at the window of their bedroom.

It is to be hoped that the perpetrator of the outrage will be successfully tracked. At present, however, the matter appears to be enveloped in mystery.

The young ladies upon whom the outrage was committed, Misses Etta and Blanche, are aged respectively twenty-four and twenty.

A SWEET SUBJECT.

SUGAR MAKING A DEMONSTRATED SUCCESS.

On the invitation of Arthur Stayer, Esq., a number of gentlemen of this city visited him at Farmington on Wednesday evening to inspect the progress he had made in sugar manufacture. Messrs. S. P. Tessel and George E. Bourne, commissioners on the subject of sugar making, appointed by the Legislature, were among the party. The others were Messrs. T. E. Taylor, C. W. Stayer, H. A. Tessel and a representative from the staff of the News.

"The sugar factory was in full tilt" when the party arrived, and the process was intelligently explained by Mr. D. L. Williams, a sugar expert, and a Pennsylvania, engaged by Mr. Stayer to give the institution a practical start. The machinery is run by steam power, and it was interesting to see the machinery juke express, it dried and desolved out of the huge "squeezers" at the rate of six gallons a minute.

From the press the liquid flows into the supply tanks. From there it goes to the two heaters, which have a capacity of 240 gallons each. The high temperature is produced by the injection of steam into the tanks. The fluid then undergoes a liming process until a powerful alkaline condition is reached, the degree of which is demonstrated by slipping red paper, which is transformed to a bright blue. The lime causes a heavy sediment to fall. From the top of this the clear liquid is conveyed to the cooling pans, of which there are two, of 144 gallons each. At this point what is called Solution B of the Stewart process is added. It transforms the condition of the juice from an insaluble mass to a beautiful transparent amber appearance, necessary to make presentable sugar. The next stage is that of evaporation, which is done by concentrating the syrup to a density of 13 pounds to the gallon. It is then placed in large, shallow vats, where the sugar granulates. We saw about 14,000 of the saccharine substance undergoing that process. The party picked out a vat with a stick, tested it and pronounced it good. After granulation ensues the top syrup is drawn off the sugary mass and passes through a centrifugal machine, it dried and the transformation from the juice of the cane to sugar is complete.

The remaining liquid is susceptible of going through a similar order of process, and a considerable percentage of sugar being obtained from it, but some manufacturers, including Mr. Stayer, prefer not to do this, but rather provide the public with a superior article of syrup.

Small quantities of sugar and syrup which had been put through the whole process were produced. It is a large-scale operation, and it is a matter of their quality it is only necessary to state that two such experienced gentlemen as Messrs. Tessel and Bourne pronounced it excellent and, so far as could be judged, superior to the Sandwich Islands productions. The manufacture, therefore, of a good article of sugar in Utah is an assured success, and it remains to be seen whether the financial part of the industry can be led to a similar gratifying result. Mr. Stayer is sanguine on that point, and hope is an element of enterprise that frequently leads to ultimate victory.

The Legislature provided a premium of $5,000 to be awarded to the person producing in Utah 7,000 pounds of good merchantable sugar. Mr. Stayer has fully the requisite quantity in process of manufacture, and there is no reason to doubt that he will obtain the prize, which his industry has earned. According to an estimate made by Mr. Tessel on the ground there was a sufficient quantity of material on hand, including the unmanipulated cane, to produce 150 sacks of sugar of 100 lbs. each.

Mr. Arthur Stayer, Jr., was sent East some time since for the purpose of obtaining a thorough training, which he procured, and has the requisite ability to continue the manufacture. Mr. Williams, now in charge, is an adept, and from the precise and careful manner in which he answers every question on the subject of sugar making, he evidently has a thorough technical as well as practical comprehension of the process, as limited space will not admit of a more extended article.
