St. Louis Fair Inquiry-Adjournment Scenes and Goodbyes. At a few minutes before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the Sixth Utah Legislature adjourned, and within half an hour every trace of legislators and legislation had disappeared from the state building. In the senate it was Williams who moved the final adjournment, with every member in his seat except Callister, Johnson, and Loose.

Galleries.

In the house the motion was made by Thompson at almost the same minute. The final act of the senate was a resolution condenatory of the investigation of the St. Louis Fair commission by the house. In private conversations senators had referred to the investigation as the cheapest piece of penny politics in their experience; in the formal resolutions they condemned it as unnecessary and as accomplishing nothing, except to spread a false impression regarding members of the commission. The roast on the investigators was complete and discrediting to the full.

In order not to engage in a contro-versy with the house over the matter, the senate had withheld its action unthe senate had withheld its action un-til the last hours of the Legislature. At noon yesterday a caucus of hold-over members drew up the resolution, and after the appropriation bill had been disposed of in the afternoon the resolution was presented to the senate as a committee of the whole. It was upapimously adouted as a committee of the whole. It was unanimously adopted. In explaining its nature and the need for it Senator Lawrence stated that of the members of the commission Hoyt Sherman was in Europe, Samuel New-house in New York, and Senator John-son absent from the senate, with none of the commission in a position to make a statement on the floor of the Legis-lature. He therefore thought that the senate should in justice to the mem-bers of the commission, express its con-fidence in their integrity. The resolution points out the fact that all of the facts brought out by the investigators of a criminal nature were known before the investigation started.

known before the investigation started. known before the investigation started, and that they were in the possession of the proper prosecuting officers. It calls attention to the fact that the defaulting secretary was an em-ploye and not a members of the commission and that his shortage had been discovered and made good to the commission bat fits report was com-bill went to the engrossing clerk. Its total amount as sent in to the governor is $150,000 in excess of the revenue. HOW THE HOUSE DIED. Fun and Frolic Characterized

The Closing Hours, The house of representatives gave up the ghost at 4:45 yesterday afternoon, the motion to adjourn being made by Representative Thompson, author of the famous H. B. 55. Before adjourn-ment the members induiged in all sorts of frivolity, the central figure of which was Representative Wilson of Wasatch, whose desk was torn from its moorings whose desk was torn from its moorings and placed in the ante-room, while a scarecrow was erected in its stead, much to the perturbation of the revered lawmaker

PAY FOR OVERTIME. Another incident which marked the Another incident which marked the closing hours of the session, was 6 heated debate over the report of the committee on contingent expenses. For overtime the officers of the house and certain attaches of the joint building were allowed compensation, the former getting from $16 to $25 and the latter from $20 to $40, according to the work performed. Wilson objected to emperformed. Wilson objected to em-ployes receiving more than their su-periors, but his objection was overruled and the laborer was adjudged worthy of his hire. REVISION OF JOURNAL.

There was a lively scrap over the re-There was a lively scrap over the re-vision of the journal, the committee re-commending that the sum of $84 each be allowed those appointed to do its work. The committee refused to do it for this sum and promptly resigned. Kuchler and Fishburn explained that the work would not consume more than 21 days and they believed $4 per day was a sufficient amount for this serwas a sufficient amount for this ser-vice. After considerable talk back and vice. After considerable tark back and forth each member of the committee was allowed $125, and Marks and Lu-ther were appointed in place of Roberts and McCrea, who refused to do the work at any figure. The chief clerk is the third member of the committee.

HULL DEFENDS PRICE. The effort by the senate to reduce the The effort by the senate to reduce the salary of the assistant state statisti-cian, was hotly resented by Speaker Hull, who characterized it as "a most disgraceful proceeding." He said it was a personal fight, waged by a certain member of the senate in order to vent personal spieen, and he did not think the house should stand for it. Nor did they as the members voted to concur they, as the members voted to concur in all senate amendments but that reducing the state statistician's allow-ance from $5,000 to $4,000. The assistant statistician is Fred Price.

A LITTLE ROMANCE. A certain little romance between a representative from the north and one of the fair committee clerks, came near culminating in marriage. Marks headed the conspiracy by arising to a ques-tion of personal privilege and inquiring what progress had been made by the happy pair. The blushing swain en-deavored to make reply, but he was ruled out or order and Deputy County Clerk Smith was ushered in to perform the ceremony. As the invitations, how-ever, had not been issued, the affair was postponed till a later date. the affair

Maj. George R. Smith. army paymas-ter, is in town today from de-partment headquarters at Denver, to pay off the troops at Fort Douglas. Major Smith stands two on the list of majors, and graduated from West Point in 1875. He was promoted from first lieutenant in the Twelfth infaniry to be major in the pay department in 1882, and will soon be a lieutenant colonel. He is a native of New York.

Elder J. G. Duffin, president of the Central States mission, is in the city to remain for conference. Elder Duffin states that the mission over which he presides is in excellent condition and that the Elders are making good headway among the people, being well re-ceived and having ample opportunity to preach the Gospel. In Kansas City conditions are especially encouraging, there being a lively branch of the Church in that city.

Things are lively today at the Salt Lake Stock yards. There are four cars of sheep from the Descret Livestock in transit from the west association deserts to Wasatch, Wyo, for grazing; also two cars of cattle for Gunnison from the vicinity of Pocatello; a load of horses from Oregon bound to Ten nessee, and a load of horses from Ne vada for the southern states. Twenty loads of fat sheep for the eastern markets complete the day's record.

To the Editor.

To the Editor. With the sole purpose of posting the Saints as to the bitter and brutal feel-ing exhibited by Reorganiters, I beg to submit the following anti-"Mormon" excerpt from a sermon delivered in St. Louis, Mo., by R. C. Evans, counselor to Joseph Smith. "IN CONCLUSION I MAKE THE FEARLESS STATE-MENT THAT BRIGHAM YOUNG WAS a WHOREMONGER AND A VILLAIN OF THE BLACKEST DYE." Zion's Ensign Feb 16 1905 page 4 Zion's Ensign, Feb. 16, 1905, page 4.

This is a weekly paper published by the Reorganite church, at Independence, Mo.

Let me state that I intimately knew President Brigham Young, the great planeer, colonizer, etc., for over a quar-ter of a century, and in every moral element I know he had no superiors. He was clean, God-serving, noble and generous, a man of the strictest probity, and he lived above supidan by these and he lived above suspicion by those who knew him best. SENATE NOT RESPONSIBLE.

Resolved. That this senate deplores the act of the said house of representatives, and said committee, and said sub-committee, in the undue and unwar-ranted aspersions cast thereby upon the character of the men composition com-mission, and that the senate does here-by disclaim any responsibility for or any connection with the action of the of Representatives in its proceedings.

APPROPRIATIONS PASSED UP.

The senate did not linger long on the appropriation bill when it came in from the house with a refusal to concur in certain amendments as to the bureau of statistics and the state penitentiary cottages. Lawrence wanted the house refusal turned down and another com-mittee appointed. But he had no support as the country members wanted to get away, and they felt that it was high time to pass the whole matter up to the governor. A motion to concur carried almost unanimously, and the SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.
