Nightshade—a mosquito net.
Never confide secrets to your relatives—blood will tell.

A Female Typographical Union was recently formed in New York.

Corn in Texas is offered for ten cents a bushel, and yet finds no sale.

Two "mansions" in New York have furniture covered with cashmere bairns.

Baltimore has an oyster police, whose it is to protect the fisheries against predations.

Ku-Klux Vidette and Ultra Ku-Klux are the ominous names of two Texan newspapers.

How true it is what Euripides says: Against stupidity the very gods fight invictorious.

Woman—the first gatherer of fruit—by picking the first apple she caused the first pair to fall.

A writer in Chamber's Journal says:
"Woman, woman, take my advice and learn to cook."

The lightning in Georgia recently shaved a man's head clean of hair. He made a hair-breadth escape.

"How do you get that lovely perfume?" asked one lady of another. "It's sent to me," she replied.

"I'm sitting on the style, Mary!" said the envious young girl, as she plunged down on her sister's hat and feathers.

A darkey's instructions for putting on a coat were: "Fust de right arm, den de left, and den gib one general convulsion."

There is frequently more pleasure in giving a thing than receiving it. This applies especially to medicine, advice and kicks.

In Maine there is a school teacher who, until a few days since, had never heard a hand-organ. Her pupils were given a recess to enjoy the luxury with her.

The ignorance of some persons in the matter of simple arithmetic is perfectly astounding. We know a man who has been engaged his whole lifetime in "looking out for number one."

A toast at an Irish society's dinner at Cincinnati: "Here's to the president of the society, Patrick O'Rafferty, may he live to ate the hen that scratches over his grave."

Among the devices for preserving fresh meat so that it will keep on long voyages, the Australians thoroughly dry it, and make it into a fine powder.
Five pounds of meat make one pound of powder.

Speaking of the high price of beef, a Philadelphia paper says that the same steers five years ago would have bellowed at joy at bringing one-half of the present rates.

An old maiden lady in New York has left all her property for the purpose of building a church, on condition that her body and bones shall be made into mortar with which to lay the cornerstone.

"What a pity it is," said a lady to Garrick, "that you are not taller." "I should be happy, indeed, madam," replied Garrick, "to be higher in your estimation."

Garibaldi resigned his seat in the Italian Parliament, because of his physical infirmities and conscious inability to aid a generous and abandoned people.

A decree from the Czar saved the life of a boy, around whose neck the noose had been adjusted and in another moment would have been hanged for poisoning a whole family. He is to work all his life in Siberia.

The biggest pumpkin of the year in France has just been crowned. It was grown in the valley of the Loire, weighed 328 pounds, and was sold to a Paris fruiterer for 300 francs.

The morality of the shopkeepers in London may be estimated from the fact that no less than 659 of them were convicted, within the past six months for using false weights and measures.

Within a month a thousand men have been discharged from the Woolwich docks and London papers are discussing how they shall be employed.
Emigration has been proposed as a remedy.

Cardinal Bonaparte is trying to eclipse the doings of the British Bible Society by having an edition of the Bible printed in Arabic and distributed at his private expense among the Arab tribes.

A conceited coxcomb, with a very patronizing air, called out to an Irish laborer: "Here, you bog-trotter, come and tell me the greatest lie you can, and I will treat you to a glass of Irish whisky." "By my word," said Pat, "an yer honor's a gentleman."

An Italian claims to have invented a vegetable "felt" capable of resisting a rifle ball. He proposes to use it in clothing soldiers, and the French Government has an idea of trying it instead of iron armor plating vessels for war.

An exchange says: It is convenient to farmers and croppers to have an easy and correct rule by which to measure corn in cribs. Here is one—having leveled the corn in the crib, measure the length, breadth and depth, and deduct from the product one-fifth, and you have the number of bushels in the ear—for shelled corn take one-half of this. To be strictly correct, add half a bushel for every one hundred. Farmers who are fond of cyphering can test the correctness of this rule by taking 1,720 solid inches for a foot, and 2,159 inches in a bushel, and see that the latter is nearly one-fifth larger than the former.
