

WEBER STAKE CONFERENCE.

OGDEN, July 24, 1888.

The two days' quarterly conference, which closed last evening, was among the most interesting of similar gatherings which have ever been held in this city. The change of holding such meetings from Saturday and Sunday, to Sunday and Monday has thus far been successful. Saturday is always a busy day, and the people from the settlements who invariably throng Ogden on the last day of the week, consume most of the time while here in transacting business and visiting friends; so that while we are sure of a large congregation at the Tabernacle on the Sabbath day, but few comparatively attend meetings on Saturday.

There was excellent attendance during this conference.

AMONG THE VISITORS

were Apostles F. D. Richards and John W. Taylor; Dr. Edward Isaacson, of Salt Lake, and President Geo. O. Pitkin, of the Cache Valley Stake.

The opening remarks of President Shurtliff were reasonable and appropriate. The reports of the Bishops showed the people throughout the Stake to be alive and generally up with the spirit of the times, in the discharge of their duties, although there were, of course, some exceptions.

The people in this Stake are living in peace—there are but very few difficulties reported, and still fewer of a serious nature. The scarcity of water for irrigating purposes caused much anxiety and some unfriendly feeling, but these have subsided, and all now appear to do their best to assist each other. There are a number of poor reported in nearly all the wards, but these are all provided for, so that none of them either need to nor do suffer for the necessities of life.

The health of the people, in general, is good and not much sickness nor many deaths were reported. The Relief Societies were said to be unceasing in their labors to assist the needy, to administer to the afflicted and comfort those in distress.

The Young Men's and Young Ladies Improvement Associations are doing an excellent work among the youth; they are increasing their enrollment and are advancing in the acquirement of knowledge which will fit them for positions of usefulness, of honor and trust in the community in a time to come. They are sustained and encouraged by leading citizens of all the wards.

was made in the reports, of the Sabbath schools in the Weber Stake. The general report of the stake superintendent showed the enrollment of the children of the Latter-day Saints in the county. Between 4000 and 5000 are enrolled, and special visits are being made by the teachers to procure not only the enrollment, but the attendance of all who are eligible.

The remarks of the Apostles were replete with sound advice, warning the Saints against indulgence in the evils of the times. They exhorted the Saints to observe the Sabbath day and not desecrate it by excursions and pleasure seeking.

Instructive remarks were also made by Presidents C. F. Middleton and Geo. O. Pitkin, and Bishop E. D. Wade and others.

Tooele Stake Conference.

GRANTSVILLE, Tooele County, U. T. July 30th, 1888.

The quarterly Conference of the Tooele Stake convened at Grantsville meeting house on Saturday, July 28th, 1888.

Present on the stand were, President H. S. Gowans and Counselors and some of the leading brethren of the Stake.

The attendance on Saturday was not as good as formerly, but on Sunday the meeting house was filled to overflowing.

The instructions given by those who addressed the Conference were upon tithing, offerings, the Priesthood and the duties of parents in teaching their children.

The reports given by the Bishops showed that the wards over which they presided were in good condition.

At 5 p. m. on Sunday funeral services were held over the remains of Brother Robert Orr, our worthy acting Deacon, who had filled that position ever since the organization of the Tooele Stake. His remains were followed to their last resting place in the cemetery by a great number of the Saints, by whom Brother Robert was greatly respected. His loss will be greatly felt among us.

Respectfully,

T. WILLIAMS, Clerk.

Recovered the Property.

Perhaps one of the cleverest pieces of work that gentleman has ever performed, was completed last evening by Sheriff Turner, in recovering the property stolen from the D. & R. G. train a week ago last Sunday morning at P. V. Junction. To begin with, the main clue upon which all his evidence hung, was nothing more than a shoe track in the mud, where one of the thieves had thrown the box into the creek. To this was added some words dropped in a drunken spree, and these with other minor points, led to the arrest of four tramps, named John Daly, Mike Murphy, Charles Anderson and Wm. H. Harrison. A search discovered nothing on the men but some silver coin, about the amount and the denominations of the stolen property

Or a $350 diamond pin, a pair of $10. sleeve buttons and a heavy gold ring no trace could be found. After Daly's discharge on Friday, the sheriff set out to find the missing property, making liberal promises to Daly for his assistance, but the latter was unable to give the points wanted. He, however, told enough to enable the sheriff, after careful tracking and search, to find a broken pocket-knife which had been used in making a deposit of the valuables. This he showed the next morning to the prisoners, who were now convinced that the secret had been given away. Anderson's promise to find the cash was accepted and he in company with Sheriff Turner and Joseph Fancett set out for Clear Creek, where the men were first notified that they were suspected. Here, before the arrival of the sheriff from P. V., they had deposited the jewelry by the side of the track, while in full sight of some of their attendants. Arrived at Clear Creek, Anderson revealed the hiding place at once, and its contents were taken possession of. It was thought advisable, however, to go on to P. V. before returning, and it was about ten o'clock when the party started on their return trip. After passing the summit, Mr. Turner went into the rear car, leaving Anderson in the smoker in charge of Mr. Fancett. Returning just before Clear Creek was reached, the sheriff found that the prisoner had leaped from the running train through the closet window. A party immediately put back, and it was not long before the escaped bird came running out of the pitchy darkness right against the muzzle of Mr. Turner's pistol. That put an end to his wanderings. The party returned safe and sound this morning. Mr. Conlisk has been telegraphed of the recovery, and will again come into possession of his property on the return of the train, all but a ten dollar gold piece being found.

Provo, Utah, July 30, 1888.

WRECK ON THE RAIL.

A FIREMAN INJURED BEYOND RECOVERY.

Sobrante, Cal., July 17.—The work or pile-driver train bound north collided with a freight train bound south about three miles north of Sobrante station and one mile south of Pinole at about 8:15 o'clock this morning. The collision took place in a deep and sharply rounded cut almost under what is known as Tomes' bridge. On account of the curve the engineers could not see the other train until within a very few yards of each other. The engineer and fireman on the freight train jumped from the engine when they saw a collision was inevitable and escaped with only slight injuries, although when the engineer jumped the trains struck at the same moment, and the force threw him over a small embankment into the bay.

Engineer Buck of the work train called to his fireman, Frank Fish of Oakland, to jump, and immediately leaped to the ground and escaped with only a bruise on the head. Just as Fish attempted to jump the trains came together with a crash, and his left leg was caught by the tank on the tender of the engine, which in the collision mounted into the cab and fell on the engine proper.

His leg was caught and held thus, while steam from both engines, which had then become telescoped into each other, rushed into his face and so enveloped him that for some time he could not be seen by his fellow workmen. Soon his voice, however, was heard calling, and the workmen were shocked to see him bending forward on his breast, unable either to lift himself up or extricate himself. He seemed, however, to be the most self-possessed man among them all, and quietly told the men his position and asked them to shut off the steam, pointing to the place to do it.

Some one shut off the steam, and then efforts were made to extricate the unfortunate man. His leg was caught between the knee and the thigh, and the bone crushed. Every utensil and force that could be brought to bear was used to extricate him, but without avail. He stood the strain most heroically, but said very little.

Some of his fellow workmen begged him to take a little whiskey to keep up his strength, but being strictly temperate he would not touch a drop. Minutes rolled into hours, and still the fireman hung there. He spoke several times, saying: Boys, I think it is all over with me this time; "I guess it is no use to do anything more for me, for I'll die anyway," and other expressions of like import.

Once only did he speak in a trembling voice, and this was when he made the remark, "Oh, I wish dear grandmother was here!" This referred to his aged grandmother, with whom he was living in Oakland.

After Fish had remained in his perilous position for about two hours and a half he was extricated. By this time an excellent physician had arrived from Oakland, and Fish was put under the influence of opiates and his leg taken off just as close to the body as it was possible and not endanger life. Then it was found that his right leg was also crushed and probably one bone broken; also that his right arm was crushed and probably broken at the shoulder. After the wreck was sufficiently cleared away to permit the passage of trains he was placed on the flat down train that was allowed to pass, being the Oregon express, and taken to his home in Oakland. He had not regained consciousness at the time he was put aboard, and he died before the train reached the Oakland depot. He was about 20 years old and said to be a most worthy young man.

William Murphy, boss of the workmen on the construction train, had one bone of his left arm broken by being thrown from the train.

Conductor Wallace of the same train received a severe contusion on the head, caused by being pitched forward upon the ground when the trains met.

William Murray, fireman of the pile-driving train, had his right arm broken at the joint, and J. Yonnor had his shoulder dislocated.

Two or three others received severe bruises.

The freight train consisted of twelve freight cars and half a dozen oil cars filled with oil, but these being on the rear end of the train, fortunately did not explode. Two or three of the forward cars were totally wrecked. The tender of the freight engine was also lifted on top of the engine, and would have killed the engineer and fireman had they not jumped. All who witnessed the accident say that it was marvelous the engines did not either take fire or explode.

How a Lawyer Nonsuited a Creditor.

There was a certain lawyer in Westchester county some time ago—a man well-to-do in the world, and what was somewhat surprising in a limb of the law, averse to encouraging litigation. One day a client came to him in a most terrible rage:

"Look here, squire," said he, "that 'ere blasted shoemaker down to Pigeon Cove has gone and sued me for the money for a pair of boots I owe him."

"Did the boots suit you?"

"Oh, yes—I've got them on now—first rate boots."

"Fair price?"

"Course."

"Well, why don't you pay him?"

"Why, 'cause the blasted snob went and sued me, and I want to keep him out of the money if I kin."

"It will cost you something."

"I don't keer a cuss for that. How much money do you want to begin with?"

"O, $10 will do."

"Is that all? Well here's an X; so go ahead," and the cheat went out, very well satisfied with the beginning.

Our lawyer next called on the shoemaker and asked him what he meant by commencing legal proceedings against M.

"Why, said he, 'I kept on sending to him till I got tired. I know'd he was able to pay—and I was 'termed to make him. That's the long and short of it.'"

"Well," said the lawyer, "he's always been a good customer to you and I think you acted too hastily. There is a trifle to pay on account of your proceedings—but I think you had better take this $5 and call it square."

"Certain, 'squire, if you say so, an' I'm glad to get it," was the answer. So the lawyer forked over one V and kept the other.

In a few days his client came along and asked him how he got along with his case.

"Rapidly!" said the lawyer; "we've non-suited him, and he'll never trouble you."

"Jerusalem! that's great!" cried the client; "I'd rather a gin $50 than have him got the money for them boots."

TEACHING ELOCUTION BY PHONOGRAPH.—An automatic teacher of elocution is being suddenly employed by a number of actors and actresses. It is the phonograph. The example was set by Clara Morris. She obtained a phonograph a month ago, and used it to ascertain exactly how her speech sounded. She had become convinced that no speaker hears the tones of his own voice exactly as others do, and it occurred to her that if she spoke into a phonograph she could get a correct idea of her vocal expressions. She found that the plan worked well. She would recite portions of her roles, and then have it repeated again and again by the machine. Although the mechanical voice lacked in volume, its mimicry of emphasis, inflection and other qualities were precise. The news of Miss Morris's experiment got out, and now there can be counted up a dozen players who, in studying their parts in plays to be produced next season, are using phonographs.—New York Sun.

PEOPLE OF THE BALKANS.—As showing the strange, cosmopolitan character of the people of the Balkan peninsula it is often sufficient to merely pass from one village to another, or even from one house to another, in the same place, to find strange contrasts. Both Greeks and Bulgarians cling to old established customs that no amount of fusion and progress seems able to modify. A Bulgarian family and a Greek family occupy houses side by side. In each family is a marriageable daughter. In the former house, friends of the would-be son-in-law are bargaining with the father as to the amount he is to receive for his daughter. In the house of the Greek family the negotiators are finding out how much the father is willing to give with the daughter. Nothing but a wall separates the two houses, yet in one a young woman is being dowered, and in the other a young woman is being sold. Each family is following the custom of its own people in ancient times.—Thomas Stevens in Woman.

Normal Applicants.

The examination of normal applicants from Salt Lake County to the University of Deseret for the ensuing year, will be held at the Fourteenth District School Rooms on Saturday, August 11th, at 10 o'clock a. m. Salt Lake County is entitled to send eleven normal students, and others will be recommended to fill possible vacancies from other counties; as the appointment is open to all, it is especially desired that as large a number of competitors as possible be present.

Wm. M. STEWART,
Chairman Examining Board.

A SURJOR FOR A MURKIN.—A news item states that "an umbrella has been made in Glasgow for a king in East Africa measuring twenty-one feet in diameter." The dimensions of the umbrella are not given, but we should think it would have to be pretty bulky to cover a king twenty-one feet in diameter. A king so corpulent could make more money by traveling in this country with a 10 cent show than to remain on a throne at home.—Norristown Herald.

A New York house which ten years ago employed 100 traveling salesmen now does its business entirely by illustrated catalogues and correspondence, and its trade is ahead of what it used to be. Others are moving the same way, and in a few years hence the drummer will daunt less numerously.—Detroit Free Press.

A WOMAN'S DISCOVERY.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at A. C. Smith & Co.'s Drug Store. (2)

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind. testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half a dollar a bottle at A. C. Smith & Co.'s Drug Store. (2)

In 1850 "Brown's Bronchial Troches" were introduced, and their success as a cure for Colds, Coughs, Asthma and Bronchitis has been unparalleled.

The "Exposition Universelle de l'art Culinare" awarded the highest honors to Augustura Bitters as the most efficacious stimulant to excite the appetite and to keep the digestive organs in good order. Ask for the genuine article, manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Stegert & Sons, and beware of imitations.

DOCTORS' BILLS.

Nearly all diseases originate from inaction of the liver, and this is especially the case with chills and fever, intermittent fevers and malarial diseases. To save doctors' bills and ward off disease take Simmons' Liver Regulator, a medicine that increases in popularity every year, and has become the most popular and best endorsed medicine in the market for the cure of liver or bowel diseases.—Telegraph, Dubuque, Iowa.

A FRIGHTFUL SKIN DISEASE.

Sufferings intense. Head nearly raw. Body covered with Sores. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

Messrs. STEVENS & BRUNER, Monroe, N. C. Dear Sirs.—About two months ago, on your recommendation, I bought a bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box CUTICURA SOAP, and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP, for my son, aged thirteen years, who has been afflicted with eczema for a long time, and I am pleased to say that I believe the remedies have cured him. His sufferings were intense, his head being nearly raw, his ears being gone except the gristle, and his body was covered with sores. His condition was frightful to behold. The sores have now all disappeared, his skin is healthy, eyes bright, cheerful in disposition, and is working every day. My neighbors are witnesses to this remarkable cure, and the doubting ones are requested to call or write me, or any of my neighbors.
