The Crists Passed. Washington, 19. — Executive Mansion, July 19, 7 p. m.—The Pre-sident has passed an excellent day and this afternoon's fever has been less than on any day since he was wounded. At 1 p. m. his pulse was 98, temperature 98.5, respiration 19. At present his present pulse is 95, temperature 99.8, respiration 19. (Signed) D. W. BLISS,

J. K. BARNES, J. J. WOODWARD, ROBT. REYBURN. The following was sent this morning to the Cabinet officers by the President's private Secretary:

July 19, 1881, 7 p. m. The slightly increased febrile rise which occurred yesterday evening, but which was not due to any unfavorable change in the condition of the wound, has entirely disappeared and at this hour the President's pulse is 90, with normal temperature and respiration. He rested well during the night—at one time sleep-ing three and a half hours without awakening, and is now feeling bright duce them to unite with Conkling and comfortable. There will be a men in the legislature and force an slight change in the diet—some-thing else being substituted for pota-toes and oatmeal, which have been found unsatisfactory.

ties. Individual preferences were submitted to the arbitrament of a caucus, and harmony resulted, as it would have done here, and one hour of common fairness would have thieves and transom peeping pimps, in order to give color of truth and currency to a weak invention and ase slander against an honest citizen. Why not adjourn? he asked. Could they not trust the governor to call them together again if neces sary after reason resumed sway? If not, could they not trust the people? Were they afraid to trust Conkling to go before the people? Were they afraid to trust him in Ohio, Indians, and New York when those States were essential to Garfield's election, and did he not carry the banner to victory and bring it back resplendent? Relying on the Jeffersonian test of a candidate, "Is he capable, is he honest?" he would vote for the tainless citizen, the matchless ora tor, the illustrious statesman under whose wise and skillful leadership the republicans of New York had gained so many victories. He voted for Roscoe Cenkling. Particulars of the Killing of Billy Los VEGAS, N. M., 18.—Positive this city early this morning by mes senger in regard to the killing of the notorious Billy the Kid, at Fort Sumner, 120 miles distant, on Pecos River, at 11.30 last Saturday morning. Bully had been stopping with Mexicans in that vicinity, disguised as one of them ever since his escape from the Lincoln county jail. Pat Garrelt, sheriff of Lincoln county, has been on his track for some time, and on the day above mentioned, ar-rived at Fort Sumner, having been put on the track by some Mexicans. He had to threaten their lives in order to get them to divulge Kid's whereabouts. About 12, midnight, sheriff Garrett entered the room of one Pat Maxwell, a live stock owner, residing at the Fort, and supposed to have knowledge of the fugitive's exact whereabouts. Garrett had not been in the room over 20 minutes, when the Kid entered in me meat. He immediately ob erved Garrett crouching at the lead of the bed, and asking Max-

ver. Maxwell made no answer, but proceeded to crawl toward the foot of the bed. Had he answered, giving Garrett's name, Billy would have killed him at once, as he is dead shot.
