Layton Murderer this Morning Condemned to Death by Judge Rolapp at Farmington.

TO BE SHOT ON DECEMBER 11.

Attorney Webber Objected to Sentence Being Imposed on the Ground that Client Was Insanc.

CONDEMNED MAN WAS SILENT.

When Asked for Reasons Why Sentence Should Not be Passed He Simply Said Had None.

Nick Haworth was this morning sentenced by Judge Rolapp at Farmington to be shot. The court fixed the date for Friday, Dec. 11, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. and the place of execution within the walls of the state prison.

When asked if he had any reason to give why sentence should not be passed Attorney Webber arose and stated that he raised objections on the ground that the defendant was insane, In support of this contention he referred to the affidavits that were filed on the occasion of the petition for a new trial. These affidavits in support of a new trial were sworn to by A. J. Webber and J. M. Hamilton, attorneys for the condemned man; D. E. Haworth, his brother; Guards Martin and Phineas Young, William Brady and others. Haworth took his sentence as a mat ter of course and returned to Salt Lake and his cell in the state prison quietly and without giving any trouble.

When he appeared closely guarded in the courtroom this morning he greeted those of the officers and officials ed those of the officers and officials whom he knew in a cheerful manner and spent the time in chatting with those who would talk to him. He seemed to be bright and did not exhibit any effects of the exposure and rough time he experienced following his temporary successful break out of prison a couple of weeks ago. He glanced around the courtroom frequently with a keep gaze which took in ently with a keen gaze which took in sel. Haworth stated that he expected Attorney Webber to appear on his behalf and could not assign any reason for his absence. Five minutes later Mr. Webber made his appearance and apol-ognized. The court asked then if there were any reasons why sentence should not be passed. Counsel for defendant promptly asserted that his client was insane and based his objections on the affidavits that had been filed in sup-port of a new trial.

Turning to Haworth the court asked him if he had anything to say before sentence was passed. Haworth stood up and simply said, Haworth stood up and street.

"No, sir."

The sentence of death was then passed upon the convicted murderer and he was led away by the officers. The condemned man did not flinch while the draed words were being uttered. He simply looked straight at the judge and then sat down.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

The crime for which Nathan F. Ha-worth, better known as "Nick" Ha-worth, was today re-sentenced was the murder of Robert Sandall, the night-watchman in the Farmers Union store at Layton on the night of March 28, 1899. The body of the unfortunate man was discovered when the store was opened in the morning the head having been apparently blown to pieces with a been apparently blown to pieces with a shotgun. Suspicion rested on a gang of horse traders of which Haworth was one, and after a chase covering months and extending one, and after a chase covering months and extending over several states, Sheriff Abbott succeeded in running his man down in the Puget Sound country. Then followed a long triar which was stubbornly fought by attorneys for defendant. The trial was not without its sensational features, not least was the attempt of Haworth to escape from the Second district court of Weber county by leaping from the window. He was overpowered, however, and the death penalty eventually imposed June 20, 1800. The prisoner confessed to the crime after his arrest and in his appeal to the supreme court for a new trial, his attorney attempted to prove that he was insane at the time of the confession. His attempted suicide at the time of his arrest was also urged to prove insanity.

PAROWAN SCANDAL.

Narrow Escape of a Hotel Keeper Matrimonially Inclined.

Social circles of Parowan are stirred from center to circumference over a natrimonial incident that was scheduled to occur, but which, however, did not transpire. Parties who bring the tidings to Salt Lake are responsible for tidings to Salt Lake are responsible for the statement that last week a prosperous hotel keeper in that city andertook to take unto himsel a wife. The Parowan ladies apparently did not fill the matrimonial bill; nothing but a traveled bride would do. Consequently, the lot fell on a damsel from Ohio, still more recently of Salt Lake. The fatted calf was killed, the ring and license procured and the guests bidden to array themselves in fine linen and mentropolitan attire and hie to the marriage feast. When the wedding day dawned, however, the groom had changed his mind. Some good friends told him overnight that his bride was not exactly a counteprart of Caesar's wife; in fact, they gave some data and specifications that opened the eyes of the boniface to an exceeding wideness. The blushing bride, confronted with the evidence, wept and refused to be comforted. She protested her innocence and made all kinds of statements. The groom, however, was as adamante; he postponed the wedding until the receipt of a letter from Salt Lake in answer to some rush information requested urgently. When the letter arrived on Monday there was a scene. The lady was told to pack up her jewels and stained reputation and go. She protested and sald things not usually associated with a coy bride. Then she averred by all the gods on high Clympus that she would have the law agin' him. With this threat she disappeared and the man is now awaiting the advent of the papers in the threatened breach of promise suit.

In the meantime there are a floral arch, a wedding ring, a marriage license, some gorgeous raiment, some wedding finery and a disconsolate and chagrined social leader in Parowan the statement that last week a prosper-Sentiment at the Funeral of Mrs. Anderson Yesterday Afternoon.

That Mrs. Mary Anderson, late wife of County Commissioner James H. Anderson, was beloved by hundreds for her many excellent traits of character. was strongly shown at the funeral held yesterday afternoon in the Sixth ward meetinghouse, which was crowded far beyond its capacity.

The services were presided over by Bishop James C. Watson and appropriate music was furnished by the ward choir, which sang as an opening selection. "When First the Glorious Light of Truth." Prayer was offered by Elder William Eddington, after which the choir rendered the hymn, "God Moves in a Mysterious Way." Did Their Work in the Early Morning Hours When the Town Was Enveloped in Fog.

Portland, Or., Oct. 26,-A special to the Evening Telegram from Sheridan, Or., says:

At 3 o'clock this morning burglars entered the banking house of Scroggins. & Wortman, at this place, blew open the safe with giant powder, secured $7,000 in coin and made their escape before the sleeping residents of the town could be aroused. The bank is situated in a brick building in the center of town, and was established 13 years ago. The principal depositors are the farmers of the surrounding country. Considerable business had been transacted on Saturday, and it was generally supposed that a large amount of coin fore the sleeping residents of the supposed that a large amount of coin was on hand. The robbers took the most opportune hour for their work, as the town was deep in slumber and enveloped in a dense fog. No watchman was on duty as there never has been any need of guarding property.

The quiet manner in which the men worked enabled them to force the front doors of the bank and drill a hole near

The shock of the explosion awakened
Mayor D. H. Eakin, who lives over his Mayor D. H. Eakin, who lives over his store diagonally across the street from the bank. Looking from his window he saw a man standing a short distance from the bank, also a bright light showing through the fog from the bank building. The party, who was evidently standing guard, quickly joined his companions and the entire party jumped into a rig and started to drive toward the south.

In an instant the mayor realized that the bank had been robbed. He secured a rifle and fired three shots at the men as they disappeared down the road. The firing of the rifle and the izens and in a few moments a number of armed men were on the streets.

A hurried inspection disclosed the fact that the robbers had made a clean job of their work but had taken nothing from the safe but money. Many valuable papers were left intact. Outside the building a sledge and two picks were found. These tools had been used to force an entrance to the building and had been dropped when the work was complete. One of the picks has the stamp of the Southern Pacific upon it, showing that those tools were evidently stolen from the railroad. The bank officials at once notified all points that cials at once notified all points that could be reached by telephone north and south and Sheriff S. W. RALLY WILL BE A HUMMER.

Acting Chief of Police Taking Every Precaution to Prevent Fraud At the Polls.

As election day draws near the existing political situation becomes more acute. Both camps seem to be coming to a realization of the fact that what is needed is thorough organization and are doing their utmost to see to it that nothing is lacking in this respect. The Republicans are in high spirits over what they are pleased to term the outlook for a splendid victory, while the Democrats, though quiet, are no less hopeful than they were a day or two ago. So far as the election itself is concerned, it promises to eclipse in point of interest, any that has ever taken place in this city, and this is say-ing a great deal, when one recalls the stirring times of ten or twelve years

The Republican rally in the Theater next Saturday night promises to be a hummer. The Young Men's club is doing everything possible to make it so and announces in patriotic colors short addresses by prominent Republicans, rocal and instrumental music and other vocal and instrumental music and other features not yet fully arranged for. Who the speakers will be is not known, but they will likely be leading party workers and probably some of the can-didates on the city ticket.
