The aggregate value of the taxable property of Arizona territory, as reported by the county assessors, for the past year is $7,000,000, being an increase of nearly half a million.

Prof. G. I. Stetson, of the Kansas University, believes he has discovered a cure for diphtheria. It has a simple nature consisting of two-thirds weight and one of water through which an electric current has been passed. Physicians think the discovery is a valuable one.

The Victoria, B. C., Colonist of Sunday, publishes an interesting article on the business prospects of Victoria and Vancouver. It says that to-morrow there is more mischief among all classes of business men, the outcome being most encouraging. It says that the names of British Columbia will be mentioned soon on the lists of more than any year during the past five.

Mrs. Mary E. Hallar, the proprietress of a single house in San Francisco, was found dead in a room in the rear of the house Sunday. One of the lodgers noticed a strong smell of gas throughout the house and raced to the room occupied by Mrs. Hallar. When she was opened it was found the woman had deliberately planned her death. Every aperture in the room was tightly closed and the gas mixed in full force. The deceased was a widow, about forty-two years of age.

Mr. Tom. M. Mead and Miss L. Wright have been engaged in San Francisco in the manufacture of Los Angeles, Calif., and have got into arrears with their employees' wages. Sunday night the partners disappeared. The opinion of the sheriff's office is that Mead and Wright have absconded with the money they were owing, never to return. It is the opinion also at the sheriff's office that the employee of the firm will live nearly $5,000 in wages. The firm owns the foreman at the slaughter house over $200.

Domingo, New Mexico, Headlight: A sad accident occurred at Coloma Diaz on October 27th that resulted in the death of a boy, 12 years old, named O. H. Barnes, of that place. The boy had gone out to catch a horse to be used in taking the family to a meeting, and in riding his saddle, the horse, a small mare, started to run away, pulling the boy off his back and around his belt so tight as to cut the flesh to the bone. The boy ran, dragging the unfortunate boy to his death. When found, the clothing was entirely torn from the body, which was terribly mangled. The boy was an exceedingly bright, intelligent and a general favorite among his companions. The father of the deceased, M. O. Barnes, second cousin to the Bishop at Diaz, is well known in the city, and the Headlight, together with his many friends, extend their sympathy in his great bereavement.

On the night of October 28th last an unknown man shot himself with a pistol at Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. The bullet which was fired from a 35-caliber bullet revolver, struck the right side of his head and passed through his brain. He was still alive when discovered, but on account of the fatal nature of the wound it was believed that no would die before the receiving hospital was reached. Hesitating to say, the surgeon delayed in giving up hope of saving the patient, but is still silent and unable to recover. The day following his arrival at the receiving hospital Police Officer Wells, after making a thorough examination of the terrible wound, concluded that the wounded man would die if removed from the city and the hospital. The condition of the doctor was then bad, and as the man appeared to be slowly dying, it was decided to remove the bullet as the last hope of saving his life. The deadly missile was extracted and lay bare the brain on the left side of the head, and after a short time the patient recovered consciousness, but was unable to speak. His actions were every indication that he knew what was going on about him, and subsequently he uttered various articles which he desired. Having so given some paper and a pencil and asked me to write his name, and also his reason for attempting to do with himself, "I guess not," he wrote, "I am a man who is turned with me." These are the words he said to the part of the authorities to learn his identity, which has proved futile. He apparently refuses to give his name or tell why he had shot himself.
