CLUB CHAT.

An event of interest to patriotic societies is the annual meeting of the General Society of Daughters of the Revolution next week, the affair to commence on Monday and end May 2. Besides the meetings many pleasurable functions are being planned for the delegates, and it is expected the gathering will be a large one. The business meetings will end on Thursday, at 10 o'clock a. m., and in the afternoon an automobile trip will be taken through upper New York, the day to end with a theater party. On Friday there will be an excursion to West Point, and on Saturday an excursion to Bronx Park, Botanical and Zoological Gardens, Poe's Gardens, and Fordham. New officers will be elected and a program of addresses by the present state regents and general officers will make up the most of the sessions.

The National Health Committee of One Hundred of the American Health League are sending letters to representative women of all states to take part in the national movement and some well known women in the city have received letters asking them to become members of the local advisory committee for Salt Lake. The movement includes agitation of health reform throughout the country, not only locally but for all nations and cases affecting the nation's health.

An interesting meeting of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers was held on Wednesday at the Lion House when President Nephi L. Morris of the Salt Lake stake addressed the society upon the subject of "Salvation for the Dead." A business meeting will be held next Wednesday at the same place at 3 p. m. to discuss plans for the society's summer outing at Wandavere.

The general session of the Ladies' Literary club, the last open meeting of the year, occurred yesterday. An interesting program was given. Miss Ethel Paul gave a book review and Mrs. C. J. Freund read a paper on Nibelungenlied (songs of German folk lore). The musical program consisted of two numbers of "Andante" from Haydn's Surprise Symphony and "Visions" was given by Miss Williams' string quintet, composed of Miss Romania-Hyde and Miss Georgia Young, violin; Miss Maude Welmer, viola; Miss Cogles, cello; Miss Williams, piano. Mrs. Charles G. Plummer was heard in vocal selections, Miss Hilma Gresson sang "A Birthday" and "The Sweet of the Year," and Miss Lilian Oliver gave a piano solo. The annual meeting of the club for election of officers will be held Friday, May 8. Nomination blanks have been sent out to the members of the club by the committee and much interest is shown as to the probable outcome of the election. The names of several well known club members are prominently discussed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Utah Women's Press club will be held this evening at 7:30 in the Exponent office, Templeton building. The program will consist of original sentiments by the members, an original paper by Mrs. Amanda Done, an original Easter poem by Mrs. M. F. Pye and a review of current events by Mrs. Florence S. Critchlow. The program will close with a discussion by the members.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's league was held in the Packard library Monday afternoon, April 20, at 2 o'clock. The subjects for discussion were as follows: "Sanitation," Dr.

Roasting, which means cooking meat by hanging it in front of an open fire, as distinguished from baking, is an art that is passing, notes the Delineator. This method, which is, however, seldom employed except in large establishments, undoubtedly ranks first for developing the flavor of the meat.

The relish of well cooked meat, shown to perfection in best roasted beef, is an open fire, is due to the development by the heat of various sapid and odorous substances, collectively known as roasting.

In roasting a joint of meat the first thing to be considered is to get a clear fire well made up, and this fire should be carefully attended to till the joint is finished. In putting coal on to a coasting fire, draw the fire carefully to the front with a shovel and put the fresh coal on at the back.

Basting means pouring hot fat over the meat from time to time with a spoon. The more the meat is basted the better it will be.

In order to roast meat properly the front of the fire must be bigger than the joint. Always hang meat with the largest part downwards. Weigh, wipe with a dry cloth and do not wash it, because washing drains out the juices, and skewers allow them to escape in the cooking. Get the dri-

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Every medical student, who comes to New York to take a course in study, knowing the long and arduous work before him for the four years, has an object in view at the end of that period that will keep him in the city for two years longer, and that aim is hospital work; city hospital work. Naturally all of the "Big Four" loom up before his weary eyes as burning goals of ambition; the far-away light that beckons the tired brain and luring feet across its wide portals. By the "Big Four" is meant "The New York College of Physicians and Surgeons," "Roosevelt"—St. Luke's, and the "Presbyterian" on Lexington Ave.

That a Utah boy has secured a two years' position in one of these hospitals speaks well for Dr. Will Ward of Willard City, Boxelder county. Dr. Ward came here four years ago full of energy and willingness to work hard, but blessed with very little ready money. Each summer has seen him at his labors, rarely taking the needed vacation, and last week's test at the final examinations placed him in the envied position of first choice of service in any of the above mentioned hospitals. The last two days grilling reduced the number to 16; there were 10 from Columbia, two from Harvard medical college, and four from John Hopkins, Baltimore. At the close of the two days 12 of the 16 were called back for further examination, the second practical examination in surgical and medical and clinical diagnosis. The eight patients to be filled were awaited with beating hearts and nerves keyed to the highest tension by the young boys, and when the name, Dr. William Ward, was called out as first choice of the examining board, it was a pale young man who faced his judges but answered without a moment's hesitation. When asked where he would be placed the next two years his choice was "with Dr. Blake, at Roosevelt" hospital, professor of surgery at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and beginning July 1 will see Dr. Ward at "Roosevelt," there to remain the two years. About the 20th of May Mr. Ward will go home for a short visit to his parents, returning in time to begin work in July. Every honor bestowed on this young Utah boy, by first selection, he has well earned, and the "colony" here are as proud of his victory as his own people will be. Congratulations are being showered on him from his fellow students and friends and professors, with whom he is a great favorite and while his abilities have given him the envied place his success has only brought out the kindest feelings from his fellow students; for all know Will Ward richly deserves the place he has won and that strict attention to studies in the past has met with just reward. Dr. Ward has always been active in Church work here—an able speaker—and always willing to respond to a call from those in charge.

Mrs. Ida Smoot-Dusenberry left for Washington, D. C., Wednesday afternoon to spend her vacation with her brother, Senator Reed Smoot, and wife at their home on Connecticut Ave., and does not expect to return until the middle of the coming week. There are only five more weeks of school but they will be crowded with work until final examinations.

A week ago Miss Jean Cavanagh left with her friend, Mrs. Kerr, for a 10 days' visit with Mrs. Kerr's relatives in Stamford, Conn., going all the way by automobile.

Wednesday evening Miss Zella Smart took the train for Boston, meeting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Powell, who are on their way to Paris to study art. Mr. and Mrs. Powell will only be in Boston a few hours, going directly to Portland, Me., where they sail. Miss Smart will remain in Boston for the Easter holidays, reaching New York in time to begin lessons Wednesday morning.

Last Monday morning, Elders W. Booker Preston and Lawrence Caine arrived in the city on their way to fill missions in Germany. They were met by Miss Blanche Caine, sister of Elder Caine, and went at once to her home on west One Hundred and west-fourth streets.

On invitation of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Ensign, spent the week with them at their apartment on west One Hundred and Twenty-third street, leaving in time to sail on the Canada Saturday, the 18th, from Portland, Me. The visit of the young elders in New York was a happy one. All the students are out on holiday and the young people from home who are here for the season could give them their time for sight-seeing. Their coming was a pleasure to their relatives, Miss Caine and Mr. and Mrs. Easton, and will be ranked among the delightful days spent in the great city. Elder Preston is the son of the late W. B. Preston, Jr., and Mrs. Kate Pyper Preston of Logan; Elder Caine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Caine, Jr., also live in Logan, Mr. Caine being connected with the A. C.

ping-pan ready before the joint and have a little hot fat or dripping ready in it at starting. Place the joint in front of a brisk fire for a short time, in order that the albumen may be coagulated on the outside, and so keep in the nourishing parts of the flesh. After a little while remove the joint a greater distance from the fire and keep it turning slowly.

Simmer a few thin slices in a little water as possible until soft and plump. Drain and chop to a smooth, thick paste. Boil together two cupsful of light brown sugar and one-half cupful of milk, stirring continuously until the soft ball stage is reached. Add the eggs, cook for one moment longer stirring briskly. Let cool, then beat vigorously until it begins to harden. Pour into a buttered pan and cut in neat diamonds when cold.

The wise housekeeper of today uses dollies instead of table-cloths, says The Delineator. Instead of using a large table cloth three times a day, it is better to use a square for breakfast and luncheon, put on diagonally, or else a set of plain dollies, for either of these insure an attractive table and also save laundering at least two large cloths a week. A few dollies of a square can be washed out and ironed with very little trouble whenever they need it.

With this partly covered table there should certainly be a growing plant or fern for the center, no matter how simple it may be. After these things the chair really of itself matters so much, though for breakfast nothing is so charming as a set of blue and white, which may be picked up almost anywhere for small sum. Graceful shapes can be easily found.

grief being uncontrollable and is affecting her health. Friday morning, on the advice of her physician, Mrs. Kohn left for Douglass, S. D., the country home of Mr. and Mrs. John Barrie, where she will remain for a week in the hope that a change and quiet will restore her nerves.

The weather during the past week has been ideal and in consequence the parks and drives have been crowded. Friday afternoon a picnic was arranged at Edgewater, N. J., in honor of Miss Parkinson, also a luncheon and breakfast for the popular young lady who leaves in three days for Washington to visit with the Misses Chas. Smoot and Barbara Howell, and then traveling to Chicago, where she will stay a few days on her way home. Miss Parkinson has made great progress in her piano studies with Prof. Hopple, and Wednesday evening plays at one of his delightful recitals. Miss Parkinson is a favorite with everyone here and her departure is deeply regretted.

WINTER STORY FROM MAINE.

Monday morning when Joe Doley's hired man went to the barn he was surprised to hear the sound of music in the cow stable. He listened and plain and clear came the notes of "Old Zip Coon." Thinking of some drunken man was there, he opened the door and went around and discovered that the music was coming from the old cow's mouth. That was too much, and he bolted for the house, telling Mrs. Doley to come to the barn, as the old cow was bewitched. Investigation showed that the little boy had dropped his mouth organ in the stable the day before and the cow had tried to swallow it, but it had stuck in her throat and when she breathed she produced "Old Zip Coon."—Kennebec Journal.
