

THE EVENING NEWS.

GEORGE Q. CANNON,
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Wednesday, August 14, 1873

The following arrived in this city last night—
FOUNTAIN GREEN, SANPETE,
August 13, 1873.

To G. W. Dodge, U. S. Indian Agent:

The Indians have not left yet and don't calculate to; they are stealing our horses and killing our men whenever they get a chance and when they please. Can you send troops to drive them off our border, as they are no longer friendly. As soon as you order them to feed them they began to get mad, and we would very much like your assistance in protecting us and our property. Please answer immediately what you can do.

E. L. JOHNSON.

On the strength of this dispatch Governor Woods made a requisition upon General Morrow for troops to be sent to Sanpete to restrain the Indians. But it appears that General Morrow is ill prepared, so far as the right kind of troops are concerned, for an Indian expedition. Of course the General can only send such troops as he has—if he has cavalry he can send cavalry, but he has not. There is only a fraction of a company of cavalry at the post but this fraction having been ordered to accompany Lieut. Wheeler in his expedition, and, therefore, the General in command if he send any troops can only send infantry to the relief of the settlers. Those who are familiar with Indian raids and their mode of warfare in this country have a good idea of how little use troops who have to do their marching off are in pursuing Indians in the cañons, deserts and mountains of Utah.

Gen. D. H. Wells is in receipt of a dispatch from Col. R. N. Allred, of Spring City, under date of the 12th inst., in which he says that:

Tabby sends word to all the bishops that he can control his men no longer. He was in Spanish Fork Canyon yesterday, I, with a detachment, brought the herd from Thistle valley yesterday, having started as soon as I got word of the raid at Fairview. The wounded boy, Stewart, is dead.

There is meaning in this notice of Tabby's, and it is so plain a warning that the settlers cannot with safety disregard it. They should neglect no precaution to secure their stock and themselves against Indian depredations and attacks. It is well enough to call upon the proper officers for aid; but they should not forget the old fable of Jupiter and the teamster, and while calling upon Jupiter, not forget to put their own shoulders to the wheel; in other words, trust in Providence and keep their powder dry and guns properly loaded, and enforce the rules in the various settlements which were found so safe during war years.

THE hottest part of the season is manifestly passed, but we are in the midst of the dusty season. It is dust, dust, dust everywhere, destructive to apparel, furniture, comfort, good temper, and health, and where there is most congregation of humanity and the animals and road conveyances used by humans there is the most dust, almost constantly to a disagreeable extent, and frequently to a choking degree.

On the streets dividing the most busy business blocks the water sprinkler lays the dust, and there the condition of the streets is more satisfactory, but in a city having such spacious streets as this has, a city of such magnificent distances as this is, the sprinkling of all the streets is not to be thought of, the expense would be too great. What then is to be done? Perhaps there might be a little more done than has been, and done to the advantage of many. Among the dustiest and consequently the most unpleasant of our streets is South Temple Street, from the Temple Block to the railroad depot, and this because of the multiplication of the traffic and travel that way.

Now would it not be a good thing for some arrangement to be made for the running of a street sprinkler upon the rails of the street railroad. Probably the company would concede the use of the road for this purpose, on account the resultant benefit to the road and pleasure to the passengers in the cars. A sprinkler could be constructed to throw the water smartly on each side of the railroad a fair distance upon the street; if not both sides at once, then one side at a time, and this would sprinkle and lay the dust on quite a large extent of the most frequented portions of our streets.

Now as to the expense. There are two ways of meeting it, each singly, or both jointly. One is by subscription. That falling wholly or partially, the next is the one which every body resorts to in an emergency, as expressed in scripture phraseology, "I will arise and go to my father." Happily in this enlightened and liberal country, the city is not restricted to the principle of mono-paternity, but is blessed with a plurality of fathers, and therefore stands an excellent chance of a gracious answer to all reasonable requests.

THE recent displays of aurora borealis (northern lights) appear to have been witnessed over a large area of country, and to have been very extraordinary. They are supposed to be caused by the reflection of light or electricity upon minute crystals of ice in the air in the polar regions, and to indicate serious atmospheric disturbances, resulting in storms and hurricanes, oftentimes of great violence.

PRESIDENT Grant is represented as saying to a New York Herald correspondent that he (the President) was not anxious for a second term of office, but he consented to receive the nomination because he thought it would be the best way of discovering whether a majority of his countrymen really did believe all that had been alleged against his administration and himself, and he thought that the spectacle of an election campaign would furnish opportunities for his political opponents and personal enemies to say all they could against him.

The Herald is not satisfied with this, but reminds the President that in the election of the ruler of a great nation there are far more weighty considerations to be entertained than the public endorsement or condemnation of the present incumbent, and thereupon proceeds to read Ulysses a sharp lecture after the following fashion—

We submit to President Grant that if the issue involved in this campaign is really so narrow and personal as it seems to suppose, he should at once rid himself of the policy and the politicians who surround him, and suffer the people to decide the question upon his own merits alone. To his knowledge the Secretary grasps from the throat of the Southern people, change his Cabinet, drive from him the counselors who surround him into all sorts of diabolical and break up his little camp at the White House. He will then be in the position he occupied when the nation bestowed upon him its highest honors, four years ago. At present he is hidden from view by the men who have caused his administration to fail, and the people are left to wonder at his election. To accept him as the President would be to accept the policy which he has followed, and to make a laughing-stock of the nation. To plunge the Southern States in as dire confusion as he has brought upon us financially; the Congressional politicians, who have sought to keep alive the hatred and bitterness of the Civil War, whose policy has been to have no peace.

If the President will do justice to himself by casting off the trammels in which he is held by the radical politicians, by suspending the operation of the Reconstruction act, and by proving his willingness to return to the generous impulses he once felt towards the Southern people, and by casting his Cabinet for the purpose of initiating a change in his foreign and financial policy, he can then justly and safely apply to the people to endorse his personal character and condemn his administration.

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK.—A Montreal dispatch says Don Lapointe, Spanish Vice Consul, received information yesterday which led to the discovery of a scheme for recruiting the revolutionary army of Cuba from cities in Canada by the same agents who made a similar attempt in New York, owing to failures there, seemed to have turned its attention to Canada. The scheme contemplated the enlistment of men in the principal cities of the Dominion, concentrating them at some place on the Bay of Fundy, a vessel to take her cargo out to meet the Cuban cruisers at a point further south, where they would have been shipwrecked. A large number of applicants have already been made at Montreal, St. John and Halifax, and it will require great energy and watchfulness on the part of the Dominion authorities to prevent the success of the scheme. There have been no arrests yet.

A member of the Republican national executive committee stated here yesterday that a letter had been received from the Secretary of State of North Carolina will give a certificate of election to the governorship to Merriman, instead of Caldwell, on account of alleged irregularities in the conduct of the campaign.

Minister Nelson does not return permanently from Mexico, as reported. He simply visits the U. S. with the intention of returning to his post in the World says the convention called yesterday to meet at Syracuse on the fourth of September will be distinctive in character, that men of unblemished integrity will be placed on the ticket, that it must be boldly declared that there is no connection whatever with the demolished ring.

Col. Whitney says he recommends 24 regiments of infantry for the new volunteer cavalry. The entire number there is 66.

There were nine cases of sunstroke yesterday.

Three yellow fever victims on the Anconia yesterday were buried on the American island. Six of the crew have died and about twenty-five others are sick. Ship's surgeon says he has no other way but to wait and see what can be done. Should the disease not be checked, it will be a short cruise north.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 14.—H. A. Corbin, committed for trial for arson, has been released on bail. His partner, witness against him, is reported to have left town.

The American R. R. engineers passed through the lines of the revolutionary forces while surveying the line from the city of Mexico to Mustang, and in the belief that there will be no obstacle thrown in the way of the enterprise, whatever shape political matters may take.

STOCKTON, 14.—Dr. C. W. Norcross, an old citizen, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the head with a pistol at the Grand Hotel. Pecuniary losses supposed cause.

EUROPEAN.

The visit of the Ex-Emperor Eugenie and the Empress to the Exposition is attended with constant displays of sympathy from large crowds that assemble wherever the presence of the party is known. On August 10 the Empress and her son visited the Exposition at the Victoria and Albert Museum, and on the 12nd, they departed from Edinburgh amid cheering from a dense gathering around the hotel. Their destination was the western Highlands.

European mail advices report the death of M. Kiser, the celebrated gastronomer, professor at the university of Leipsic.

M. Beck, general of the order of Jesuits, has convoked an assembly of Jesuits at Rome to consider a project for changing the name and dress of the Jesuits expelled from Russia making many of the Jesuits even beyond the bounds of Germany; 122 telegrams and a still greater number of written congratulations were received, amongst them were from the Emperor of Austria and the King of Prussia.

A Southampton letter says when Gen. Sherman was visiting the American Republics, through the Prince of Wales, a message from the Queen, inviting him to command the British fleet, was received at the Admiralty.

Other officers of the fleet to Osborne the next day. Their reception was marked with great cordiality.

Prince Bismarck has just celebrated at Varna his 60th birthday. Only a small number of his relations and old friends were present on the occasion, but every minute brought some testimony of the interest with which the day was regarded even beyond the bounds of Germany; 122 telegrams and a still greater number of written congratulations were received, amongst them were from the Emperor of Austria and the King of Prussia.
