BREVITIES.

Since 1822 no less than fifty-seven inventions of type-setting machines have been patented.

He is well constituted who grieves not for what he has not, and rejoices over what he has.

A child was born in Joliet, Illinois, a short time since, which weighed eighteen pounds and a half.

Douglas Jerrold says that women are "the serpents that wind about a man's neck, killing his best resolutions."

London consumes daily 4,200 tuns fish, 4,000 sheep, 700 oxen, 90 calves, 4,000 pigs, 5,000 fowls, one million oysters and one million and a quarter loaves of bread.

An American's reply to a European traveler, when asked if he had just crossed the Alps, was, "Wall, now you call my attention to the fact, I guess I did pass risin' ground."

The latest alarm in regard to diet is the alleged discovery of a minute insect in brown sugar. It is said to abound in almost all coarse sugars, and to subsist on their impurities.

Ass Proctor, of Andover, (Me.) hitched his horse to a board fence and fed him with hay in a big box. There was a crack in one of the boards big enough for his cow to lick her tongue through at the hay. The horse bit her tongue off so that he had to kill her.

"Do you keep matches?" asked a wag of a retail dealer.

"O yes, all kinds," was the reply.

"Well, then, I guess I'll take a trotting match."

The retailer immediately handed him a box of Brandreth's pills."

The Ellsworth American tells of a tanner who had a horse so badly off with the heaves as to be almost worthless. He took him to grind bark for tanning, and used him at the business a few weeks, and in that time he became cured. If this is a sure remedy it will be worth knowing.

It is not the painting, gilding, and carving that make a good ship; but if she be a nimble sailer, tight and strong to endure the seas, that is her excellence. It is the edge and temper of the blade that make a good sword, not the richness of the scabbard; and so it is not money or possessions that make a man considerable, but his virtues.

In Belfast, Me., recently, a man visited the office of a physician to be treated for cholera morbus. The doctor prescribed for him, but he was so ill that he could not be removed from the office, and the doctor, turning down the gas, left him for the night. Soon afterward the patient arose and blew out the light. When the physician returned in the morning he found the man almost suffocated with gas, but entirely cured of his disease.

Every sixth person in Egypt is either partially or wholly blind. This arises from the bitter hostility of Arabs to the Government of the Viceroy. The Arab mother, immediately after the birth of a son, pierces one of the eyes with a fine sharp needle, in order to disqualify him forever from entering the military service; and where from any motive the mother has failed to do this, the adult Arab will not hestitate to mutilate himself, and thus avoid service in the army.

A Quaker, on hearing a man swear at a particularly bad piece of road, said; "Friend, I am under the greatest obligation to thee. I would myself have done what thou hast done, but my religion forbids me. Don't let my conscience, however, bridle thee; give thine indignation wings, and suffer not the prejudice of others to paralyze the tongue of justice and long suffering —yea, verily."

An interesting scientific discovery is mentioned in one of the Paris Journals. The Calabar bean is found to be an antidote to strychnia. The latter destroys by spasmodic contraction. The first, taken alone, paralyzes, and thus directly neutralizes the action of strychnia, if given after that poison. The bean has been found successful in cases of lockjaw.

Mr. Toot, coming home late one night, was met at the door by his wife.

Pretty time of night, Mr. Toot, for you to come home—three o'clock in the morning; you, a respectable man, and father of a family!

'Tisn't three—it's only one.

My word, Mr. Toot, you're drunk. It's three in the morning.

I say, Mrs. Toot, I heard it strike one as I came round the corner, two or three times!

A boy whose honesty is more to be commended than his ingenuity, once carried some butter to a merchant in a country village to exchange for goods. The butter having a very beautiful appearance, and the merchant being desirous of procuring such for his own use, invited the boy to bring him all the butter his mother had to spare. "I think," said the boy, she can't spare any more, for she would not spared this, only a rat fell into the cream, and she did not like to use it herself."

A very heavy fog once visited a neighboring State, which we think somewhat beats the fogs of London. A young man was sent out to a meadow to nail a few courses of shingles on a barn, the roof of which was nearly finished. "At dinner," continues the farmer, who is responsible for the story, "the fellow comes up and sez:

That's a mighty long barn of yourn.

Not very long, sez I.

Well, sez he, I've been to work all this forenoon, and have not got one course laid yet.

Well, sez I, you're a lazy fellow, that's all I have got to say.

So, after dinner I went down to see what he had been about, and I'll be hanged if he hadn't shingled out more than a hundred feet right out on the fog.
