One of the enigmas of domestic economy is that while oats out West are worth twelve cents a bushel, oatmeal brings five cents a pound in this market, and is often poor and stale at that. Is it in consequence of the railroad monopoly, the cruel injustice of the tariff, or the last war with England, or the epizootic? It is said that in Scotland oatmeal is very cheap, edible, and nutritious. It is a pity some-body would not import Scotland, and then we should grow fat and brainful.—N. Y. Graphic.

WASHINGTON, 25.—The proposi-tion for a change in the district government meets with consideraa box of Utah products being sent from t tool for a change in the district government meets with considera-ble favor by the local press. It is believed the change would com-mend itself to a great body of pro-perty holders and substantial citi-zens of the district. The reckless-ness, ignorance, and irresponsibili-ty of the Legislature have become an object of some concern to the sober and solf respecting people of the district. It is urged that after all, local representation is a fiction. Inasmuch as the legislature itself is a mere creation of Federal authori-ty, it is argued that under the pro-posed system life and property would receive better protection, and laws be more effectually enforced. Pending the discussion of this ques-tion, the local politicians are com-mencing their arrangments for the fall election to the legislature, which it seems probable Congress may abolish. He was unable to make any statement previous to his death, regarding the lynching, or who, to his knowledge, was engag-ed in it. Att'y. Gen. Ewing is still investigating the affair. Br. Louis, 25. — The social evil question, lately brought to the sur-face by action of Rev. Dr. Elliott, is the theme of general discussion here. The decision of Judge Cal-vin, declaring the law which grant-ed the city council permission to regulate the evil unconstitutional is severely commented on by some of the best lawyers in the city. Judge Calvin uses the following language: "The city council attaches too great and robust a meaning to the words 'to regulate.' There are va-rious ways by which effect might son and his son were very important wit neares in the Biegham Kanyon tragedy, it having been alleged that the ind's arm was broken in falling from a horse, as one the shooting commenced. On Saturday morning this boy was sent, on horseback, by his father to Lohl, and the latter went himself by train in the afternoon, expecting to meet him there. Although the lad had plenty of time to get to Lehi by the time his father reached that place, yet the latter failed to find him. The father's anxiety for his son being very great he left Lehi and walked all the way from the o this city, and although he in about the missing lad at every place on the road he failed to obtain any intelliwords 'to regulate.' There are va-rious ways by which effect might be given to these words of the grant in a manner not inconsistent with State law." They say Judge Her-rin acknowledges the right to regulate, and they ask why. If he does so, he discusses the constitu-tionality of the law. They say fur-ther that it is a grave matter to de-clare a law passed by a State Legis-lature unconstitutional. In a doubtful case the leaning is toward nce of him, nor has he gleaned any since. There is a suspicion of the boy ning is town and, it becomes a city co owly. After having decide on which, if he is corr the day, became gradually overcast, dark and generally portentous of a storm. A little after four o'clock the rain came date the cha of the whole matter, he proceeds show that the main question af all is as to the grant to regul contained in the charter. Anoti inference from the decision is, ti cities cannot be granted any pri-leges not contained in general is and it is further suggested to t judge that the constitution is rate a limit of power than a grant power, and that a State logislate is in its sphere as omnipotent the Parliament of England. La yers who discuss the case also wn in streams, torrents, sheets of wa-r, causing it to flow in ministure creeks down the streets. Mixed with the rain were good sized halistones. Byerything out of doors received a thorough soaking, which will do some good, but had the storm been as remarkable for duration as it was for violence considerable harm would have been the result. The thunder rolled and sent the echoes through the "grand old mountains," and the light-ning flashed and glared, giving the sente throughout the valley a touch of genuine sublimity. During last night there was also thunder, lightning, wind and heavy main, but the air has been clear, baimy and cheerful to-day, seemingly all the better and purer for the "war of elements" of yesterday. yers who discuss the case also re-gard the elaboration upon the banch as to the moral features o pirit of American institution The decision is regarded as a who is confused and unworthy to finale of so grave a YONE s ounderstand the storm was equally s savere at Banoticul, Centerville and ther contiguous places, as it was in this
