IDAHO PLACER MINES.

Several New Gulches Have Been

Opened Up in Custer County. A great deal of activity is expected mong the placer mines of Custer county, Idaho, during the present year. This camp has been in operation more or less for more than a quarter of a century and during that time many nuggets have been taken out weighing from 1 to 10 ounces. One nugget weighing over 30 ounces is said to have been unearthed in Jordan Creek ground, Several new gulches have been opened of the south side of the Salmon, below Stanley, which promise to be profitable producers, says the Engineering and Mining Journal in a letter descriptive of the placers of that section of the country. The river bars and bottoms below Stanley are also found to prospect well in many places, but to prospect well in many places, but this time not with pan and rocker; the dredge and hydraulic will hereafter handle the auriferous gravels. On the head of Warm Springs creek, a tributary of the Salmon, placer min-ing in the small streams was successfully carsed on for years. Last season, a company from Challis located the whole of the Fisher basin, near the whole of the Fisher basin, near the noted Fisher gold quartz mines, and a dredge company is expected to take hold there this summer. The locality has the advantage of a good wagen road from the river, distant ten miles.

A company known as the Stanley Dredge Company completed a dredge on the upper portion of the Stanley mea-dows last fall, and the trial run proves that it is paying ground. The company The mealows were well prospected years past and some mining done with sluices and rockers, but the ground proved to flat to work to advantage by draining methods and is well suited or dredling plants. In Yankee Fork district, it is apparent that placer mining is on the eve of a revival, especially from Jordan creek down the river several miles below Bonanza and possibly as far up as Cuser, as some of the rich gold quartz edges are in that vicinity. Last spring, a number of old placer miners located much of the abandoned ground for sevmuch of the abandoned ground for several miles down the river, with the view of attracting the attention of dredging companies to the favorable location of the ground and prospects for machinery that handles dirt and gravel in bulk. The result was that Mr. J. N. Wallace, of Boise, agent for the Souther Dredge Company, of Boston, was sent in by his company to ton, was sent in by his company to test the ground last September. He prought with him a steam boring and numping machine and put down holes to bedrock at different points from Joroan creek down tankee Fork for two miles. The prospects were so satisfactory that the company took band on all the ground for one-half mile above Bonanza to near the canyon of the Yankee Fork, a distance of four miles and located all the vacant ground that could be found. Portions of the ground had previously been prospected from surface to depths of five to ten feet and found to carry gold in paying quanti-ties with every indication of coarse gold and better pay toward bedrock. The Souther Company has dredges in successful operation in Boise county.

To althe meantime the government has de-cided to grant free miners' certificates to companies incorporated under the laws of the province of British Columblo. As the expense of incorporation is small, the Americans holding claims or deciding to do so, can follow out their indications with little more trouble than British subjects. train was snow bound in Colorado. The May Day, of Tintic, has closed a contract with the American Smelting and Refining Company for the treatment of its ores for the ensuing year.

The Centennial-Eureka Mining Company has filed in the office of the sec-retary of state an acceptance of the provisions of the constitution of Utah. Winnemucca Silver State: Joseph pecial Correspondence.

Washington, April 13.-The war reve nue law is not going to be disturbed at this session of Congress, although a large number of people and representatives of large interests are making every effort to have a reduction of some If not a repeal of all the taxes levied by the act. But it is not only late in the session to begin revenue legislation, but the majority of the Republican leaders believe it is entirely in expedient. No satisfactory reduction would be made. The interests which failed to get the benefit of the reduction would be greatly disgruntled, and from a political standpoint it is not deemed advisable to go into a campaign with a tariff bill to explain on top of other issues which are none too popular just now. Druggists and manufacturers of drugs and medicines and proprietary article, etc., are making most vigorous and numerous complaints. Congressmen are flooded with letters asking for legislative relief from stamp taxes. The brewers, who were made to pay $1 more per barrel by the war revenue law, are seeking a reduction, while numerous other interests are asking the repeal of portions of the law which affects them. Some of the demands are based upon the financial burden and others wholly upon the an-noyance caused by the affixing of stamps to documents, etc. NEXT SESSION PROMISES. Some of the congressional leaders seem to think that during a short session there may be a modification of the war taxes and say that by that time Congress and the country will have more information as to what is wanted than now. Besides it is pointed out that it would be utterly impossible to pass a revenue measure of any kind now without greatly extending the session, an extension that most congressmen desire to avoid. Con-gress as a whole would like to adjourn before the national conventions, and the eyes of the Republican leaders are fixed upon the middle of June as the latest satisfactory date. Between now and that time there are the appropriation bills to pass, the Puerto Rican con ppines under the Spooner bill beside ping bill, Alaska and Hawaiian legis lation, which are crowding to the front. To take up a tariff bill now would mean a session lasting far into the summer, interfering with the presidential and congressional campaigns, consequently all demands for a reduction of the war revenue will be met with promises for legislation next win-

er, if still found necessary. PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES. The present session of Congress has developed several presidential possi-bilities in the Senate, but scarcely any in the House. Since the retirement of Reed it is not likely that there is in the House now any person whom a con-siderable number of people would regard as of presidential size or who has yet attained that prominence before the country to be considered a pos-sibility in the near future. In the Senate there has been a development of presidential timber this session which can be drawn upon in the future if not needed immediately. There has always been such timber in the Senate, and the names of Allison, Cullom, Dais, Depew and Hoar have been either actually before conventions or promi-nently mentioned in connection with the presidency.

To this list may now be added the names of Fairbanks of Indiana, Lodge of Massachusetts and Spooner of Wisconsin. Indiana may also be credited with a possibility in the person of Senator Beveridge, it his ambition equals his industry and perseverance, as well as his absolute confidence in himself. It would not be strange if the west should concentrate four years hence upon the "little giant of the Badger State." John C. Spooner. He has de-veloped into one of the leading figures. not only in his State and party, but in stronger man intellectually has been found in the present session, while his conservatism and common sense are qualities which win for him the re-spect of his associates and all others banks are coming men, or, it may be, both have arrived, and all of these fur-nish their party a wealth of material from which to choose a President in the early campaigns of the twentieth

THE MEALS ARE ALWAYS GOOD.

"The train is crowded with agreeable surprises, but it is in the dining car that one is most impressed with the Burlington's superiority. Now, with-out being too utterly dainty, I am ex-ceedingly particular about my meals, and about the way they are served. For breakfast all I want is eggs, rolls, and coffee. In a Burlington dining car I am able to get just what I want, just what I would have at my own table, and for the small sum of fifty cents. The exquisite neatness of the napery makes a good meal taste all the better -Interview with a Denver merchant, Two trains a day from Denver to the the Chicago Special at 9:00 a.m.; the Vestibuled Flyer at 10:00 p. m.— Omaha, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis.
