A CHARGE DEMANDED.

When Kester on the Justice's seat and Powers at the bar, the recipient of the two-sided men who were charged with violating the Sunday ordinance is not remarkable. And yet the evidence was very clear and straight. A number of men, satisfied to having bought and drunk intoxicants on the premises of the defendants on Sunday, July 26th. If there were some trifling discrepancies developed under the cross-fire of attorney Powers, they were insignificant in the face of the undisputed evidence of other witnesses. But when the palpable errors of the defending attorney were pointed out and repeated by the court, it was evident that the prosecution had little chance to gain the case.

This is all in line with the tender policy exhibited towards convicted offenders, and shows that if the man interrogated by the Mayor and Captain of Police is to be carried off effectively, some other magistrate will have to bear the brunt of the law.

THE SCRIBE AND THE ATTORNEY.

The Ogden Standard contains a strong yet respectful article from the pen of J. J. McBride in response to the two-sided man who was on him by C. C. Goodwin. Although the latter is an experienced writer and in a certain class of literature has achieved some success, he does not come near to the level of the Standard. In pointed yet polished sentences, in accurate and well turned arguments, to the practical lawyer and debater he shows him up as a deflating in the Standard. His apparent intention is that he will keep up the fight as long as he can, and he will not let the Standard get the best of him. We have had much of this kind of thing in the Standard, and it is a pity that the better part of valor will not be the right thing and may save him from being utterly used up by the lawyer.

UGHT TO BE STOPPED.

Neurons of citizens are complaining about boys and young men being allowed to break the ordinance in relation to the Sabbath by engaging in law ball games on the public streets on Sundays. An instance of this kind was brought to our attention this morning by a resident of First North street. On that thoroughfare, yesterday afternoon, a few blocks west of East Temple street, a number of boys ranging from thirteen to sixteen years of age, played a game of baseball, and attracted a number of other youths to the locality as spectators. People residing in the neighborhood were not only annoyed by the noise that was created, but their sense of propriety was opposed to the performance. This is not one instance among many of others that occur nearly every Sabbath day in the eastern part of the city. They are branches of a city ordinance, and we presume that the people who are subjected to the annoyance caused by them, will finally have the ordinance amended by first requesting the offenders to desist, and should they fail to heed the entreaty, communicating with the police, whose duty it will be to arrest the law-breakers. The practice ought to be promptly stopped.

COL. PARKER'S LECTURE.

Two audiences which gathered at the Tabernacle last night to hear Colonel Parker lecture on "The Child" were large. There were probably over 2,000 present. The lecture, which is a highly manly, of impressive appearance, has attracted the attention of the audience from beginning to end. The speaker has a slight huskiness of voice, which is not a natural defect, being the result of a bullet wound in the throat, received while fighting to preserve the Union, in the war of the rebellion. This slight vocal disadvantage is compensated by a charming style of oratory. Col. Parker has the rare quality of selling the action to the thought he is engaged in communicating, while his facial expression changes in harmony with the sentiment. Some passages of the lecture were somewhat tedious, but this did not detract from the charm of it as a whole, as they served to verify with greater intensity his frequent outbursts of eloquence.

The lecture was, in the main, distinctly practical and, being delivered with enthusiasm which often gave to the highest of enthusiasm, the lecture is embodied much strong emphasis upon the listeners. Many valuable suggestions were conveyed as to the proper management and training of the child, so as to cultivate and develop his activities. It seemed to embrace the entire of the writings of famous educators and the philosophy of the late Theodore Parker and join them in one. The idea of the lecture was emphasized in its high estimate of the value of labor, while the thoughts of the Christian life, various passages were mentioned in the view rendered with regard to nature in all its varied forms being the expression and embodiment of the thought of God. The lecture was both entertaining and instructive.

THIS IS A SARCOPH.

It is announced as highly improbable that the Wyoming oil business and their Texas auxiliaries who are implicated in the case on a charge of murder will ever be brought to trial. The reason assigned for this prospective failure is that the law is so complicated with the case, that it is impossible for the prosecution to bring it to trial. It is also stated that the case is so complicated that it is impossible for the prosecution to bring it to trial.

Taking it for granted that the prosecution will lack, not for want of evidence but for lack of skill, what is the logical aspect of the situation? Simply this: That it has come to a point in the history of our country when an organized band of armed men, aided by a mob from another part of the country, can invade a neighboring country for the purpose of killing a man, and the population, and can do actual murder, and, without impunity, prevailing there are not sufficient funds to pay the expense of bringing them to justice.

This is rather an anomalous situation in a civilized country. There ought to be no situation, financial or otherwise, that would be a sufficient obstacle to the trial of persons accused of serious crimes. The only justification for such a condition would be a showing, based on a careful investigation, that the parties charged were innocent of the crime. But no such claim is made in this instance. The only basis of prospective discharge is want of funds. This is a sorry, being a condition of lawlessness.

SILVER TALK OF THE NATION.

A President from Washington states that President Harrison has selected as United States delegates to the International Monetary Conference, Allen of Iowa, Jones of Nevada, McCarty of Kentucky, Walker of Missouri, and Cannon of New York. They are all men of national repute. In political circles Walker and Cannon are perhaps not so well known, but in matters of finance they are recognized authorities.

BENEFIT AND SECRET SOCIETIES.

In this city a few days ago, after a session of the Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W., a number of secret societies were held in a hall in the city. The societies were held in a hall in the city. The societies were held in a hall in the city.

The Iron Horse endowment society, the working of which is now being carried on in the city, is a very interesting one. It is a very interesting one. It is a very interesting one.

Many prominent men in New York, Boston, Cincinnati and other cities are being wronged in the respect of the Iron Horse, and of the representative members connected with it. The Iron Horse is a very interesting one.

As we refer to this fair meeting to show the length to which respectable men are sometimes willing to go in the search for a large quantity of the Iron Horse, we are aware that it is actually shown from the money paid to it. The Iron Horse is a very interesting one.

HUNTING THE PICTUREQUE.

Teton Basin and the Jackson's Hole Country.

Nine hours from Salt Lake City via the Utah and Northern route you are in Market Lake, the mountain peak in search for the pictureque. The Iron Horse is a very interesting one.
