DEFENSE HAS ITS HEARING

In Thomas Investigation at Industrial School—Food Was Good Say Many Witnesses.

HARRIMAN SHOPS CLOSE.

Probate and Other Court Cases—Divorce Wanted—Roadway Damaged by Flood Waters.

OGDEN, June 25.—The afternoon session of the Thomas investigation at the state industrial school was a quiet one as compared with the rather stormy and fighting session in the morning. Once or twice there were little word wars, but the afternoon meeting passed off comparatively quiet.

The first witness in the afternoon was George Shorten, the sanitary inspector of Ogden City. He told of the case of the death of the Turner boy who died of scarlet fever and whom the grandmother, Mrs. Crosby, testified that she could not see even after he was dead. He stated that the boy, in his opinion, had a very bad case of scarlet fever and upon his death had instructed that the casket be sealed. He stated that when he arrived at the school after the body had been placed in the casket and the same was sealed, he found Superintendent Thomas trying to console the grandmother in her bereavement and explain to her the danger of the opening of the casket when the boy had died with such a contagious disease. He stated that he had spent two hours with the aged lady in trying to console her. In closing his testimony, Mr. Shorten stated that he had visited the dormitories many times and found them in a first class condition from a sanitary standpoint.

Heber Scowcroft of the firm of John Scowcroft & Sons Company, told of the furnishing of goods to the institution. He said the grade was above the average and the coffee was better than that furnished to the railroad. He said that the cost of about three cents per pound more than the cheap grade. In speaking of the currants which had been previously testified to as being wormy, the witness said that all grades of currants were subject to worms and the only thing to be done was washing which removed the worms and the dirt upon which they fed. He further stated that all packages and bulk goods of the dried or evaporated fruit were subject to worms. There was a cross-examination of Mr. Scowcroft.

Thomas E. Evans, a former member of the board of trustees of the institution, after testifying as to his connection with the school said in answer to a question that was asked him concerning the qualifications of Mr. Thomas, "I believe I thought him efficient as superintendent. I believe I believe Mr. Thomas was an efficient officer equal to discharge the responsibilities placed upon him." Under cross-examination Mr. Evans stated that he furnished groceries for the school varying from $75 to $100 per month before he became a member of the board of trustees and after he became a member the superintendent was allowed to purchase the supplies at his own discretion. When Mr. Evans became president of the board of trustees in 1907, the law requiring the advertising for bids for supplies for the school was observed and the furnishing of supplies was let by contract. In closing his testimony Mr. Evans was asked concerning the use of the Oregon boat on inmates at the school, he said: "When I became president of the board, the matter of the Oregon boat was discussed and it was decided to abolish it at the school."

Miss Lu Mitchell, employed for a short time as instructor in the girls' cottage which was the same as has been published. Mrs. T. D. Harris, cook in the boys' department told of the quality of the food furnished the officers and boys, and said that she found the food all right. She said that in all her life she had never experienced such a hard time of it as she was now.

HARRIMAN SHOPS CLOSE.

OGDEN, June 25.—Last night several hundred men were thrown out of employment by the closing down of the Harriman shops in this city. Those men will be idle until next Thursday morning, July 1, when it is announced that all will be put to work again. The reason given for this shutting down is that the Harriman companies are anxious to make a good showing at the close of the fiscal year, and that this policy is being carried out over the entire system. The order does not apply to the car shops, the paint shops and repair shops in this city, but practically the entire machine plant will be out of commission for the week.

RECENT DEATHS

Workman, Andrew Jackson.—At Virgin, Washington county, Utah, Andrew Jackson Workman, an honored veteran of the Mormon battalion, a Utah

ANDREW JACKSON WORKMAN.

pioneer and one of the pathfinders of Utah's Dixie, passed away June 15. Andrew Jackson Workman was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, July 15, 1824. He was the ninth child of 20 children, born to his father and mother, John and Lydia Workman. He was baptized in Overton county, Tennessee, in 1841, by Dwight Webster, and confirmed by A. O. Smoot, Went to Nauvoo, Ill., in 1843.

In 1846 he went with 500 others in the Mormon battalion to California to fight the battles of his country against Mexico, suffering untold hardships. After peace was declared and the battalion was discharged he came on to Salt Lake, after working in the gold mines. He was sent south to pioneer Dixie and was one of the first settlers of Virgin in 1868.
His life has been spent in tilling the soil. His greatest pleasure was to plow and plant and watch his crops develop into bountiful harvest. This country when he came here was one of the most forbidding spots on earth, dry, hot and barren, infested with poisonous serpents and savage Indians. The country was so rough and cut with ravines that road and ditch building were difficult problems. He lived to see the dawn of a better day for the country he pioneered 50 years ago. In 1856 he married Rebecca Dack who bore him six children. She died on Christmas, 1865, in Virgin. He then married Sarah Johnson Engar, widow of John Engar in 1866. Five boys were born to them. His wife and seven children survive him.

West, William.—At Mountain View, Alberta, Canada, on Wednesday morning, June 16, Patriarch William West, passed away at his home after a short sickness. He was a faithful, conscientious man and despite his 81 years of age, was hale and hearty until one year ago, when he began to decline rapidly. The funeral and interment were held yesterday at Mt. View, a number of friends and acquaintances from Cardston attending the services.
