OGDEN, UTAH, - JULY 20, 1904.

R. L. DAVIS HELD FOR TRIAL.

Must Answer for Obtaining Money Under False Pretense—Sold Sheriff Unsound Horse.

STAKE CONFERENCE SUNDAY.

Judge Maloney Breaks an Arm—Damage Suit Heard Without Jury—Bottomer Held for Assault.

R. L. Davis was yesterday held to answer a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and his bond of $500 was furnished. Some time ago Davis sold a horse to Sheriff Joseph Bailey, guaranteeing it to be sound. Shortly thereafter the horse went lame and was found to be in bad shape. Bailey had the seller arrested on a charge of obtaining money by fraud. Davis secured the services of an attorney, Valentine Gideon, and took a change of venue to Justice Burt's court in North Ogden. At the hearing yesterday his defense was that he believed the horse was sound and brought a number of witnesses to prove that they had ridden with him and did not notice the animal was lame. At the close of the testimony, however, Justice Burt bound him over and continued his old bond in force.

STAKE CONFERENCE SUNDAY.

Quarterly conference of Weber stake of Zion will be held next Sunday, July 24, in the tabernacle, begining at 10 in the forenoon. Meetings will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., and the Y. M. and Y. L. M. I. associations will hold their quarterly conjoint meeting at 7:30 p. m. No meetings will be held on Monday, it being Pioneer day.

JUDGE MALONEY BREAKS AN ARM.

Judge Thomas Maloney had had the misfortune to break his arm a day or two ago while irrigating his garden out on Harrisville road. Mr. Maloney went to leap across a ditch, holding a shovel in one hand. In some way he slipped and fell back, his hand dropping over the shovel-handle and catching the weight of his body. One of the wrist bones was broken, and as it is the right hand it causes the injured man much inconvenience.

WEDDING PERMITS.

Marriage licenses were yesterday issued to the following couples:

Lehi Thomas, 28, of Salt Lake, and Miss Rhoda Smith, 19, of Pocatello.

Emil Schubert, 23, of Salt Lake, and Miss Annie Neuteboom, 18, both of Ogden. The last named couple were married by Elder Joseph Stanford.

JAMES BOTTIMER ARRAIGNED.

James Bottimer was yesterday arraigned on the charge of assault with intent to commit murder in the shooting of Pat Smythe, last Friday. He has retained Atty. Joseph Chez to defend him. The proceedings yesterday were purely formal. Bottomer's bonds were fixed at $2,500 which he made no attempt to furnish, being practically a stranger in Ogden. Mr. Smythe is progressing satisfactorily toward recovery.

NO JURY WANTED.

The case of Nicholas Smith against the Oregon Short Line was considerably shortened by the attorneys dispensing with both jurors and witnesses. A jury had been impaneled and the testimony of Mr. Smith, the plaintiff, was taken. At this stage the attorneys stipulated what was the state of facts and the stipulation was such that all the jury questions were eliminated, hence the jury was discharged. The attorneys agreed to submit written briefs in place of arguments and the case was then left with Judge Rolapp.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Mr. E. O. Wattis, two daughters, Mattie and Ethel; left last night for the east. They will visit a short time in Denver before proceeding to the fair at St. Louis.

The Third ward people will go to the Hermitage in Ogden canyon, July 24—Pioneer day. Judge Rolapp will deliver an oration and there will be special music by the choir.

W. O. Carbis was in Ogden yesterday from Salt Lake.

The savings department of the Pingree National bank will remain open Saturday's until 8 p. m. for the purpose of accommodating those desirous of making savings deposits.

"What do you consider the greatest invention of modern times?"

"The phonograph," answered the political boss, who was having trouble with some of his loquacious subordinates. "It never says a thing that hasn't been told to it by somebody that knows what he is talking about."—Washington Star.

COURT HEARINGS.

Wedding Bells—Bride of 55 and Bridegroom of 81—Educational Lecture.

Special Correspondence.

Logan, July 18.—Justice Smith's court occupied the day hearing the case of Skanchy vs John E. Rouche of Millville. Plaintiff brought suit to recover $44, claimed due for bench material made for Millville meetinghouse. Defendant claimed that the material had not been furnished at time agreed and that he had been compelled to buy chairs to seat the house.

From the evidence produced it appeared that benches had been made so near time specified that the judge awarded plaintiff the amount asked and assessed defendants with costs.

In the case of Amanda Transtrum, administratrix, vs Annie T. Collier, Judge Hart today rendered a decision that the legal title of all the estate was in the deceased Andrew Transtrum at the time of his death, and that all the deeds should be set aside, and that plaintiff take nothing by her said action and defendant nothing by her counter-claim or cross-complaint, and that each party pay her own costs incurred herein.

The suit grew out of complications over certain property that Mr. Transtrum had deeded to each of them. The disposition of the property will now be made to the heirs in regular manner.

FUNERAL OF JOHN MORDUE.

Faithful Church Worker Laid to Rest—Pioneer Day Celebration.

Special Correspondence.

Payson, Utah Co., July 18.—The funeral of John Mordue was held in the First ward meetinghouse this afternoon. Deceased was born at Gateshead, Durham Co., England, in 1842, and emigrated to Utah 16 years ago, residing at Mammoth most of the time, where he followed his occupation as a miner, having followed that pursuit for 50 years. He was largely instrumental in establishing a branch of the Church at Mammoth, which later became a ward organization, and was always a supporter of his Church by liberal donations and otherwise. He leaves a wife, two sons and eight daughters, all of whom are grown. The cause of his death was miner's consumption, having passed away Saturday night, July 16.

The Twenty-fourth of July committee is working hard with the sub-committees, and they promise a good celebration. A fine procession is being arranged, and a program at the park in the morning, basket ball, baseball for the older ones in the afternoon, also a dance in the pavilion for the children.

Members of the city council together with government surveyors, have gone up the canyon today to survey the reservoirs with a view of getting a title to them for the city, as they are located on the forest reserve.

MANTI.

SCANDINAVIAN REUNION.

Anual Gathering Attended by Thousands of Norsemen of the State.

Manti, Sanpete Co., July 18.—Yesterday was a grand day for the Scandinavian Saints in Manti. Perhaps no less than 4,000 people had gathered from different parts of the country to participate in the reunion, which had been arranged, and for which active preparations had been going on for some time. From Salt Lake City and vicinity alone about 500 people came in on a special and the regular train. The same trains brought in representative men from Cache, Boxelder, Weber, Utah and Tooele counties; a special train brought in 300 visitors from Sevier county. Three well attended meetings were held during the day in the Manti tabernacle, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, with the national colors of America, Denmark, Sweden and Norway. The singing was done by the Scandinavian choir of Manti, a similar choir from Spring City, and a German choir. Among the speakers were President Anthon H. Lund, and Elders Andrew Jenson, Martin Christopherson and L. Dahlquist of Salt Lake City, President C. N. Lund of Mt. Pleasant, President Lewis Anderson of Manti, Elder Peter Anderson of Ogden, Adam L. Peterson of Huntsville, and Simon Christensen of Richfield. Elder George Christensen of Mount Pleasant, gave a fine recitation in a Danish dialect, and Sister Maggie Hull of Salt Lake City sang twice. Elder Gustaf A. Iverson, of Manti, conducted the meetings, and the remarks made by the different speakers were timely and interesting. The happiest feature of the occasion was perhaps the meeting of old friends; quite a number of the visitors from the north had never before visited Sanpete valley, and they especially enjoyed the scenery en route as well as their associations with the people after their arrival. This is the fourth general Scandinavian reunion since the great jubilee in 1900. The former outings were to Provo in 1901, to Brigham City in 1902 and to Logan in 1903.

MALAD, IDAHO.

DEATH OF EDWARD EVANS.

Boy Falls from Horse and Breaks Collar Bone—Pioneer Day.

Special Correspondence.

Malad City, Oneida Co., Idaho, July 18.—Edward Evans, an aged pioneer, and highly respected citizen of this place, was called to the great beyond last Thursday morning. His death resulted from the effects of an accident which he received some two months ago. While taking his horse to water he was hurled against a fence and received serious internal injuries, and was confined to his bed till his death. Deceased was born Jan. 30, 1838, at Mill Road, Aberdair, Glamorganshire, South Wales, and came to this country with his parents in 1849, locating in Iowa. In 1851 he came to Utah, where he remained two years, then went to California, returning to Utah in 1854. Re-crossing the plains in 1856 he settled in Illinois for four years, finally returning to Utah in 1860. Three years later he married Ann Thomas and came to Malad in 1865, where he has lived until his death.

Mr. Evans leaves a wife and five children to mourn loss of an affectionate husband and father. He was honest and upright in all his transactions. These traits, with his genial and jovial disposition, won for him the esteem of the entire community.

Thomas Jones, the son of F. E. Jones, fell from a horse last Tuesday evening, breaking his collar bone. Dr. Davis set the broken bone, and the lad is doing well.

Great preparations are being made for the celebration of Utah's pioneer day.

CAREY, IDAHO.

WARD CONFERENCES.

Frost Damages Garden Crops—Pioneer Day—Good Fishing.

Special Correspondence.

Carey, Blaine Co., Idaho, July 16.—On Saturday, Sunday and Monday last ward, Priesthood and auxiliary conferences were held, and during the week the stake officers visited the branches belonging to this ward at Silver creek, Bellvue, Soldier, and Fir Grove, and at Camas Prairie.

A heavy wind prevailed here Friday, followed at night by a hard frost, doing considerable damage to potatoes and tender garden plants. Cool weather and rain storms have very materially hindered the gathering of first crop of hay, which is very heavy.

Committees are appointed, and are working earnestly to prepare for a grand celebration of the Twenty-fourth next Saturday.

Excellent fishing is had in the streams of Little Wood river, Fish creek and Silver creek, surrounding Carey, and many are indulging in this pleasurable pastime.

Elder Samuel W. Richards left here for Rexburg and Teton on Thursday, and B. H. Hollingworth, manager of the Co-op. store, left Friday evening for a visit to Salt Lake.

THAT SEEDLESS AND BLOOMLESS APPLE.

That Colorado party who "by some mysterious process" and after years of effort has succeeded in developing a "seedless and bloomless apple" might have saved all that trouble, for the country is full of such fruits. One of the trees stands in Willis, Kan., and was planted by "Old Johnny Appleseed." Other trees are found in Ohio, in West Virginia, and probably others in other states. I repeat that I do not see anything so very wonderful or impossible in a seedless apple, as we have other seedless fruits, the same as we are able to grow the seedless tomatoes, cucumbers, etc.; but the "bloomless" part of it is, of course, a mistake. Fruitbuds of the "seedless and bloomless" apple have been forwarded to me from Kansas, and knowing that Prof. John Craig, the horticulturist of Cornell college of Agriculture, is very much interested in such matters, I sent the buds to him for a thorough botanical examination. Professor Craig's reply is as follows: "This seedless-apple correspondence grows very interesting. I have examined the blossoms forwarded from Kansas, and find them strikingly abnormal. First, the petals are absent; second, the stamens, or pollen-bearing organs, are wanting; third, the calyx is double; fourth, the pistils, instead of being only five in number, representing the normal number of cavities of the apple, vary from eight to ten in each blossom. This blossom, therefore (for such it is), is imperfect, and if all on the tree are alike, the tree would be sterile—in other words, it could not pollinate itself. If the tree sets fruit, it is because other apple-trees stand near enough to furnish the pollen. Another point which ought to be made clear to the ordinary observer is that the petals are not essential parts of the blossom. Many plants are apetalous—that is, without petals. For instance, the mulberry gets along without petals and without sepals, and usually sets full every year when late frosts do not interfere. Of course, the envelopes are coverings of the organs of generation. Stamens and pistils are important parts of the blossom, but they are not to be regarded as essential to the production of seed. In hybridizing, the operator usually removes the petals of the apple-blossom, and frequently a part of the calyx." There is only one point about which I do not exactly agree with Professor Craig, and that is his assertion that the tree would be sterile if the blossoms on it were all like the ones sent us—that is, if he means that the fruit would not develop. In point of fact the tree is sterile, as the apples are without seeds, as tomatoes under glass often grow without seeds when pollen has not been available. The imperfect character of the blossom is undoubtedly the very reason why the apple grows without seeds. We shall probably soon get at the bottom of all this "wonderful" "new" development.—T. Greiner in the Farm and Fireside.
