UTAH SOUVENIR FOR FIGHTING BOB

Move to Present Vice Admiral Evans With a Token from Behive State.

BIG EXCURSION PLANNED.

Commercial Club Committee Meets This Afternoon to Start the Ball Rolling.

Discusses Ways and Means to Send One Thousand People to Welcome The Pacific Fleet.

The Commercial club excursion committee, of which W. E. Bailey is chairman, is meeting this afternoon, to discuss ways and means for the inauguration of the largest excursion that ever went out of this city, to go to San Francisco, May 8, and witness the arrival of the great American war fleet. Moreover, the Commercial club itself will take an active hand in arranging for the notable event, and with the committee on excursions get things moving bright and early. It is proposed to send several long excursion trains from this city and Ogden westward, carrying over a thousand people, so that Utah and contiguous territory will be well represented.

SPECIAL TESTIMONIAL.

But this is not all. Manager Harris of the Commercial club and others are proposing that some special testimonial shall be presented to Vice Admiral Evans from Salt Lake and Utah citizens, inasmuch as he resided in this state when Capt. Hooper appointed him to Annapolis as a cadet from Utah; so this commonwealth is peculiarly interested in the admiral's success and personal welfare generally. That this testimonial shall be suitably pretentious and worthy of the occasion is the determination of those having the matter in charge. The proposition is to raise $1,000 for the purchase of a badge, or souvenir to be presented to the admiral by a committee from the Commercial club shortly after the arrival of the Utah excursionists at San Francisco. He will be invited to one of the larger hotels in whose rooms the whole delegation can gather to witness the pleasing event, where the formal presentation will be made with the usual felicitations, and where every Utah person present will have a chance to shake hands with the former naval cadet from Utah. It will be a great occasion, something not to be forgotten in the history of the state.

DR. SNYDER STARTS IT.

According to expectations, there will be a great rush into San Francisco from all parts of the west by special trains as well as the regular service, so that the maneuvers of the fleet in the bay will be witnessed by over a million people. The excursion from this state will be "the talk of the town" from now on. Dr. J. W. Snyder has sent Manager Harris of the Commercial club check for $20 as a starter in the fund with which to purchase the proposed souvenir.

WOMAN DYNAMITER IS KEPT "INCOMUNICADO."

Oakland, Cal., March 12.—Mrs. Isabella Martin, charged with dynamiting the house of Judge Ogden, reached Oakland last night.

She is being kept "incommunicado" by the police authorities during a severe sweating process begun early this morning and which will be continued all day until the police exhaust every effort to break her down.

Up to this time Mrs. Martin has proven herself the equal of the police in a game of wits.

Her chief worry today was over the death of a pet Mastiff, who succumbed on a trip from Weaverville. It is expected that Mrs. Martin's son, Henry Hoffman, by her first marriage, will furnish counsel for her.

WITH THE AUTOMOBILES.

Bulletins from Various Parts of the Country Show American Leads

Butler Creek, Wyo., March 12.—The American car in the New York to Paris race left here at 8:10 this morning. Roads are slushy and streams high and scarcely fordable.

Kimball, Neb., March 12.—The Italian car reached here at 7:30 this morning, all-night's run. Car left at 8 o'clock for Chicago.

Vall, Iowa, March 12.—French car No. 1 reached here at 8:05 this morning and left for Omaha immediately.

Omaha, March 12.—Several Iowa parties yesterday reported the French car No. 2 as passing, when report should have been French car No. 1. No. 2 was at Clinton, Iowa, this morning.

Denison, Iowa, March 12.—The French car No. 1 left Denison at 9:50 a. m. after an all-night trip from Boone.

APPEAL UNAVAILING

Cattle Grovers Ask and Are Refused Permission to Fence Public Domain for Corral.

(Special to the "News.")

Washington, D. C., March 12.—Cattle men of Washington county, Utah, have appealed to Senator Sutherland to aid them in securing authority from the interior department to fence in sufficient land on the public domain in southern Utah to afford a corral for their stock. They point out that owing to the extreme dryness of the region it is necessary to round up their herds in order to drive them to the only available water supply.

In response to the appeal, Secy. Gair held today wrote to Senator Sutherland that he has no authority to grant the necessary permission. The secretary adds: "A case like this shows the need for legislation to control the range along the lines heretofore suggested by the department."

There is in spite of the great need, no likelihood of the enactment of the grazing legislation indicated at this season.

IDAHO CRATS IN OPEN REVOLT

Fred T. Dubois Stirs Up Opposition Among the Rank And File.

GETS NO CORDIAL RECEPTION.

His Attacks on a Number of Non-Mormon Leaders Create a General Mutiny in Camp.

(Special to the "News.") Boise, Idaho, March 13.—The announcement made by Senator Dubois in opening his Idaho campaign from Salt Lake under the auspices of the "American" party that his program is the disfranchisement of the Mormon people, has had the effect of stirring up much opposition among the rank and file of the Democratic party.

The radical steps heretofore advocated by him and adopted as a part of the Democratic program of Idaho did not seem to meet with that cordial reception that the advocates thereof hoped for.

PROGRAM TOO RADICAL.

This is strongly indicated by the revolt in Democratic circles against this radical program and the formation of a program to unite the Democratic party on broad Democratic lines and to make paramount in this campaign the election of Bryan, national issues and an assault upon the present extravagant and incompetent administration of state affairs by the Republicans.

BACK TO PRINCIPLES.

In nearly every county in the state prominent Democrats express themselves as favorable to this view and will no doubt secure sufficient delegates to control the coming Democratic state convention, cutting out entirely the so-called Mormon question and bringing the party back to broad Democratic principles. The virulent attack on prominent Democrats made through Senator Dubois' paper, in which he likened them to the Indians who were the Mormon allies, as he alleges in the editorial, in the celebrated Mountain Meadow massacre, and even reflected upon their ancestry, has proved a boomerang and hundreds of Democrats who were in doubt as to what ought to be done are now lined up with such men as J. H. Hawley, K. I. Perky, George Ainsley, John Nugent, Karl Paine, Judge Stockslader, John C. Rice, and others, in grim determination to carry both the conventions in favor of their proposition.

MORMON QUESTION.

As a basis for their contention they hold that this question, to wit, the Mormon issue, is now in the courts, which alone can determine the facts in the case and when so determined by the courts the so-called Mormon question will be settled and settled in the only way possible.

ASSAULTS JURY'S VERDICT.

Chicago, March 2.—Attorneys for John D. Walsh, president of the defunct Chicago National bank, continued their arguments today in favor of a new trial. John S. Miller, chief counsel for Mr. Walsh, argued today that the verdict of guilty with the elements of repugnance and inconsistency that make it invalid.

WEBER ACADEMY CHANGE

Principal D. O. McKay Resigns and is Succeeded by Prof. Wilford M. McKendrick.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, March 12.—D. O. McKay, who has been principal of the Weber academy since the opening of the school in 1902, this morning tendered his resignation to the board of education. The resignation was accepted and Prof. Wilford M. McKendrick was chosen to be his successor.

Prof. McKendrick has made the academy a great success, and it is today one of the best of the Church schools. His resignation was tendered because of the numerous duties multiplying upon his hands, he being unable to give them all the attention which they demand.

The board of education acted upon it at a meeting held Monday, but it was not until this morning that President L. W. Shurtliff of the board appeared before the school and announced the fact. President Shurtliff paid a high tribute to the labors of Principal McKay, complimenting him on the progress made in the school.

Principal McKay addressed the students for a short time, expressing his appreciation of the support they had always given him, also for the backing given him by the board of education. He expressed the most kindly feelings for all, and wished the institution continued success under the direction of the new principal, Prof. McKendrick, whom he introduced as his successor.

Prof. McKendrick is 38 years of age, has a wife and family, and has taught mathematics in the Weber academy for the last five years. He is recognized as an able educator, is well liked by the student body, and in every way gives promise of keeping up the splendid record made by the academy up to the present time.

Two other changes were announced in the academy faculty this morning. Miss Zina E. Larkin was unanimously chosen by the board of education to succeed the late Mrs. Sarah Evans as instructor in domestic arts, and Miss Birdie Witherspoon, a graduate of the institution, was sustained as instructor in the art department.

STUBBS COMES TOMORROW.

J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Harriman system will be in this city tomorrow, according to information obtained at O. S. L. headquarters today.

Mr. Stubbs has been all along the southern edge of the United States; up the Pacific coast to the northwest and is now on his way through the west and central portion of the expansive west of the Mississippi. This long trip is important and just what it means is a matter of conjecture. That the trip is one of inspection is certain but such thorough and wide inspection is fraught with significance.

Fire Precautions in the Salt Lake City Schools

Chief C. T. Vail is Making a Series of Inspections—But Four Buildings With Fire Escapes, Drill is a Feature Among the Pupils—Impromptu Turn-out at the Hamilton In 1 minute 50 seconds—List of Schools Showing How Boilers are Placed.

THE SPIRAL FIRE ESCAPE AT THE HAMILTON SCHOOL.

This picture was taken yesterday afternoon following an emergency call at the request of the "News." William W. Barton, principal of the Hamilton, stands at the door of the escape.

Since the publication in the "News" of the story of the condition of Salt Lake schools on the day following the terrible Collingwood disaster, parents from all over the city have repeatedly requested further details as to how far their children are protected in the twenty-six big buildings that come under the jurisdiction of the board of education.

A thorough canvass of the situation points to every precaution possible being taken by those responsible for the welfare of the rising generation. Acting independently, Chief Charles T. Vail of the fire department, accompanied by Supt. Bridwell of the school buildings, has been thoroughly inspecting the various buildings. He has still considerable work to do, so his report of necessity is not yet forthcoming.

SURPRISE VISIT.

Yesterday afternoon the Deseret News also took a hand and paid a surprise visit to the Hamilton school, which is one of the oldest buildings in the city and probably the most inflammable, as wooden stairways and a boiler in the basement are features.

Principal William W. Barton cheerfully responded to a request that an impromptu exhibition drill be indulged in as a demonstration. Without any warning the gong was sounded, and inside of 1 minute and 50 seconds the 353 children were outside. They marched with martial tread down those wooden stairs four abreast, while the youngsters from the third floor came sailing down the spiral fire escape, having all kinds of fun as they shot the chute.

Such a scene is being duplicated in practically every school in the city at least once a week. There is no great excitement, and the records established under these conditions are anywhere

The following table tells the story of the number of pupils in each structure and how the buildings are heated:

HIGH SCHOOLS' BIG FAMILY.

The high school, however, is not included in this category because with its 1,220 pupils, the old building and no fire escapes, it takes longer to get all out.

The high school has had one fire drill since Jan. 1, the Webster school, 15, and the others from three to 14.

Different signals prevail in different schools. In all cases, however, the exits to be taken are designated by the number of times the gong rings. Practice makes perfect, and from reports secured in no case does the sounding of fire gong create a panic.

The women teachers stay by their charges and see them safely outside. An inspection of the schools of Salt Lake reveals that while some of the buildings are four stories in height but four the Hamilton, Bryant, Union and Freemont, are provided with fire escapes.

FIRE CHIEF BUSY.

Is Engaged in Making An Inspection Of School Buildings.

Charles T. Vail, chief of the Salt Lake fire department is a busy man these days. At the present time he is engaged in making a thorough investigation into conditions at all of Salt Lake's public schools with reference to the fire protection in them. When the work is completed there will be some changes in certain schools and parents will have cause to be grateful for the precaution taken by the fire chief.

One thing Chief Vail wishes to impress upon the principals of schools is that at the moment a fire is discovered an alarm should be turned into headquarters. Through a mistake, a state-ment was published a few days ago to the effect that some of the principals had said they instructed the teachers to turn in an alarm until all the children were out of the building. Chief Vail says that this is a mistake, and that an alarm should be turned in the first thing.

Chief Vail has not visited all the schools as yet but those that have been inspected show a most satisfactory state of affairs.

He says that the old school buildings are equipped with a spiral fire escape, the schools having them being the Hamilton, Bryant, Union and Freemont. They furnish means of quick and safe exit from the upper floors.

"I started this inspection before the terrible disaster at Collingwood," said Chief Vail this morning. "My purpose is to become thoroughly acquainted with conditions as they exist in each and every school. We want to know all

FIFTH MEMBER ADDED TO JURY

Second Verdict of Fifty Being Examined for Service in Sullivan Trial.

FOUR MEN ARE EXCUSED.

One Man Could Not be Located but Case is Proceeded With Notwithstanding.

Of the second 50 veniremen summoned in the Sullivan murder case, 33 this morning appeared in the jury box, the exact number that was present when the names were read of the first 50. Today, however, three came in and were excused, making in all 36 accounted for. The 33 were examined on voir dire, and a drawing of eight names, the number required to fill the box, was proceeded with.

One man was still absent, with no explanation from the sheriff's office except that he could not be located. His name is William Morley, but his present whereabouts was unknown to the officers. The defense, however, did not desire a postponement because of the fact that the accounting was not complete, as in the former instance, but signified a willingness to proceed, whether or not the missing talesman should be found.

FOUR ARE EXCUSED.

On the examination voir dire four men were excused, namely, Preston S. Free, Daniel G. McElroy, Joseph Burton and John Hingsworth. Mr. Free stated that his name should have been the word J. appended, and that he did not live at the address indicated.

Mr. Hingsworth is a school teacher, claimed exemption on that ground and secured it. Mr. Burton had no one with whom to leave his place of business, and was excused. Mr. Hingsworth is partially deaf, and is under the care of a physician, reasons deemed sufficient by the court why he should not serve.

FIVE JURORS.

At the noon hour but five jurors had been secured, namely, Thomas Alston, Samy Oldham, Charles Deany and Hyrum Stoffer. Mention of the first three was made in yesterday's "News," and Mr. Stoffer, a bricklayer of Murray, was chosen late in the day. Just before today Hyrum H. Evans, a building contractor, living at 457 west Fifth South, was accepted, after the defense had exercised its fifth peremptory challenge, in an exception to Hyrum Goff.

CLERICALS ARE ALARMED.

Frequent Recurrence of Fires in Menomonee Homes Arouses the Sect.

Lancaster, Pa., March 12.—The burning of the barn on the farm of Bishop Abraham E. Harr, West Mead-ow, has developed what is believed to be a conspiracy against the Menomonee clergy and other members of that faith in Lancaster county. There have been numerous fires recently and the Menomonees are greatly exercised.

ALLEGED HIGH GRADER KIDNAPED AT NIGHT.

Butte, Mont., March 12.—According to the Anaconda Standard, James McCarthy, known as the "Anheuser Kid," who was kidnaped and carried away by a man in Goldfield a year ago, and was acquitted on the ground of self-defense, was kidnaped here last night and taken to Nevada by private detective agency which has been engaged by Consolidated Mining company, which charges McCarthy with high grading. A trunk and grip full of ore is said to have been recovered at the same time.

WHAT OPTOMETRY LAWS DO FOR OTHER STATES.

New York, March 12.—"Fraudulent vendors of eye glasses are over-running New York and are being driven here from other states which have enacted optometry laws within the last two or three years," said E. Lefroy River, president of the Physiological Society of the American Association of Opticians, at a meeting yesterday of the New York branch of the society. The association asks for a law to stop the frauds.

RISE AT ANCHOR IN THE BLUE BAY

The American Battleship Fleet Steams Into Magdalena Harbor This Morning.

WIRELESS EXPECTED TONIGHT.

Strong Light Waves of the Sun Must Make Way for Either Impulses.

San Diego, Cal., March 12.—While no additional word had come by wireless from the south today and none is expected until well into the night, when the strong light-waves of the sun make way for the other impulses of the wireless flames, it is observed here at noon that the "American battle fleet," as it has been officially referred to by President Roosevelt, is safe within the island-guarded harbor of Magdalena bay, and that the 16 big ships are riding at anchor in the blue waters of this most isolated but now most famous of Mexican ports.

LAST WORD RECEIVED.

The last word received from the fleet at the wireless station, here was to the effect that the ships were off Magdalena, probably a distance of 50 miles or more and would steam into the bay as soon after daylight as the steaming points of the Entrance Redondo point, on the south and Sentrada point, or San Rock, on the north—could be picked up by the navigating officers. These sailing orders should at noon have put the fleet into Man of War Cove, behind the rocky peninsula leading down from the north and serving as one of the unusual means of protection for this favored harbor. This peninsula also contains the little adobe settlement of Magdalena and the improvised customs house, which has been opened by direction of the Mexican government, to enable traders from the north to carry on business with the officers and men of the fleet, who, for a period of a month or more, will be practically cut off from the rest of the world.

IN STRANGE WATERS.

The waters in and about Magdalena bay are strange, being ground for the officers of the battleship fleet, of whom have gained their craft of seamanship along the Atlantic coast and for this reason the entrance was not too closely approached, believing it an American naval base for some time by the vessels of the Pacific fleet, and by stray cruises from the Atlantic, and the echoes of the harbor hills soon will be awakened with a roar of guns far beyond anything ever heard on the Pacific coast.

Naval officers here on board the Tennessee, Washington and Albany marveled today at the speed with which the fleet was brought from Callao to Magdalena. Even the latest calculations, made after the increased speed of the ships was announced by wireless, failed to put the fleet into Magdalena bay before late this afternoon or some time tonight.

PREVIOUS RECORDS.

The Tennessee and Washington, which form a part of the second division of the first squadron of the Pacific fleet and are known as the pathfinders, recently covered exactly the same route in the taken by the 16 battleships in their cruise from Atlantic to Pacific waters. The officers of these ships especially were surprised at the showing of the fleet in its run of more than 4,600 miles, and is taken as a remarkable demonstration of the fitness of the machinery, hulls and crews under the most trying conditions which battleships of any nation ever have to face.

FEAT WELL RECEIVED.

Coming at a time when the navy in under investigation by a congressional committee on the details of the construction of the ships are subject to criticism, the accomplishment of the fleet, which now has, to all intents and purposes ended its long cruise, is a gratifying news to the naval officials here.

STAY IS A PROBLEM.

The stay of the fleet at Magdalena is problematical—target practice will require some time, and will be followed by fleet drills in battle tactics. There seems to be no doubt, however, judging from the unexpected early arrival of the fleet at Magdalena, that the program of hard work laid down for the southern drill ground will be carried out with all possible expedition. This is a good thing, as through the Golden Gate of San Francisco on May 5, after having paid visits of as long duration as the itinerant permits at San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Santa Cruz, on its way up the coast.
