

The number of weddings that have taken place during the week is calculated to lead to the belief that some occult spell lurks in the June month to bring about the plethoric hymenical events crowded into its balmy days. The record of the present week is a most notable one, chief interest centering about the marriage of Utah's governor-Heber M. Wells-and Miss Emily Katz, while the others have occupied a prominent place in public attention. On Wednesday alone, there were eight weddings, and every other day of the week has had its quota. For next week another full record is planned. Wednesday, the 12th, promising to witness as large a list as the same day of this week, while the rest of the week
