The Prohibitionists.

The call of the convention was then read, and an address of welcome was delivered by C. B. Ross, of Pittsburg. He described it as a very great honor and a pleasant duty. Never had a party more justly pleaded for help than this one. The demands of the age could not be met without a prohibition party. This was the only political party that offered to the women of this nation equality with men in managing the affairs of the government. Every nation was interested in the work of the convention, and when it came to choose a candidate for the presidency, he should be one whose labors have richly blessed the cause of prohibition.

turmoil the roll of States was called to nominate committees on permanent organization, and on resolutions. The convention by a rising vote and with much enthusiasm, endorsed the views and principles expressed in the memorial of the Women's Christian Temperance Union presented. It was proposed to couple with it a woman suffrage plank, but at the suggestion of Mrs. Woodbridge, the secretary, that portion of the motion was withdrawn. At 6.30 the convention took a recess

The evening session was opened by singing various hymns, campaign melodies and prayer by Rev. Warren, of New York, a permanent organization was effected by electing Prof. Samnel Dickey, of Michigan, president, and a large number of vice-presidents. The report was adopted and a committee appointed to conduct Mr. Dickey to the chair. In taking the chair he expressed appreciation of he expressed appreciation of ligh honor done him. WORDS FALL express my gratttion was being held to-day in Indianapolis, and he proposed to send it the following telegram: "The national prohibition convention is assembled at Pittsburg, representing 31 States and Territories, with 500 delegates, says to Indianapolis: Stand firm; trust in God's cause, and organize an independent party for prohibition."

It was suggested as there would be two conventions held to-day in Indianapolis, (prohibition and temperance) the same telegram should be sent to both. It was so ordered.

Mosher of Maryland said, satirically, the thanks of the convention were due to the General Government for its interest in the convention as shown by its sending two high officers, the Com-reported by the committee acknow-ledges good in the Government; de-clares that the traffic in alcoholic beverages, under the laws of National and State Governments, is productive of crime and pauperism, a burden to taxation for the penal and sheltering institutions, and endangering the public peace, and corrupting politics and imposing manifold other evils upon the people; that these laws are all contrary to good laws; and contrary to our happiness, and we call upon our fellow-citizens to aid in the repeal of these laws and lead in the suppression of this traffic. The history of the past twenty-four years leads to the conclusion that the republican party is insensible to, or impotent for the redress of these wrongs, and should no longer be intrusted with the government. The presidential nominee of the last convention, Mr. Blaine, has within the past few years Blaine, has within the past few years ublished and recommended that the published and recommended that the liquor revenue be distributed among the States, and Logan has advocated that the revenue should go to the support of the schools. This is virtually a recommendation of the perpetuation of the traffic. The democratic party's position against prohibition, proves it should not be intrusted with power and place. We favor reforms in the administration of the government in the abolition of all sinecure offces and officers and in the election of post officers and in the election of post officers of the government instead of their appointment by the President, and that competency, honesty and sobriety are the essential qualifications for holding office.

districts and two at large have been elected. The platform is not yet presented, but will affirm the principles of the National Republican platform. Several district delegations having adopted resolutions to make the national one the platform of the State; will favor a protective tariff for wine, raisins and hops. The convention will adjourn till to-morrow.

Independent Committees.

NEW YORK, 23.—The members of the finance committee of the National committee of the Independents are J. W. Harper, Jr., New York; Moses Williams, Massachusetts; Daniel Drake Smith, New Jersey; C. P. Armstrong, Connecticut, and Samuel Wagner, Pennsylvania. The executive committee of ten appointed with power to add to their number and fill vacancies, consists of the following: Charles P. Pittsburg, 28.—A temporary organization was affected in the choice of Wm. Daniel, of Maryland, as chairman, and Mrs. Woodbridge, president of the Ohio Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Charles Carter, of Washington, D. C., as secretaries.

The call of the convention was then read, and an address of welcome was ly blessed the cause of prohibition. Gideon T. Stewart, chairman of th Gideon T. Stewart, chairman of the National committee, responded on behalf of the convention.

W. Stewart then delivered the opening address, in which he said one of the most prevalent and dangerous forms of compromise with the liquor question was that of "local prohibition," or "local option." A national crime, organized in the control of the government, demanded national prohibition by the party formed for the purpose. An attempt to reform the national government and to abolish the ruling national crime by merely changing the laws and the constitutions of States, was as vain as to ex-

The evening session was opened by the high honor done him. They were here for work, not for words. They were not in harmony with those who believed in taxing and licensing a liquor system. They could not let it alone. They believed that it ought to be suppressed. [Cheers]. There was no hope to be placed in the political parties. This Prohibition party stood committed to earnest, independent, political action. Their object was to found and to build from its foundation an intelligent body of voters, whose political thought would be the complete suppression of the liquor traffic. To that work they were pledged, and by that work they were pledged, and by that work they expected to stand. With the power of the general government in their hands it would be wielded wisely, and the nation would be redeemed from the ruinous rum power.

A proposition to adopt the two-thirds rule for nomination was rejected, and a majority rule was adopt-sentation at the next national prohibition convention two for each congressional district and four for each State, and another to change the party's name. The convention then, at 10 p. m., adjourned till 9 a. m. to-morrow.
