joint credit and capital to complete the Southern Transcontinental Railroad on the thirty-second par-allel as speedily as their practically unlimited resources can construct it. Gould's first intention was in undertaking the construction of a line on the thirty-fifth parallel, but failing in his attempts to obtain control of the Atchison and Santa Fe Railroad and anticipate Boston capitalists in securing control of the newly organized St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Company, indicated. It is probable that the parties to this new combination will find it desirable to come to will find it desirable to come to Congress for some legislation.

Concerning the Texas Pacific land grant and rights of way, etc., until preliminary questions of that character are decided and formal agreements signed, the whole matter will be kept secret as far as possible, or, perhaps, officially discredited, but that such an agreement has already been virtually concluded appears, nevertheless, to concluded appears, nevertheless, to be entirely certain. The reassembling of Congress tolay was favored by bright weather, and attended with the usual pleasurable excitement of reunions of crowds of friends upon the floor of the Senate and House of Representhe Senate and House of Representatives, and the presence of thousands of well dressed spectators of both sexes in all the galleries; but the Legislative proceedings were wholly devoid of special interest. Very little attention was paid to the reading of the President's mes-

fect during the existence of the present Congress, except, possibly, to make party capital for the demo-

Senator Thurman, referring to this recommendation, says the trouble with the democratic party heretofore has been that it attacked the existing financial system, but now, he remarks, the republicans, if they sustain their President, will be compelled to fight the system. It may be observed, however, that although President Hayes' recommendation for the absolute retirement of greenbacks is a new subject for controversy, the proposition contained in his message and in Secretary Sherman's report, that greenbacks should be divested of their legal tender quality and thus be placed upon the same level as National bank notes, is not by any means new; on the contrary, the latter recommendation was made by Secretary Bristow in 1874 and

The Senate will shortly receive reports from the Ingalls and Kejlogg investigation, from the Wal-lace committee, to investigate in Rhode Island and elsewhere, and probably also from the Freedman's Bank committee. It is apparent, therefore, that neither branch of Congress is in danger of running short of subjects for consideration, even if transactions of ordinary legislative business be wholly deferred for a month.

Concerning the negotiations with the Chinese government in regard to the subject of restriction Mongolian immigration, some Facific members remark that the portion of the message is as tremely general and diplomatic in its form of expression, that although JEWELEY the resolution which was adopted on the motion of Fernando Wood, last session, requesting the President to negotiate a commercial treaty with France, expressed the real sentiment of the House, there having been no debate, and only a slim attendance at that time, and he, therefore, intends to effer the following resolution as soon as he obtains the floor to make the requisite motion.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this House that a negotiation by the Executive department of the government of a commercial treaty whereby the rates of duty to be imposed upon foreign commodities entering the United States for sonsumption, should be fixed, would, in view of the provision of Sec. 7 of Art, of the Constitution of the United States for sonsumption, should be fixed, would, in view of the provision of Sec. 7 of Art, of the Constitution of the United States for sonsumption, should be fixed, would, in view of the provision of Sec. 7 of Art, of the Constitution of the United States for sonsumption, should be fixed, would, in view of the provision of Sec. 7 of Art, of the Constitution of the United States for sonsumption, about the fixed within and y's ride of the Agency. Western republicans very generally agree with the great body of democrats in condemning that portion which counsels the retirement of greenbacks, and it is perfectly evident that the President's advice in this particular will have no effect during the existence of the pay only valuation rents. The brig West Morelan arrived at this port from Jacmel, St. Domingo, after 40 days' absence. Terrific gales were encountered in addition and in the same year by President Grant.

Senators and representatives to-day, in discussing the outlook for the sees-ion, generally agree that it is likely to extend into next summer; that no very great amount of legislation will be accomplished, but that each party will be kept busy watching the other, and taking up as good a position as possible for the presidential year. The policy of the dominant majority in both houses in regard to such matters as the proposed renewal of last year's contest over the election laws and action upon the financial measures, like the Warner sliver bill, will not be settled in haste nor without mature caucus deliberation. Concerning them it is not likely that any very definite forecast can be made until after the Christmas recess. The annual appropriation bills are not expected to be reported very early this season, but the thorough revision of its rules, soon to be reported from Speaker Randall's committee, and with contested election cases, 16 in all, which Chairman Springer promises to bring before the House for action this season with much greater prompitude than has unfortunately to the cyclone of November 19th
