

THE EVENING NEWS.

GEORGE Q. CANNON.
EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Wednesday, - - - January 24, 1872.

THEY must be a rather vicious people, or there must be a large and audacious number of vicious people, over in California, judging by the many chapters we see in the papers of that State about hoodlums and other evils prevailing there. The Oakland News and Transcript says:-

By this time, we should judge the public have become heartily tired and disgusted with Dr. Holland and his "social evil" bill, designed to create false places for a few doctors and to place unlimited power in the hands of the San Francisco police, blackmail and swindle an unfortunate class. If the Legislature really wants to do something towards lessening the amount of vice and elevating the morals of the public morality, we suggest that more stringent laws be enacted upon the subjects of abortion and seduction. We can hardly judge over the columns of a respectable newspaper without meeting with advertisements suggesting the nefarious business of the "doctors" signing them, and under the decision of our Supreme Court in a celebrated case, it would seem impossible to convict an offender as the law now stands.

Now if the people of California really desire to continue near neighbors of Utah and on neighborly terms with our people, we really must insist upon a little more attention to good morals on the part of our friends the Pacific slopers. Not that they are to be classed as specially worse than other of our neighbors, in fact we would really like to think better of them, and certainly, according to their own papers, there is wide room for reform. One thing, however, we are glad to say to their credit - they have been moving lately a little towards meeting out justice to some of the hoodlums and gamblers, and there are evidences that the seducers and adulterers may expect to be reined up by and by. It is a good sign, if these movements are genuine.

THE Washington (Mo.) Observer man has been to see old Gen. Harney, who, now on the retired list, lives on a 1,200 to 1,400 acre farm on the outskirts of the town of Sullivan. The Observer reports thus of the old General:-

He thought most of the trouble with the Indians was the fault of unprincipled traders and speculators, who brought in spirituous liquors; made them drunk and then cheated them out of their property. The Indians, he said, as a general thing, always keep their promises with the whites.

Speaking of the state of the country, he deplored the condition of the South under the administration of Gen. Grant, and thought the only hope for the country was with the Conservatives and Democrats of the day.

There is much truth in these remarks about the conduct of the whites and the Indians. As to hope for the country, it is righteousness that exalts a nation, while wickedness debases it. Therefore the only hope for the country consists in the people, and especially those in authority, doing that which is just and right. It is in vain, otherwise, to look for safety from Conservatives or Radicals, Democrats or Republicans.

The prisoner in court was perfectly self-composed.

Last night, Dr. Vasquez, a Mexican, drove out to a hotel to visit a dying man on Los Nietos. In crossing the river he was stopped and surrounded by a party of twenty men, disarmed, stripped, eyes bandaged and tied, his head then shaved on one side, kicked, bruised, tarred and feathered, and left naked, blindfolded and bound. He found his way back to town in the night. The affair also seems to be the work of the perpetrators will not be found. He had married the daughter of Don Augustus against the wish of her family, and without the pale of the Catholic Church, of which both were members.

MINUTES OF A SURPRISE MEETING.

By Co-operation of the Female Relief Societies and Retirement Association, in celebration of the 69th birthday of Zion's Potest, Miss E. R. Snow, at the 14th Ward Assembly Room, Jan. 22nd, 1872.

Present as invited guests - President Geo. A. Smith; Elders Orson Pratt, John Taylor, Wilford Woodruff, C. C. Rich, Lorenzo Snow, Geo. Q. Cannon, B. Young, Jun., of the Quorum of Salt Lake City, A. O. Smoot, of Provo, A. K. Thurber, of Spanish Fork, with several other gentlemen, including the lady hostess, the number amounting to about one hundred and fifty.

On motion of Mrs. S. M. Kimball, Mrs. J. M. Horne was elected President of the meeting, and on motion of Pres. Mrs. Horne, Mrs. G. A. Alder was elected Secretary.

Pres. Mrs. Horne stated the object of the meeting, and remarked that as the anniversary of the birthday came on Sunday, the 21st, the surprise was deferred until this day, Monday.

Singing.

"We thank thee, O God, for a Prophet."

By Prof. Careless and his choir, consisting of the talented Mrs. Careless and others.

Prayer by Bishop Sharp.

Singing.

"O, my Father, etc."

Mrs. S. M. Kimball then read the following ADDRESS:

OUR OWN BELOVED ELIZA.

We thus emphatically claim you, because you have so unreservedly given yourself for the public weal.

This is the anniversary of your birthday, and we feel to be a befitting occasion to turn the tables and make you the recipient of our blessing.

Your life has been rich with incidents and experiences that cannot be written outside the tables of the human heart. It is, in part, to be a true mission, that makes you the Eliza that you are.

For the sick you carry a balm, for the sorrowful comfort, and for the wayward reproof.

Through the influence of your pen, many in this and other lands rove and bless your honored name.

Let works of love and friendship still, your mind and time employ;

Teach wisdom and true mission, till she'll not her gifts deny.

And when the blessed reign of peace, shall fully have come in;

You will have earned a radiant wreath, in helping conquer sin.

Even now the rays begin to shine around your ripening brow,

And the rich dew of purer climes seem settling on you now.

The faith and peace that you dwell, bear fruits of love and truth to tell.

Of times it seems your call to tell, and thus your time employ.

Through prophetic influence you have conferred blessing without stint. Let blessings return multiplied.

As a help meet, or suitable, you have honored every rank, and quitted the platform your martyred husband.

We feel that we are revering his memory in our feeble endeavor to smooth your pathway.

We now beg you to accept this tribute, with the assurance that did it reach many times its present proportions, we should still feel ourselves your debtor.

Mrs. Howard, of Cottonwood, presented Miss Snow with the birthday cake, which was magnificently decorated, having an elevation in the center, with a pivot, on which was perched a beautiful white dove.

Miss Snow arose and received the cake, after which she made the following remarks:

Had I the language of angels, and were my tongue as the pen of a ready writer, it would be utterly impossible for me to express my feelings on this occasion.

This is a surprise to me - I had not received a hint of this kind, and I am introduced to this grand assemblage as its honored guest.

To think that I am receiving so many honors from so many friends, and that I am unworthy, and I ask myself the question, "What an I, that I should be thus honored?"

I thank you, my sisters, and you my brethren, for your presence. As far as it is in my power to bless, my heart is full of blessings for you. In the name of Jesus, I ask God to bless you all.

Singing.

Mrs. H. T. King then read the following POEM.

Welcome! welcome, sister dear - You are President here.

Yes, our Priestess, sister, friend; To thee our spirits freely bend;

And thus each heart, within each hand, In one great love, we stand;

Yes, thou hast earned thy sisters' love, And time our faithfulness shall prove.

On the Tribune table thou seat, Upon this festive evening treat;

The beauty of our time we bring, Accept the humble song we sing.

Leaves of the latter days, Thou hast won the poet's bays, Not the empty sound of song.

The poet of the throng; But Truth and Principle adorned, As all thy words have proved.

Time is the pure seraphic tongue; Thine avowed words will change

Through Eliza's broadest reach; And the golden harp shall term With Eliza's glorious theme.

"Oh! My Father" - and again, "My heart is fixed" - immortal strains!

That thou hast won, my sister, true; These would be mine, my sister, true.

Long, noble lady, may you live, Thy words of wisdom still to give;

Long may thy presence great as hers, Upon the morning of the year.

Long mayest thou raise thy earnest voice, To bid thy sisters' hearts rejoice.

Then like the glorious sun decline, To rise in an immortal shine.

HANNAH T. KING.

S. L. City, Jan. 11, 1872.

An address in behalf of the young ladies by Miss S. E. Russell, was read -

THE YOUNG LADIES ADDRESS TO ELIZA E. R. SNOW.

Sister ELIZA E. R. SNOW,

Beloved Lady - We, your young sisters, desire to address you on the subject of religion, in concert with the elder ladies, to present to you our affectionate congratulations on the return of your birthday, and pray that health, strength, and long life, with all their attendant enjoyments, may be your blessed portion.

We rejoice that we have the happy privilege of helping to swell the present company of your sisters and friends, and we desire to express at this time the rich affection we have for you, and the confidence you have bestowed upon us in our retirement labor, and the desire we have to press forward and continue in the same.

Continue, dear lady, to give us your faith and prayers for our progression in all things that shall assist to make us good and noble women, that we may be a blessing in whatever situation we may be placed.

Again we say, accept our congratulations dear sister Snow, and our gratitude for all your kindness and indulgence to our young sisters.

And untidely we fervently pray, God bless you.

An anthem was sung.

"Sing Prayers."

On invitation of Pres. Mrs. Horne, Pres. Geo. A. Smith and other brethren addressed the company.

Music by Mr. Chas. Burton, organist.

Song, by J. D. T. McAllister, Esq., "What we live for."

Pres. Mrs. Horne adjourned the meeting to the dinner tables.

After dinner all arose from the tables and united with the choir in singing the Doxology.

Dismissed with prayer by Elder Geo. Q. Cannon.

Correspondence.

SALT LAKE CITY, January 18, 1872.

Editor Deseret News:

Sir - One of the most deplorable consequences of persons not doing their own thinking is the widespread delusion of vaccination.

What right-minded person can regard with any feeling but that of horror, the spectacle of an innocent babe, with clear skin and pure blood, being taken to a vaccination to have injected into his body a filthy pus, discharged from a diseased cow, if even the incomprehensible stuff used should happen to be what is called pure lymph? And who knows what sides is mixed with it if obtained from other sources?

The horrors which have recently come to light respecting the effects of this monster superstition of the nineteenth century demand an urgent consideration of the whole subject.

Nowhere has vaccination had a fairer trial than in France; it was enforced by ex-Emperor Napoleon on the whole of the French army, and so stringently was it enforced that no set of men in the world were oftener vaccinated than French soldiers; as a result several of the men died from the effects of the filth injected in their bodies, and hundreds had their arms amputated to save their lives.

So clearly were the results due to vaccination, that the horrible practice was prohibited by the same authority. Notwithstanding the vaccination and re-vaccination of these men, it is well known to those who are acquainted with the history of the recent Franco-Prussian war that thousands of French soldiers died of small-pox during the siege of Paris.

The Archbishop of Canterbury knows too well what is the real nature of vaccination, having had five children killed by it, and several others seriously injured.

Victoria last April was vaccinated as an example to her subjects; but a few weeks afterward her vaccinated arm broke out in abscesses, as any English daily paper published about that date will show.

These cases are being prominent, they are known as facts by thousands, and if you would grant me a column of your paper every day for a month, I could fill it with other cases of a similar nature which have come under my own notice. It is, however, to be regretted that so many of our fellow creatures so misplace their confidence in the efficacy of vaccination, that they are led before them to embrace the folly of the practice; but who that claims possession of any reasoning power requires such arguments? Such know that it is an eternal law of nature that out of disease, but disease can ever come; for a good tree cannot bring forth corrupt fruit. The experience of ages has proved that the stronghold of small-pox and all other epidemic forms of disease are in places where there are defective sanitary conditions, such as ill-ventilated, low-roofed, overcrowded houses, improper diet, neglect of bathing, or a violation of one or all the laws of health; therefore, it is obvious, that the only rational way to prevent small-pox is to remove its causes by sanitary and hygienic means.

From several distant cities during the last few months accounts have reached us of the prevalence of small-pox, and it does not need much of a prophet to predict that again and again small-pox will devastate whole districts, as it has in the past, unless the laws of health are obeyed and the causes which develop it are taken away.

For upwards of half a century, millions of human beings have been wasted in propagating the seeds of disease and premature death by vaccine filth, and still the disease which it is pretended to prevent or mitigate is as rife as ever it was.

A paragraph in the Deseret News a fortnight ago states that no fewer than 8,000 persons died of small-pox in London alone in the year 1871.

A moment's reflection will convince any candid person that when various matter exists in the body, its expulsion is as essential to health as that of any of the other excretions. It is proverbial that a person who has had small-pox is sure never to have a second attack, whereas on the other hand, when the vitality is not strong enough to throw out the various matter, or when it has been kept in by vaccination, consumption or some other internal disease will soon wear away the fragile frame. That doctors with some exceptions uphold the practice is a very good argument against it, for doctors live by disease, and unfortunately the most prejudiced of that class are not sufficiently distinguished for patriotism to discard the practice, though death has not been unfrequently traced to the vaccine filth which they have put into the body. Humankind's great need is a diabolical medical despotism, and may heaven grant that a day of emancipation may soon come when men will seek immunity from disease by improving their dwelling houses, regulating their diet, and by daily exercise and healthy living, instead of the ridiculous practice like vaccination which has neither science nor common sense to recommend it.

Yours Respectfully,

GEORGE BRUNWICK.

BITING. - What shall we say of to-day? It is clear and bright enough, but the nipping northeaster that has prevailed since early morning is a little the sharpest thing of the kind we have experienced for a long time, causing one to look well after toes, fingers, nose, ears and all salient points of the body. Never felt anything sharper in the winter, say most people on this day.

POLICE COURT. - This morning, in Justice Clinton's Court, C. B. Bawley, foundryman, of the 10th Ward, was fined $10 for assault and battery upon Mr. Alec Baird.

IN WASHINGTON. - A private dispatch from our honorable delegate to Congress, William H. Hooper, states that he arrived at the capital yesterday, in good health, but somewhat fatigued with travel.

GETTING CHEAPER. - Excellent Weber coal is now being sold at the U. C. R. depot, at ten dollars per ton.

An expedition, fitted out more than a year ago to search for Dr. Ujiji Livingston, is still on the march through the wilds of Africa. As a lost of himself Dr. Livingston is without a parallel in history. For our part, we can't see the use of spending so much time and money to find a man who can't be found, and who is never happy except when he is lost. - Louisville Courier-Journal.

A new kind of trial by jury has been tried in Saxony for petty crimes, and has worked so well that the extension is advocated. It is composed of three lawyers and four laymen. A majority verdict must have the vote of at least one lawyer, as it must have the votes of five of the seven.

ALL THE TALK is about Prof. McDermott's lectures upon Your Courtship and Marriage at the Tabernacle on Thursday evening, January 25th. Everybody should go. It will be the grandest treat of the season. Admission only 25 cents, children 15 cents. See small bills.
