M'FARLAND BEAT SAMUELSON

In the Three-Quarter- Mile Professional Race -- Redman Brothers Won Pursuit Taudem Race.

There were only two features associated with the bicycle races at the sourcer last evening that were not altogether pleasing to the fans. They were:

The chilly conditon of the atmosphere and too much music from the band. There was a large crowd on hand. The kind of crowd that jumps to its feet, waves hats and handkerchiefs and cheers frantically.

There was plenty of noise.

But instead of cheering the winner of the various events, the crowd shricked for the losers and manifested its disapproval over the results. But with bicycle contests the race is not to the slow, nor to he that endureth unto the end, but to the swift.

And the swift won,

It is but natural that the fans wanted Samuelson to win the three-quarter-mile professional event, Samuelson also want. ed to win the race, but McFarland had made different arrangements, and when he crossed the tape a winner by several lengths, it was not pleasing to the crowd or to Samuelson.

Then, the fans were really anxious to

Then, the fank were really anxious to really the fank were really anxious to really the fank were really anxious to really any set of the factor of the factor of the latter could not convince themselves that the proper thing was to lose the race, so they flew into the displeasure of the rawd, and also into first money, which was not 'so bad. This was in the un-limited tandem pursuit tace. But this was not all. In the five-mile motor race, E. B. Hea-gren was plitted against Eddle Smith, mounted on Chapman 's motor. The crowd thought Chapman was riding the ma-chine, and instantly he was made the fa-verite over Heagren. But the latter cared maining bursts of speed ever seen on the saucer. He seemed to throw caution to the winds, ad went around the saucer at a rate of speed that caused diziness to those who watched him. He wen the race by a sine margin.

those who watched him. He won the race by a safe margin. At the finish of the three-quarter-mile professional race Samuelson registered a kick about something or other, and the next instant Hardy Downling, the popular California boy, was hurling a defi at the native son and wanted to bet steen mil-ion dollars, lawful money of the United States, that he could make Samuelson look like a cipher, with the rim pur-lehed, in a half-mile match sprint race. Billy accepted.

Mr. Downing believes that he can beat Mr. Samuelson in a balf-mile match race, best two out of three heats, and is willing to wager as much as $100 on the result. Manager Heagren will give them the race when they sign up.

It is well known that there is an agree-ment in the baseball leagues to the ef-rect that a player can not jump a con-tract with a team and then play with an-other team. But like some of our laws, the agreement seems to be a dead let-ter, else why should Weed be permitted to play with the Portland aggregation?

Coach Maddock of the Varsity foot-ball squad, had the bunch out for prac-tise yesterday afternoon, and it must be said that he gave the boys a wholesome supply of ginger. Maddock is trying to get the boys used to the hurry up habit, and they are responding to his sugges-tions right heartily. Pienty of new ma-terial is showing up, and the institution is sure to have a great eleven this year.

A quiet but pretty wedding of the fall season was that of Miss Clara Leone Horne, daughter of Mrs. Sophronia Spencer Horne, and Mr. Ambrey Nowell, the young couple being matried in the Temple last Wednesday, and a reception being held in the evening at the home of the bride. The rooms were prettily decorated with palms, vines and autumn flowers, asters and nasturtians being effectively used. The home of the young couple, which is next door, was also thrown open, and decorated, the dining room, where refreshments were served, having a pretty arrangement of nasturti-ans. The bride wore a dainty and becoming costume of white, and carried roses. A large number were present, the guests being chiefly members of the two families. Mr. and Mrs. Nowell have the best wishes of a host of friends in their new life.

Tomorrow the marriage of Miss Catherine Lowe, daughter of Mrs. George A. nent that Dr. Thomas' address was reeived with great applause. It is no wonder Dr. Thomas' speech was received with great applause. I heard her speak last winter to a New York audience. She is a beautiful woman in the perfect prime of life. Her face beams with a radiance of intelligence, earnestness and kindliness. She has strong convictions and speaks them out calmly and sincerely without a them or not. To say what one honestly thinks to be true-what else is there to do? And her utterances, spoken in a clear, strong, perfectly cultivated voice cannot help having an influence deep and wide.

Dr. Thomas carries her noble independence and individuality even into matters of dress. She was beautifully gowned-would have been counted 'stylish" even in New York. Yet, truly as you live, that dress of hers had a pecket in it, deep enough, too, to hold her manuscript as well as various other articles. Again, the average woman would have bedraggied herself out upon ering train of hampering dry goods around her feet. Not so M. Carey Thomas. Her skirt, rich in material, perfectly made, was at least two inches above the floor.

So she stood before us, a radiant picture of health, handsome, learned. broad minded and warm hearted, graceful, tastefully costumed, the perfect type of the new woman new slowly but splendidly evolving.

In one of her addresses President Thomas mentions the difficulties that beset a would be college woman even so late as her own schooldays, thirty years ago. She was born of Quaker parentage in Baltimore in 1857. As soon as she was old enough to think she determined to secure a college education.

No matter how she achieved it, the main fact was that she made up her mind she was going to be well, thought of herself always as well and would not yield to invalidism any more. In a comparatively short time she attained magnificent results. She became a power in her sphere, a blessing to all who knew her. When she spoke in public she carried conviction with what she said because there went out from her the magnetism of perfect physical health, a magnetism > that nothing but physical health can give. The lady told how she was now perfectly well. In a voice which, as one could see, sent a thrill through her audience, she concluded:

"Then I was an invalid and forty-five years old. Now I am entirely well and am sixty-five years young."

MRS. HENRY CLARK CORBIN.

Socially the attractive wife of Major General Corbin has become better known than have any of the wives of the commanders of the eastern military department in recent years. The old timy barracks at Governors island in New York bay now echo with the music and laughter of lawn fete in summer and gay indoor functions in winter. General Corbin's first wife, a most estimable Ohio lady, was an invalid in her later years, and general social life was not possible for her. The present Mrs. Corbin is much younger than her soldier husband, whom she naturally admires greatly. She was Miss Edith Agnes Patten of Washington before her marriage and one of the "two handsome Patten girls." General and Mrs. Corbin will be missed socially not a little when they leave for the Philippines this autumn.
