

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

CITY PRISONERS WHO TRY TO GET AWAY AND OTHERS WHO REFUSE TO WORK.

PISTOL SHOTS AND PLAIN TALK.

AT FORTING TIME ON CAPITOL HILL THIS FOREMORNING "STUN" HIS "TEN" YAGH OR HIS METLE.

There was a very lively time on Capitol Hill this morning—indeed when the militia boys were up there for inspection day. It was all account of a clash of wills on the part of twenty city prisoners who were taken up there this morning refusing to work on the building of the temporary office of the state.

The pair who made a bolt for their shanty were well under way when they were commanded to halt. Failing to obey, the convicts exploded and were taken back to the crowd. Later as they were with the six others down in the city jail and locked in cells. They were taken over them in order of Chief Constable and marched into the cellars where he gave them the alternative of going back to work or entering upon a period of punishment as reward and wages. In a short time they all came out in perfect proportion and of them were placed in the patrol wagon and again driven to Capitol Hill where they spent the rest of the day using the pick and shovel.

Samuel Bennett, the man who was up for thirty days seemed to have been the leading cause of the trouble. He didn't want to work and said that he wouldn't do so. In the first place were very good choices and he was given the best. The second time the second place was given him, however, was the race on them.

Police Court Items.

In the police court this forenoon the judge imposed a heavy, but deserved punishment on one Emil Danaher, for a very aggravated case of exposing his person. The fellow was fined $50 and in the event of being unable to raise that amount of cash he will have to serve out a fifty day sentence in the city jail.

The young keeper, who presented himself at his trial by giving a fictitious name before $500, was found guilty of his conduct by giving a fictitious name before $500, and was fined $50 and the cost of his trial. Another soldier was gathered in on the charge of selling liquor on Sunday evening. The case was dismissed.

The trial of a notorious gang member of the city, John D. Sturtevant, will be held on June 12.

ELDRIDGE TUTT'S ESTATE.

Suit of Jessie Tutts against Elleanor and John Wicks.

A suit was filed in the Third district court on Monday by Mrs. Jessie Tutts against Elleanor and John Wicks, residents of Salt Lake City. The complaint set forth that on April 10, Eldridge Tutts died in this city, leaving no will. That he left as his next of kin three infant daughters, children of the plaintiff and his third son, by a former wife named William Eldridge Tutts. The plaintiff sought a decree that she and her husband be married in law and having been together until his death.

She also says that in 1893, Tutts gave her quite an amount of money, the same being held by her in trust for her. That in its testate and general will, she devotes the sum and estimation of the children and their income of $1000 per annum.

John Wicks' Elleanor will be represented by Mr. W. C. Hart, for the interests of the Union Kindergarten association.

Bacalaureate Sermon.

The sermon was delivered to the students of the Utah University by Dr. Tolman, president of the university. The late Dr. Tolman, who was an excellent and able orator, was an eloquent and able orator. A little more than an hour was occupied in its delivery, and the principal interest and quiet was manifested by the large and appreciative audience present.
