NEW YORK, 19.—Eighteen bids for gold to-day, amounting to $4,210,000, at from 11.16 to 15.88. Amount [sold $2,000,000, which went at from 14.76 to 15.88.

Specie shipments to-day $113,000 in silver bars.

The postmaster of Batavia, N. Y., has informed the general post-master of this city that the mail matter which left this city at half past eight on Tuesday morning, by the N. Y. Central and Hudson River railroad, was nearly all burned before it reached that place. The matter was nearly all intended for delivery in the Western States, and included besides the New York mail, forty-eight sacks of papers and eighteen pouches of letters. A large eastern mail was received at Albany. An investigation has been ordered.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Postmaster General, to-day, signed additional articles to the present postal treaty with Canada, providing for the interchange of the postal cards of the United States and the Dominion, at prepaid rates, two cents in full, to their destination in either country, the prepayment to be effected by affixing to the cards the ordinary one cent postage stamp. Correspondence has been in progress with the Canadian authorities for some time on the subject, and it is known that these additional articles will be promptly signed on their part, and will go into effect July 12th.

The President has appointed Geo. K. Kimball, postmaster at Golden City, Col., Wm. J. Defreese, of New Mexico, agent for the Indians of the Magners, Pueblo, agency.

The acting third assistant postmaster general, to-day, awarded a contract for supplying the post office with registered package envelopes during the next fiscal year, to Geo. F. Nesbitt & Co., New York City, they being the lowest bidders.

Commander Braine, of the Juniata, is here for the purpose of receiving final and additional instructions concerning the cruise of the Juniata. On his return trip Commander Braine will make soundings along the coast of Newfoundland.

NEW YORK.—There is great excitement at the police headquarters over the report that the commissioners are about to appoint twenty-five colored men on the police force as patrolmen. Commissioner Russel says he supposes the rumor has arisen from a resolution passed yesterday, to appoint twenty-five colored men as street sweepers, but he says that if a motion is made to appoint colored patrolmen he will support it, as the question of equality is settled, and colored men should have their rights.

The Attorney General has decided that the resignation of surveyor Cornell took effect on the 31st of January last, and not on the day of the appointment of his successor; this decision is believed to deprive Cornell of his share of the moieties from the famous Phelps, Dodge case, amounting to $22,000.

At a meeting of the directors of the Chicago and North-western Railway Co., which took place to-day, the resignation of John F. Tracy, President, was accepted, and Albert Keep, of Chicago, was elected to that position. W. L. Sykes was elected Vice President and Secretary and Treasurer, to take effect July 1st. S. O. Howe was chosen assistant secretary and treasurer in place of C. R. Marvin, who resigned the position.

Gen. Horatio G. Stevens was buried to-day. He commanded the fort in Castle Garden, in the war of 1812. He was the first militia General appointed in the State.

The heat, to-day, is excessive, the mercury being ninety-four in the shade. There have been a number of sunstrokes.

CANANDAIGUA.—This afternoon, Judge Selden made a motion in the case of Miss Anthony, for a new trial, upon the ground of misdirection of the Judge in ordering a verdict of guilty without submitting the case to the jury. The court, in a brief review of the argument of the counsel, denied the motion, when the district attorney immediately moved that the judgment of the court be pronounced upon the defendant. The court inquired of Miss Anthony if she had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced. Miss Anthony answered that she had a great many things to say, and declared that in her trial every principle of justice had been violated, that every right had been denied her, that she had had no trial by her peers, that the court and jurors were her political enemies and not her peers, and she announced her determination to continue her labors until equality was obtained, and she was proceeding to discuss the questions involved in the case, when she was interrupted by the court with the remark, that these questions could not be reviewed. Miss Anthony replied that she wished it fully understood that she asked no clemency from the court, and that she desired and demands the full rigor of the law. Judge Hunt then said, "The judgment of the court is that you pay a fine of one hundred dollars and the costs of the prosecution," and he immediately added, "There is no order that you stand committed until the fine is paid," and so the trial ended.

WASHINGTON, 19.—Secretary Alex. Belknap has returned.

Information has been received at the War department that the legislature of Texas has commended Colonel McKenzie's late pursuit and chastisement of the Kickapoo Indians.

Secretary Robeson, in sending to the president his report of the investigation of the Polaris matter, says that the statements of all the rescued persons who could speak or understand English, except the wife of Hans Christian, were taken, and are now being printed, together with the diaries kept by some of the ice party. A diary of the cruise of the Polaris was kept by Herman Zarons, one of the seamen remaining on board, and picked up on the ice after the separation from the ship. The secretary says it must be clearly understood that in permitting this publication, the department neither make nor declare any judgment against Buddington, who has no opportunity for defence or explanation. The facts show that though he was perhaps wanting in enthusiasm for the grandest object of the expedition, and at times grossly lax in discipline, and though he differed in judgment as to the possibility, safety and propriety of taking the ship further north, yet he is an experienced and careful navigator, and a man not addicted to liquor, of which none remained on board at the time of the separation. The secretary then gives the details, already made public, of the measure taken by him to send the steamers Juniata and Tigress to the relief, if possible, of the Polaris and the remainder of her crew. The Tigress he proposes to purchase and strengthen for the service required in the Arctic regions. Capt. Tyson, Esquimaux Joe, and all the rescued seamen will accompany the expedition, being anxious to rescue their comrades and bring out their old ship.

The following is the result of the investigation, and examination of Capt. Tyson, Frederick Meyer, Esquimaux Joe, and others of the rescued crew:

At midnight on the third of September 1871, Capt. Hall landed with a boat crew on the east shore of Polaris Bay, and in the name of God and the President of the United States, raised the American flag on the land he had discovered. On one occasion, the Polaris seemed to be in such danger of being crushed that provisions were placed on the ice and measures taken to be in readiness for leaving her. But she happily escaped without injury. Immediately after securing the ship in winter quarters, Capt. Hall made preparations for the sledge journey north-ward, and other work was commenced, by landing and setting up an observatory, getting the scientific observations under way, surveying the harbor, clearing up the ship, and making snug for the winter. On the 10th Capt. Hall left the Polaris accompanied by Mr. Preston, first mate, Esquimaux Joe and Hans, with two sleds and fourteen dogs, setting out on this expedition. The first step taken by Capt. Hall he fell upon land more northern than white man's foot ever before touched. In the progress of this journey, unhappily the last that Captain Hall was to make towards the Pole, he discovered, as appears by his dispatch, a river, a lake, and a large inlet, the latter in latitude 81 deg., 57 seconds north. He named this Newman's Bay, calling its northern point Cape Brevoort, and the southern one Summer Headland. At Cape Brevoort, in latitude 82 degrees, 2 seconds west, he rested, making there his sixth snow encampment. On the 20th he wrote his last dispatch to the Secretary of the Navy, the original draft of which was found in his own hand writing, on his own desk. It was delivered to the Secretary of the Navy by Esquimaux Joe, who had kept the desk in his custody from the time it was picked up on the ice after the separation of the rescued party from the ship. A copy of this dispatch, so singularly preserved, accompanies this report. Captain Hall, it appears, had hoped when he left the Polaris on this journey, to advance northward, at least one hundred miles, but after having gone about fifty he was compelled by the condition of the shore and ice, and by the state of the climate to return and await the approach of spring for another attempt. He reached the ship on the 24th of October in, apparently, his usual fine health, but was attacked the same evening with sickness at the stomach and vomiting, and was taken to his bed. He was found to be seriously ill. His most marked symptoms seem, from the evidence, to be such as indicated congestion of the brain, accompanied by delirium and partial paralysis on one side. The witnesses all state that his attack was called apoplexy, and some of them speak, of their own knowledge, of his paralysis and delirium. He recovered, however, some days after, sufficiently to leave his bed, to move about the cabin; and to attempt to attend to business, but he soon had a relapse, became again delirious, and died on the 8th of November, 1871. Three days after he was buried on the shore. From personal examination of all the witnesses and from their testimony as given, we reach unanimously the opinion that the death of Captain Hall resulted naturally from disease and without fault on the part of any one.
