

A HEMIST is authority for the statement that a man is a crew consisting of enough iron to make four nails, enough fat to make candles and a rake of soap, sufficient phosphorus to make four boxes of matches, hydrogen enough quantity to light a balloon, an elephant with a load of sugar and 10 gallons of water. This remarkable list is published in Health & Culture, a section magazine.

Will some genius or writer figure up and tell us what a man weighing 16 pounds is worth at cost? An ordinary looking fellow would be worth so much when the grand jury gets through its investigations.

But look at the statement again. There is much to be learned and the mystery of many things will disappear if a person studies the thing.

Man, in his living moments, must necessarily have an iron constitution and steel will, notwithstanding salutes and a bar of soap! No wonder he is strong. The chemist at least must confess.

Who wouldn't be right-handed if he carried enough phosphorus to make that man look like a boy? His hands would easily be converted into a match factory and make a stick of it. Impressing the hydrogen and the balloon—It is generally conceded man is 80 per cent fat and with a tendency to stretch things and sometimes go up in the air. Man's skin is elastic and keeps him from getting fresh; these Salt Lake moshers who parade the streets Saturday night have been overcooked when this ingredient should have been thrown in. Further, Mr. Chemist explains clearly at last what is meant when a man is termed "not worth his salt." Regarding the sugar the chemist said, "ask me not to marry 'em about it. They gallon of water!" Well, that's all the water some men ever get into them. The chemist forgot to mention clay, of which some men have such a wide yellow streak. Also puts ginger, brass—and he forgot to tell about a very man. Man then is a wonderful creature art thou not? Thou art not.

This Hindu Princess, Aminu Bibi Has Never Worn a Shoe.

Aminu Bibi, the mahogany colored Hindu princess who lightly figures at Hummerstein's Paradise roof garden as the dutiful wife who shrinks at nothing, not even when her juggling lord lights a fire on her head to cook his morning meal, is the most beautiful among that few of her sisters of the western hemisphere who boast. This is a tiny foot of absolutely flawless beauty.

The secret of its perfection is the fact that the foot has never known a shoe and has lacked the restraint of high-heeled impediement. It is literally a foot on which it walks—a foot which carries the weight above it with such admirably adjusted balance that it has neither spread nor turned.

AFFINITIES AND DIVORCE.

No less a personage than the Rev. Dr. George Clarke Houghton, pastor of the "Little Church Around the Corner," has proclaimed his idea of the main cause of divorce.

"One of the most prolific causes of divorce is the hasty marriage," he declared. "When men and women take marriage as seriously as they would baptism or confirmation, we will have no hasty, ill-advised marriages. And one way of making the young people of today realize the solemnity of the marriage ceremony is to read their names in the church Sunday after Sunday. It is not the clergyman but God Himself, as represented by His church, who joins them together."

Mrs. Henry J. Lord, whose husband is suing her for divorce, was born Augustina Ensminger, a South Carolina beauty. Mr. Lord, a wealthy resident of Trumbull, six miles from Bridgeport, Conn., accuses her of intimacy with their negro coachman, Henry Cameron. The husband was so infuriated by his suspicions that he is said to have resolved to shoot both his wife and Cameron.

The Lords are members of the Greenfield Hill County club, having been known throughout the state among the exclusive country homes of wealthy New Yorkers, and have exhibited a string of thoroughbreds for several years. Their country home is one of the show places of Trumbull, a colony of rich people. Mrs. Lord is an exceedingly handsome woman and exudes in attractiveness. The accusations have shocked New York's "400."

During the annual horse show at the Greenfield Hill Country club, Mrs. Lord and the negro coachman drove back and forth to the grounds daily in each other's company, and that on occasions of the purchase of new horses to add to the string she always asked the advice of the negro and had him look on as a prospective purchaser.

Lord has an income from the estate of his father, Dr. Richard McCurdy, Lord of Kansas City.

NEEDS OF PARCELS POST.

MAYER'S move for a parcels post has stirred up considerable opposition among certain classes of people over the country. The farmer, however, will be benefited by a parcels post. Every time he buys an express company a bill for carrying a package he is being greatly overcharged. This will be changed if Mr. Meyer's plan goes through.

There are many features and inconveniences in connection with the parcels post service as it exists in the United States today. Perhaps there are many people who are not aware that there is a parcels post system now in operation in the United States. Postmaster General Meyer, in a speech at Boston, says the rate is 16 cents per pound and the limit of weight four pounds. "To illustrate the incongruities that exist," continued Mr. Meyer, "any other large city or town in the country with two post offices, each having a separate carrier, could send one parcel to New York for 64 cents, while for the other parish, which is addressed to some one in a foreign land and goes by the way of New York, we will have to pay but 4 cents for the reason that the rate to foreign countries is 16 cents a pound, while the rate to our country goes by the way of a post office, and one can send the packages weighing four and one-half pounds each, the one addressed to the friend in New York would have to be served by the postmaster, while the one addressed to the same route by the postmaster of the same route, or at the distributing route office, will be served by the foreign carrier. The charge will be 5 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound up to 16 pounds. In Germany the small storekeeper has not this advantage in competing with mail order houses, but he has adapted himself to the situation, and in many instances has become the agent of the town, thus supplying the people with goods which it is impossible afford to stand for a policy that compels our own people to pay four cents more for packages than people living in the United States (and even the postmen permit them to send only four pounds) than on packages to people living in foreign lands, for which they need pay only 12 cents a pound and which may weigh up to 11 pounds.

"Two interests are opposing the extension of parcels post, the express companies and the country retail merchants. The latter fear that the mail order houses will derive a benefit to their own disadvantage. It is in connection with the country retail merchants that I desire to speak especially. I propose to recommend the establishment of a parcels post system on rural routes which will meet the objections of the small storekeepers and retailers. This will be a boon to our rural population and to the storekeepers, as the latter can receive his orders by mail or telephone and dispatch the desired merchandise by the express line. The merchant will be saved from hitching up his horse and losing the time he needs for planting or harvesting his crops, and it will enable the storekeeper to increase his sales and meet the requirements of modern trade. If my recommendations are adopted it will enable him to send packages to the rural delivery patrons from any city post-office, while for delivery from the distributing office of the rural route, or if mailed by the patron of any rural route for delivery to the patrons on the same route or at the distributing route office, will be served by the foreign carrier. The charge will be 5 cents for the first pound and 2 cents for each additional pound up to 16 pounds. for him to keep in stock without a great outlay of money.

"I am also considering the advisability of recommending a local parcels post delivery at city free delivery post offices, but in order to install such a system it would be necessary to obtain from Congress a special act to allow to do the required hauling. As already stated, there is a parcels post existing in the United States today, but at a rate of 16 cents a pound and a limit of four pounds. The object of my recommendation to Congress will be to get a decrease that will meet the rates charged for parcels sent by post to other countries. In other words, a reduction of 4 cents a pound and an increase in weight which will compensate for the increased cost which has been adopted by other highly developed nations. An 11-pound limit will never be far from the maximum established by France (22 pounds), Germany (110 pounds), and Belgium (62 pounds). Farmers and Drovers Journal.
