

FRENCH APOSTOLIC CATHOLIC CHURCH

Its Inauguration Yesterday in Paris in Reality the Organization of a Schism.

POLICE PREVENTED A RIOT.

Militant Catholics Distributed Handbills Calling Archbishop Villatte "An American Monkey."

Paris, Feb. 3.—Only the presence of the police prevented a riot at the old Carmelite monastery, which has been rechristened the Church of the Holy Apostles, where the French Apostolic Catholic church was inaugurated today.

The announcement of the attempt to organize a schism has stirred up the militant Catholics who organized a hostile reception. With the intention of breaking up the services, handbills were distributed containing the words of a popular archbishop, describing Archbishop Villatte, head of the independent Catholic movement in America, as an American monkey, whom M. Briand, minister of public instruction and worship, desired to make a French pope.

Several thousand persons were outside the church and a crowded church, penetrated the altars and the choir, and the services were interrupted. The archbishop, however, continued his sermon welcoming the representatives of the day when the altar of Jesus Christ will be united in Christian charity.

He thanked Archbishop Villatte for establishing the French Catholics in establishing the first church saying he was congratulated by the patriarch of Antioch, the successor of St. Peter. A shout of approval from the church, in the rear of the altar, "He is excommunicated," was the signal for a general tumult, and Father Roussin finally was compelled to ask that the police be summoned.

About 50 persons were expelled from the church and a riot was practically maintained until Archbishop Villatte appeared on the altar in the robe and mitre of an archbishop. He rebuked the demonstrators and rebuked the demonstrators, saying he was a missionary for 15 years, but no savage tribe had ever been converted by his preaching, and concluding "I wish you no ill. God be with you. Amen."

Where or more persons were then ejected before Archbishop Villatte proceeded with the celebration of pontifical mass, in which he observed the Catholic rite. During the elevation of the host, the militant Catholics, instead of kneeling, climbed into their chairs. In the meantime the police had cleared the streets outside the church and the demonstrators were prevented from entering the church.

CIRCULAR OF M. BRIAND.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Minister of Public Instruction and Worship Briand, after lengthy consultations with Premier Clemenceau and Minister of Justice Guyot-Dessaigne, has taken a more extended view of the situation of the church, and has issued a circular, in which he expresses his difficulties that had been expected in the most optimistic quarters.

M. Briand constructs the recent enactments in the most liberal spirit, and a circular marked "urgent" and forwarded tonight to the prefects of all departments for communication to the mayors expresses his view by recognizing the entire freedom of the mayors of the church, the situation of the municipal councils, to grant leases of churches, rent free, to common law associations or clergymen, the only restriction being that the duration of the contract may not exceed 15 years unless the approval of a prefect. The lessee is merely held responsible for its repairs, while the essential condition is that the lessee shall remain attached to the sect by which the church was used before the separation law became effective until it is legally disaffected.

M. Briand deals with the question of religious succession, which he considers can best be attained by the formation of a common law association which shall act as lessee, but he points out also that in the event of a religious association leaving the common law to cede the lease to a third party with the consent of the lessee and provided the contract does not stipulate to the contrary.

Relative to the terms of the lease M. Briand states that any legal clause may be inserted by the mutual consent of the parties to the lease, while the ecclesiastical situation of the signatory clergyman may be set forth in a description of the powers he holds for his hierarchical superiors.

Should a clergyman, before signing, desire to consult his bishop, it is only necessary for him to request a delay for that purpose, but the bishop cannot be a party to the contract and his counsel is superfluous, as the signatory is personally responsible for the carrying out of the terms of the instrument.

A clause may be included in the lease by which it is annulled should the signatory leave the sect to which he belonged when he signed, but even when not written such a clause would be considered as existing.

The circular, though addressed to prefects and mayors, appears to be equally intended to offer advice to the clergy.

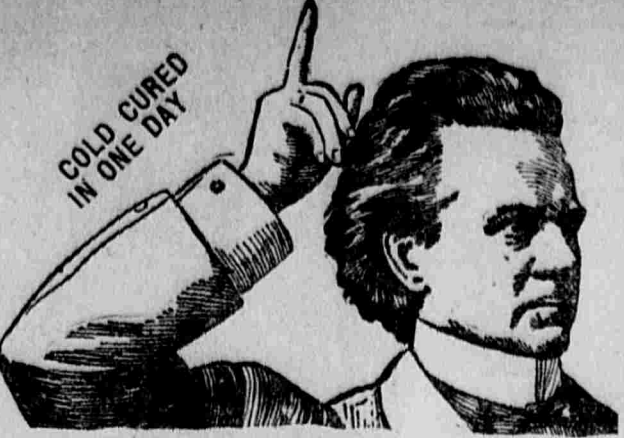

A THREE CORNERED DUEL.

HEAVY STORMS IN MONTANA KILLING OFF THE STOCK.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 3.—Kon Kohrs, of the Lodge, Mont., one of the most prominent stockmen of the state, is in receipt of a telegram from the northern ranges that his stock losses will reach about 10 per cent of his herd, so fierce is the storm that is sweeping the northern states and the conditions in Valley county and the other big cattle and sheep sections are simply appalling, the long plains of northern Montana afford the stock little shelter and wind. Unable to break the crust of the covering the grass the bunches of cattle and sheep huddle in there to drop of exhaustion and hunger and die. Bunches of cattle drift helplessly with the exception of an occasional protruding leg or head. These ranges and only too frequently do the herds and only too frequently do the herds die.

BROKER COMMITS SUICIDE.

Howard Frothingham Jumps From Second Story of His Home.

New York, Feb. 3.—Howard P. Frothingham, who was a member of the New York stock exchange, jumped from the second story of his home, West Seventy-seventh street, yesterday, died just before last midnight. The death was not reported to the police until today, when a coroner instituted an investigation.

A nervous breakdown due to recent reverses in Wall street is believed to have caused the despondency which resulted in the deed. Mr. Frothingham was one of the best known men in the financial district.

He was one of the best known loan brokers in the country, taking more "call" money annually than any other firm. His commissions in the lending business have amounted to more than $100,000 a year. For 15 years he was a member of the New York stock exchange, but he found lending money more profitable than brokerage and devoted his time almost entirely to it.

Recently his physician persuaded him to take a rest, and Mr. Frothingham went to Atlantic City, where he remained a few days. Returning to his home here, he was ordered to bed and nurses stationed in constant attendance. When one of the nurses yesterday opened a window, Mr. Frothingham sprang from his bed and jumped from the window.

Rome, Feb. 3.—The Tribune, in a semi-official communication concerning the recent fight between Armenian and Greek monks in the sacred grotto at Bethlehem, says that on Jan. 22 an Italian Franciscan monk went to burn candles in the grotto. Armenians who were officiating at their altar prevented him from passing, and attacked and felled him with sticks. Other Franciscans rushed to the rescue of their compatriot, and a general fight ensued, in which one Italian, one Spaniard and three Armenian-Greek monks were wounded.

Shepherd, professor of history in Columbia university, whose special interests and studies lie in Spanish and Spanish-American history, will make a trip, as a representative of Columbia university, to the leading South American commercial and political capitals during the summer of 1907. The object will be to cultivate personal relations with the leading men of affairs in South America, and to carry to them knowledge of the educational resources and opportunities of American colleges and universities, with a view of bringing about closer relationship between the Latin American republics and the United States. Dr. Shepherd will also collect material for the course of lectures on South America, which he is to deliver in New York during the spring of 1908.

"President Roosevelt, Secy. Root and Latin-American diplomats are much interested in Dr. Shepherd's trip. It is hoped that it will reciprocally result in the sending of South American men of letters to the United States. The director of the bureau is in correspondence with Latin-American officials and universities to perfect arrangements for Dr. Shepherd's visit."

of Thompson and the curious crowd, who had gathered in the corridors of the courthouse, were let into the courtroom. At 9:30 the prisoner was led in, closely guarded by deputies. His face was flushed and he appeared to be upon the verge of tears, but with the exception of a slight twitching at the corners of his mouth he took the verdict without show of emotion.

The attorneys for the state left the courtroom in a body immediately after the verdict was pronounced. The father of the boy and his associate counsel remained for some time shaking hands with the jury and receiving congratulations. Maurice Thompson was present, but Oscar, the prisoner's young brother, had been called to Seattle and was notified by wire.

The boy was remanded to the custody of the sheriff until further disposition was made of him by the court. When he was led from the courtroom his face was impassive.

THE CAR SHORTAGE.

Commissioner Clark Says Railroads Not Entirely to Blame.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 3.—Edward E. Clark, a member of the interstate commerce commission, arrived here today, and tomorrow will begin a hearing of grievances of shippers against railroads. In an interview he said:

"We have studied the car shortage and demurrage questions, but the law gives the commission no jurisdiction. We are in favor of legislation giving the commission some power in the matter of railroad equipment, especially at certain times of the year."

"But the railroads are not wholly to blame. In the northwest there was the usual cry of 'desolation' and 'starvation' and 'suffering'—all because the railroads would not furnish cars. The consumers of course did not stop buying fuel until the cold came. The dealer had no stock on hand. He had not filled his bins, but each had a few cars filled with coal on the sidetrack. Then began the demand for more coal—at once, too. The railroads in stormy, cold weather must furnish cars, gather up the 'spare' cars and send them, filled with coal, to the dealers at the same time. Could they do this? And how? A thought of how this annual condition might be averted by the dealers and consumers themselves."

"In a measure Mr. Harriman was right when he said in Kansas City: 'We have eight cars desolated while being conveyed to a hospital, left Washington on the Colonial Express at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon for Concord, N. H., where the burial will take place on Tuesday.'

The investigation was undertaken for the personal information of President Roosevelt. Mr. Braun declined to give details as to his conclusions and discoveries. He did state, however, that one remedy would be to have mounted line riders sufficient numbers to patrol the border.
