

PAVING IS AGAIN AT A STANDSTILL.

East South Temple Street Improvement Project Once More Held Up.

AT LEAST FOR TWO WEEKS.

All Undertakings Concerning the Work Suspended Until the Property Owners Can Agree.

The east South Temple street paving is again at a standstill, at least for about two weeks. The city council last night refused to adopt the report of the committee of the whole which recommended that all protests against the present plan be filed and the work proceeded with at once. A resolution was introduced by Wood which provided that all undertakings and proceedings concerning the paving be suspended until such a time as the property owners can agree upon a feasible plan for the work. Wood and Ferguson both favored the resolution and stated that they could not vote in favor of doing one thing towards the paving until the property owners should come to some agreement in regard to the plan for the work and would sign an agreement releasing the city from all claims for damages caused by the proposed change in the grade of the street.

A. J. Davis, Harrison and others favoring giving the property owners one more chance to reach an agreement in regard to the matter and the former moved that the resolution and all matters connected with the paving proposition be laid over for ten days and the bids for the work be not opened until that time so that another opportunity may be given the property owners. The motion prevailed by a vote of 4 to 4. So that the bids will not be opened until about Sept. 10.

City Engineer Snow submitted a letter to him from the board of public works in relation to a change in the plan of paving South Temple street. The letter suggested that a raise of 18 inches be made in the grade between the car tracks so that it would not be necessary to make such a deep cut of the grade on the north side of the street. Such a change, the letter stated, would meet the approval of all those property owners who are now protesting against the present plan of the paving. City Engineer Snow in his communication stated that he could not recommend such a change. These communications were also laid over for ten days.

Mayor Morris' veto of the report of the committee on public grounds and finance, submitted to the American Mining congress a lot for a building site for its permanent home, was received by the council and filed without comment. Shortly after the mayor's veto was made, several bills were received from City Auditor Felt for advertising authorized by the council for bids for the paving of east South Temple street in several outside papers, among which was a bill from the Oregonian of Portland. Councilman A. J. Davis, who just returned from Portland after attending the mining congress, announced that he would never vote in favor of paying the Oregonian's bill. Several other councilmen stated that they would not favor paying the bill, so the entire matter was dropped and the bills referred to the municipal laws committee for consideration.

Thomas W. Jennings presented a protest against changing the width of the sidewalk and removing the trees in front of his property on the corner of First and A streets. He says that the sidewalk has been its present width and the trees have been undisturbed for 27 years, and he warns the city that he will hold it responsible for any damage done to the same in putting in the curbing and guttering preparatory to paving the street. The protest was referred to the committee on streets for consideration.

The Security Bank of Minnesota submitted a proposition to sell to the city certain lands lying on the north fork of City creek containing 240 acres and lying within the city boundaries. The company agrees to sell the land at $20 per acre payable in three years' time with interest at 5 per cent. The land is said to contain a number of springs. The matter was referred to the committee on public grounds and finance with the land and water commissioner associated.

The amended liquor ordinance was presented to the council by Ferguson, but, like the South Temple street paving matter, was laid over to allow some of the parties interested to make some amendments to it. After considerable discussion it was laid over for one week.

A. J. Davis introduced a resolution providing for the lunch wagon to be moved off of First and Second South streets and be allowed to stand only on State street between First and Second South streets. He said that the stench from the cooking of onions and garlic in the wagons has become unbearable to those who live in the apartment houses on those two streets and he would consider it a personal favor if the council would adopt the resolution. The resolution was adopted.

The committee on streets reported on the petition of John Dubel and others in which it recommended that John E. Dooly be compelled to comply with the city ordinance in regard to piling building material in the street and that the gates on the fence surrounding such material be swung inward and a walkway be constructed around such fence at once. The report was adopted.

The following resolution by E. H. Davis was adopted unanimously: "Resolved, that the city council of Salt Lake City, Utah, that all men in the city's employ driving sprinkling wagons be given a half holiday on Labor day, September 5, 1904, after 12 o'clock p. m."

The Black ordinance requiring all vehicles on the public streets to keep to the right of the street, under penalty of a fine, was heard on its third reading and passed.

LAFE PENCE'S NERVE.

Wires Gov. Wells to Arrange Dinner

At Kenyon for Him.

That Lafe Pence, the Idaho politician whose recent conduct at the American Mining congress at Portland was repudiated by the people of Idaho, still retains a large amount of his brazen nerve is very evident from a telegram received from him yesterday by Gov.

Wells. From the tone of the telegram it appears that he treats very lightly his recent trouble here, where he obtained $40 from the proprietor of the Kenyon hotel on a worthless sight draft which resulted in a warrant for his arrest, being served out.

The telegram also hints at his disreputable conduct at Portland, when he made a dastardly attack upon Salt Lake and its people. The message is as follows:

"Portland, Or., Aug. 23, 1904. Gov. Wells, Salt Lake City: With due and proper respect I ask you to get Don Porter, John Bern, Childs, Houghton and a few other thoroughbreds to dine with me at the Kenyon next Wednesday evening."

Gov. Wells' reply was decidedly brief and to the point and did not undertake to conceal the fact that Pence is not wanted here in a social way at least. Following is the governor's reply:

"Salt Lake City, Aug. 23, 1904. Hon. Lafe Pence, Portland, Or.: With all proper courtesy I beg to advise you that I have neither time nor disposition to arrange your dinners."

Should Pence come by way of this city on his return from Portland it is very probable that everything in the town will be placed on a strictly cash in advance basis during his stay.

He joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in his native land and later emigrated to Utah, making his residence in this city. He was a good citizen and an earnest church worker, being prominently identified with the German meetings here for many years. He leaves a large family, among his sons being Albert S. Reiser, former city auditor; Theodore Reiser of 72, M. L. Arnold Reiser of the "News" bookbinding department, and H. Alma Reiser, a well known grocer.

GOOD YEAR FOR UTAH SHEEPMEN.

A. Cravens of Mapleton Says
Western Woolgrowers Have Made Money.

ARE NOT COMPELLED TO SHIP.

Conditions So Favorable That They Can Hold Over for Another Year—Sugar Beets.

A shipment of some good western sheep that sold at pretty good prices late Monday, was brought in by A. Cravens, who shipped from Mapleton, Utah, says the Kansas City Drovers' telegram. Mr. Cravens said that he had a long, tiresome, and at times, exciting spring so the farmer knows what he will receive for them when they are ready to market. The price this year was $4.75, and up to a year or two ago, there was a steady decline of about $1.00 per ton in addition. These good returns from the land have caused prices to go up and the best land, situated most favorably in regard to irrigation facilities, sells at from $150 to $175 per acre.

UTAH INDIAN WAR VETERANS.

This is the committee of arrangements of the Utah Indian War Veterans' encampment, held at Springville last

trip, it taking just 11 days to make the journey from Mapleton to this market. After loading the sheep they came south, finally traveling over the tracks of the D. & R. G. road for some dis-ance. Their train was unlucky enough to strike one of the bridges just after one of the heavy mountain rains had fallen and the stream swept through under the bridge in a torrent. The engine got across the bridge all right but turned over on reaching the other side, the engine falling on one side of the track and the tender on the other side. Four or five cars went through the bridge to the bed of the stream, a distance of 75 feet. All of the crew and the passengers were shaken up and badly scared, but very strangely, the only injury to any of them was a broken wrist sustained by the fireman. One of the cars that went through the bridge was loaded with sugar and another was loaded with nice chickens and Mr. Cravens says the farmers close around the scene of the wreck got enough sugar to keep them well supplied the rest of their lives and enough dishes to start their children and grandchildren up in housekeeping when they marry. It took four days to fix the track so they could make the rest of the trip and Mr. Cravens was well worn out when he arrived here.

Speaking of conditions in his part of Utah, Mr. Cravens said: "There are plenty of sheep on hand in our part of the range country, though possibly not so many as at this time last year. The good prices of last year were responsible for a heavy movement to market from there and the stock carried through the winter was lighter than usual. The sheep are in good condition, the winter in good shape and the clip of wool this spring paid close to $1 per head. The increase was about 80 per cent and the weather was so favorable that most of them lived. So the sheep men have seen about the most favorable time in the past 12 months that they have enjoyed for a good while. This has put them in such good condition that they can afford to hold their sheep over another year if necessary, and that is what they will do if the market should happen to be over supplied and prices should decline. They are probably some of the sheepmen who will have to ship, and this means pretty heavy runs at times, but should the market break and show a very pronounced decline, the majority of them will hold over for another year."

"The farmers along the valleys where they have the benefit of good irrigation are devoting much land and attention to sugar beets now. I should say there are thousands of acres of beets raised each year. In good years, the returns are about $1.25 per acre and the cost of production is about $40 per acre, so it leaves a pretty good profit after all. There is a large refinery located at a central point there to take care of all the beets in that district. Then there are large ricing plants radiating out from that where the beets are ground and the juice is piped to the central plant. The one of these elevators farthest away from the refinery is about 25 miles away, and the juice is pumped that distance. The beets are contracted for in the

LOCAL MARKETS.

There has been another 10 cents reduction in some grades of flour products, and a rise in others, so that the schedule has been generally overhauled, as will be noted in the list below. Timothy is also down, being quoted today at $14. There is a slight reduction in spring chicken, wholesale, the price being brought down to 18 cents flat, instead of 18 and 20. The grocery market prices remain practically unchanged, the only additions being hot peppers and Chinese radishes. The prices obtaining to day are:
