ADULTERATION OF FOOD.

There is one platform upon which all honest men can, and all dishonest men should, be forced to stand.

One declaring for a law confiscating all adulterated food and the imprisonment for ten years for each offense of all who adulterate food or confectionery in solid or liquid form.

Year after year dishonest men reach farther and farther into the health, happiness and rights of consumers. The chemist sells himself to the thief, and the result is broken health and murder of the innocents.

In the matter of confectionery, it is safe to say that one million tons of white earth, chalk and various deleterious matter is used in the adulteration of candy that is temporarily displayed before children. They buy it, devour it, become dull, heavy, disarranged in their physical and mental systems, cause trouble, expense, suffering, and by the thousands each year die from use of adulterated candy and other articles of food that in reality is spoiled to a greater or less extent in proportion as it is adulterated. Artificial butter, artificial honey, artificial milk, etc., are all dangerous to health. There is more of disease and sickness in the ordinary milk can handed out by the milk adulterator than in all the pure wine and pure brandy ever made, when used as pure liquors are used within the realm of reason. Not a day passes that we do not read of persons and entire families being stricken down by the use of poisoned milk, poisoned custard, poisoned ice-cream, poisoned canned goods, fruits put up in chemical counterfeits of natural syrups, etc.

Verily, it seems as though the hand of every man was being directed against his fellow man.

The child that escapes the abortionist is emasculated by poverty, emaciated by the tenement house fiend, poisoned by the family grocer, dosed by the druggist's clerk, and sinks silently into the grave to appear in another world as a witness against man. If it lives to the age of ten years, it is beset by the fashion tyrant, the cruelty or neglect of parents, lured aside by the procuress, debauched and disgraced by the dissipationist, robbed by the usurer and pawnbroker, harpooned by some tender-loin hunting exhorter, and at last fired over the garden wall into eternity, as a dead cat is thrown over the fence to make stink for a neighbor, by some wicked, merciless boy or man who has worried the poor thing to death.

In fact, we are a nation of thieves. Organized and legalized robbery is the great aim of man. The government is a wholesale agency for the robbery of Indians, negroes, pioneers and poor whites.

We stamp eighty cents worth of silver as a dollar, put our trade mark, "In God we Trust" thereon, and with an old stocking full of such Delty insulting inscriptions on a slim silver base, prowl for the unwary.

We adulterate everything possible that goes into the army, the navy, the legislature, the state prison, the church, the poor house, the pantry and the stomach. Our olive oil is made from refined grease; our lard oil from chemically treated dog fat; our butter from stinking fats that are laden with the taint of dissolution; our beer from various poisons; our whisky with fusil oil and other desperate brain incitants; or milk with ditch water and chemicals; or grand coffee with the yolks of decaying eggs, and so on throughout the list.

Now, if there are humane and honest men in the next Congress, as there will be, in the name of honesty, public decency and the rights of humanity, we call upon Providence to send some one to the front with a bill declaring for the imprisonment for not less than ten years of each and every person as employe, or employer, or vender of adulterated goods, and for the confiscation and destruction of all kinds of adulterated goods so proven.

The reformer has a great field for his genius, patience and good work in this country, but they appear to be few so far as practical effort is concerned.—Pomeroy's Democrat.

A Glimpse of Heaven.

Miss Melinda Bailey, a young unmarried lady, has been for some time a resident in the family of Ralph Sargent, at what is known as the "Lowers Corner," nearly half way between Merrimac and Amesbury. Since her residence with Mr. Sargent, Miss Bailey, who had just lost her mother, whose nurse she had been through a long and lingering sickness, has been very ill from complete nervous prostration, and has been under the charge of a physician in Amesbury, who considered her situation as extremely critical. Last Thursday, the Haverhill Gazette says, she appeared to grow rapidly worse, and, at her request a clergyman was sent for, with whom she conversed for some time, appearing perfectly conscious of her critical condition. Soon after she grew rapidly weaker, and at last lay peacefully back on her bed, and to all appearances seemed to be dead. As the doctor lived nearly six miles off, and her dissolution was somewhat expected, no attempt was made to summon medical aid. The limbs grew stiff, and except for the fact that the flesh retained its natural color to some extent, there was no unusual appearance. After the body had lain in this state for some time, neighbors coming in, the grave clothes were brought out and preparations made to prepare for the last sad rites. Soon a slight perspiration broke out on the body, and with a long-drawn respiration the vital spark, which seemingly had long been exhausted, flamed up once more, and to the surprise and horror of those gathered there, the supposed corpse sat up in her bed and surveyed with half-dazed eyes the mourners gathered around.

According to one of the neighbors the first word uttered by any of the party came from the dead-alive, who with tremulous accents, said: "Ah! heaven is a beautiful place, and I should have been so happy to have staid there, but I so longed to see my brother and sister once more." As soon as possible the room was cleared of the wondering spectators and the doctor sent for, who found his patient rather better than on his previous visit the day before, and since that time she has to all appearances steadily improved. During the last two or three days Miss Bailey has been somewhat deranged.—Boston Herald.

SELECTED SIMILES

"The child of the past and the parent of the future" is not an unhappy simile for the present. Happiness has been likened to a ghost; all talk about it, but few, if any, have ever seen it. Ambition's ladder rests against a star, remarks a clever writer, who also tells us that a proverb is short truth sandwiched between wit and wisdom.

Eloquence is a coat of many colors judiciously blended. No one thing will make a man eloquent. Flattery has been termed a kind of bad money to which our vanity gives currency. Society, like shaded silk, must be viewed in all situations, or its colors will deceive us. Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together, and charity is an angel breathing on riches, while graves have been poetically called the footsteps of angels.

Language is a slippery thing to deal with, as some may find when selecting their similes. Says a writer: "Speak of a man's marble brow, and he will glow with conscious pride; but allude to his wooden head, and he is mad in a minute." The young lecturer's "similes were gathered in a heap" when he expressed the whole body of his argument on deceit in the following: "Oh, my brethren, the showiest shirt front may conceal an aching bosom, and the stiffest of all collars encircle a throat that has many a bitter pill to swallow."

Plagiarists are a species of purloiners who filch the fruit that others have gathered, and then throw away or attempt to destroy the basket.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS.

It has been truly said that the abilities of man must fall short on one side or the other, like too scanty a blanket when you are in bed; if you pull it upon your shoulders, you leave your feet bare; if you thrust it down upon your feet, your shoulders are uncovered. The man, we are told, who has not anything to boast of but his illustrious ancestors, is like a potato—the only good belonging to him being under ground.

A man at dinner in evening dress has been likened to a conundrum; you can't tell whether he is a waiter or a guest. A Yankee, describing a lean opponent said: "That man dosn't amount to a sum in arithmetic; add him up and there's nothing to carry." An American critic, in reviewing a poem, said: "The rhythm sounds like turnips rolling over a barn floor, while some lines appear to have been measured with a yard stick and others with a ten-foot pole."

An amusing illustration was given by a parent when asked by his boy, "What is understood by experimental and natural philosophy?" The answer was, "If any one wants to borrow money, that is experimental philosophy. If the other knocks him down that is natural philosophy." Curious and comical illustrations seem natural to many children. A little girl, suffering from the mumps, declared she felt as though a headache had slipped down into her neck. "Mamma," said another youngster, alluding to a man whose neck was a series of great rolls of flesh, "that man's got a double chin on the back of his neck." A little 3-year-old, in admiring her baby brother is said to have exclaimed: "He's got a boiled head, like papa."

CURIOUS SIMILES.

Talking of curious similes—among the southern language of India is the Teloogoo of Telinga, so rough in pronunciation that a traveler of the nation speaking it before a ruler of Bokhars, admitted that its sound resembled "the tossing of pebbles into a sack." A simile for scarlet stockings is fire hose—laughter is the sound you hear when your hat blows off—and trying to do business without advertising is said to be "like winking at a girl in the dark." An unpoetical Yankee has described ladies' lips as the glowing gateway of beans, pork, sauerkraut and potatoes. This would provoke Merryat's exclamation of "Such a metaphor I never met afore." Much more complimentary was the old darkey's neat reply to a beautiful young lady whom he offered to lift over a gutter, and who insisted she was two heavy. "Lor, missy," said he, "I'se used to lifting barrels of sugar." Wit from a man's mouth is like a mouse in a hole; you may watch the hole all day, and no mouse come out; but by and by, when no one is looking for it, out pops the mouse and streams across the parlor.

"Marrying a woman for money," says a philosopher, "is very much like setting a rat trap and baiting it with your own finger.

An American writer says: "A man with one idea always puts me in mind of an old goose trying to hatch out a paving stone."

An editor's simile of a man's career is summed up in the line: "Man's a vapor full of woes, and starts a paper, busts and goes."

We all recollect how the Bath waters were associated in Weller's mind with the "flavor of warm flatirons." The humorist who created that character was often reminded of a printer's parenthesis by the appearance of a bowlegged child; and the elongated pupils of a cat's eye before a bright light were likened by him to "two notes of admiration."

TAKE SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and restores the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is not intoxicating, never fails to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, prompt and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system.
