TO BUY UTAH SHEEP.

But Went to Idaho and Bought Horses Instead.

A. A. Knott, the Berthoud, Colo., stockman, got in from Sloux City this morning. About four weeks ago Mr. Knott event to Utah to look up sheep matters and from there he went to Idaho, As he sized up the situation, lambs would be lower later in the summer, he turned his attention to horses, bought a couple of carloads, took them to Sioux City, and is now going back to Idaho for more. In his opinion lambs in Idaho will not be as good this year as last. The crop is so great and there are a great many twins, so that there will be long strings of tailings, Growers along the Snake river and north of Soda Springs are hardly ready yet to make prices. He heard of some being offered at $2.25 per head; last year the price on stuff out of the same flock was $2.75. He heard of another lot that was of-fered at $1.75. Therefore Mr. Knott expects lower prices later. In southern Utah lambs averaging over sixty pounds were quoted at $2.00@$2.25 per head with no takers. These were on the Uintah reservation. He heard of no contracts being closed. Mr. Knott says that during the trip last night and yes-terday through Iowa and Nebraska on the Union Pacific there was a good heavy rain. Corn is looking fine and in western Iowa it is in the silk .- Denver

ARRESTED AT THE LAKE. Ed. Dalton, a Transient, Found Trying to Open Bath Rooms.

A hard looking citizen was hauled in last night by Deputy Sheriff Dowse, in the person of Ed Dulton, who hails from Omaha. Dowse thinks that his man is one of the band of sneak thieves which has been operating at Saltair. A few days ago a woman lost a satchel, containing a gold watch, at the lake. Dowse learned during the day that there was a man about town trying to sell a gold watch. He traced the fellow to the Rio Grande depot, where he earned that he had taken the 4:15 train for the lake. Dowse telephoned to the beach officials to arrest the man and hold him until he came. A man was noticed going from one bath room to another, trying the doors, and was consequently taken in. A vold gratch consequently taken in. A gold watch claimed to have found on the 8:30 a. m train to the lake. The fellow unhap train to the lake. The fellow unhap-10:30 a. m. INCENDIARY AT WORK.

Succeeds in Destroying New Home in the Pitts Addition.

A new residence just erected by J. Davidson in Pitr's addition was badly burned last night, supposedly at the hand of an incendiary. The cortage, which is situated between Fifth and which is situated between Fifth and Sixth South and Sixth and Seventh West streets, was vacant, and last night about 16:30 o'clock a nearby neighbor was aroused from his sleep by the heavy tread of feet about the house. He arose at once and went out to see if anyone was there. On reaching his own door he saw a man leave the new house and hurry away. He had followed the fleeting form with his eyes, but a moment or two, when he saw flames leaping up through the roof of the new building. He notified the fire station as seen as possible, and No. 2 responded in haste. The neighbors were unable to do anything with buckets as

RETURNS AFTER 3 YEARS.

Has Been Boing Vaudeville With the Lyric Trio For Some Time - Declined a Regular Stage Offer.

Hugh W. Dougall, the well known young baritone who left Salt Lake three years ago for a thorough course in voice building, has just returned home after a completion of his studies. When seen by a "News" representative this afternoon Mr. Dougail talked interestingly of musical affairs in New York, and of Utah people, who have been making the great metropolis their home while developing the talents with which they are endowed. Mr. Dougail likes New York very much, and says a year's residence there is almost an education in itself. "It furnishes," said he, en-thusiastically, "the best of everything. If you want to go to the theaters you know that you can make your own choice of what you will see, whether it s in concert, grand opera or regular frama. And so it goes down the line f everything imaginable. It is one of he great centers of this world and a lighty fine place in which to live, at ast I thought so."

When Mr. Dougall left home it was to scome a pupil of B. B. Young of Chiwith whom he remained for a d of two years, and then went on to New York, and studied for a year under Max Bendheim, one of the country's foremost voice-building instructors, himself a baritone of note. Mr. Dougall would, he says, probably have remained in New York for an in-have remained in New York for an indefinite time had it not been for the fact that his father is to leave home shortly to engage in missionary work, and that his presence here was needed. So, after a brier rest he will open a studio and commence teaching in Sait Lake. He has recently been doing vaudeville as a member of the Lyric Trio, which met with success in various New York theaters, and which led to a substantial offer to him from a regular opera company for next season. The condition referred to, however, made acceptance inadvisable. The principal card presented by the Lyric Trio cipal card presented by the Lyric Trio was a little operetta, entitled "A Matri-monial Ad," which Mr. Dougall cays he will present with some of his pupils

POCATELLO HAS A POLITICAL MIXUP

Hugh Dougall of Salt Lake Talks Democrats, Silver Republicans and What the Figures for the First Half Populists in Convention.

THEY ENDEAVOR TO AGREE | A STARTLING DECREASE

Dubols and Stennenberg People Are at Loggerheads-Former Intend to Force Matters.

[SPECIAL TO THE NEWS."] Pocatello, Idaho, July 18.-The Demcratic convention met at 10 a. m. and adjourned to 1:30 to await the report of the credentials committee,

At a later hour the committee submitted two reports on the Shoshone county contest, each signed by ten members, a debate then started on the famous contest.

The Populists and Silver Republicans did nothing this morning.

There is a very stubborn contest on between the Steunenberg and Dubois people, the proposition being that fu-sion will be defeated if the former con-trol the convention. The friends of Dubois want him returned to the United tales Senate and will go so far as to ominate him for governor if the regu-ar Democrats refuse to recognize his alms to the senatorship.

Mr. D. C. Dunbar is here urging a o-operation of all the silver forces in tate matters in order to strengthen heir support of the national ticket. Former Governor Osborne of Wyomng is here upon a similar mission and ame upon the request of National Chairman Jones.

The fact that General Weaver of Iowa, one of the most prominent leaders among the Populists, is here in the interests of co-operation is an indica-tion of the desire of all the national daders opposing the Republican party. SUING FOR DIVORCE.

Elizabeth Searie today entered a suit for divorce against her husband, John C. Searle, the grounds being willful failure to provide and habitual drunkenness for the past year. The marriage took place in 1878, and its issue is a family of five children, from the ages of twenty to nine years.

Besides costs of suit, attorney's fees, she asks for the custody of the minor children. Alexander McMaster is attorney for the plaintiff.

Last evening they learned that the young couple had been married in this ity during the afternoon at the resi-lence of Rev. E. G.Hunt of the Heath M. E. Church, No. 1048 west Third ath street, by Rev. George H. Smith f Rock Springs, Wyoming, who is tem-orarily occupying Mr. Hunt's pulpit. On coming in possession of these facts Mr. and Mrs. Bishop sought "high and ow" for the truents but without sucarmistice patched up. The scenes that followed at the home of the bride's parents and the words of foregiveness that were uttered are not for the public to know. It must be content with the knowledge it has. Captain Bishop has taken his young son-in-law into his office where he will teach where he will teach the assaying business which he believes he can accomplish in six months and Mrs. Bishop will, in the morning, go back to the Old Arm Chair for the summer, while Florence will cook and keep house for her young hus-hand and father.

A feature much regretted by the rela-tives on both sides is the fact that both Truelson and his bride perjured them, selves to get their license at Farming. n, the former alleging that he was when in fact he is not yet 21, and the latter giving her age as 19 when she was but 17 in May last. There will, however, probably be no trouble over the matter as Captain Bishop formally attached his written consent to the stut-from which the license was torn, before leaving Farmington, and Truelson's mother, it is said, will go up there and perform a like act for him.

GREAT FALLING OFF IN WATER.

of July Show.

Springs in Parley's Canyon that Have Absolutely Dried Up-A Condition That is Not Very Promising.

Land and Water Commissioner Westerfield in going over the figures of the water supply of Salt Lake City today for the first 15 days of July found that the conditions were most startling. On the first of July there was flowing into the conduits of the city water system 13,500,000 gallons daily, of which 6,000,000 gallons came from City Creek and 7,500,000 gallons from Parley's canyon. On July 15th this had fallen off 3,500,000. The greatest falling off is from Pariey's, which has fallen 3,000,000 gallons. The following table is taken from the books of the water commissioner: CITY CREEK.

July 7st—Discharging into the weir above the high line tank, 6,000,000. July 15th, at the same place, 5,500,000. PARLEY'S CREEK.

July 1st-Discharging over the city's weir above tank, 7,500,000 gallons. July Weir above tank, 1,500,000 gailons. The Jordan and Salt Lake canal is discharging today into the city's irrigating system forty-two second feet, which is exactly one-half of the quantity discharged at the opening of the irrigating season.

Mr. Westerfield, who is keeping a careful watch upon the streams from which the city receives its water supcsanyon whence a great deal of the flow of Parley's creek is received, that springs that have never been known to be dry before are today perfectly dry, and he anticipates a still further falling off of the water supply in the same ratio from this creek.

Perhaps no one factor in the successful establishment of an orchard is so important as its site, and yet it seems to be the one most frequently overlooked. It is often the deciding agent between profit and loss. One commonly sees peaches, grapes, straw-berries and other easily injured fruits planted in low situations where the cold ground and cannot drain away, of luck, the weather just happening be favorable. Often the temperature in these places is five or more degrees lo er than a few hundred feet away, but upon higher ground. No excuse savo the proximity of open bodies of water should be made for placing an orchard in such situations. These act as a temperature balance, keeping the air coo late in the spring and thus preventing the precocious swelling of the fruit buds; and warmer in the autumn, the warding off injury to the ripening furit. But where these bodies are shallow, or small they are of little use. We cannot plant upon the southern exposure with the same temerity as the English. They are obliged to do this in order to get sufficient sun and heat, but they calculate upon some diligating circumstance, a stone wall sulidings, a milder climate, etc. How many peach orchards are frozen out in this country by following this prac-tice? The rule won't work in both

The attention of doubters is called to the following notes put in readable shape from recent observations: Upon a hill where the land sloped from the top to the north and to the south, posts were placed at the top and at equal distances upon each slope from it. Hoics were bored in each post for the reception of thermometers. Readings of the temperature were taken during four months in the early morning, and again in the early afternoon. When compared and tabulated, the dat showed that the average daily tempera ture on the northern slope of the hill was about eight degrees less than upon the southern; that the range was as low as gixteen degrees less and that there was less variation upon the northern slope than upon the southern, The actual temperature is of less im-portance than the variation from day portance than the variation from day to day and from hour to hour. Trees upon the southern slope might com-mence to swell their buds from being in a mild temperature, while northern exposed trees might still be surrounded by a freezing temperature. The former would stand less chance of escape than the latter.

In a less degree, these remarks apply soil upon a northern slope may be tilled less early than the southern slope, be less robbed of moisture than the latter and thus favor a better yield of fruit, be cooler on account of the less direct rays of the sun. Further conclusions need not be drawn; the facts seem suff ciently clear to show that site is one of the most important factors that the
