Driving, Squally, Snowstorm Breaks Loose Over the City From the Morthwest and Throws a Manile of the Beautiful From Pocatello, Idaho, to Modena, in Southern Utah, Over a Foot Deep in Places.

A driving, squally snowstorm broke | oose over the city at 5:15 last evening. and kept up its blasts antil, after ' 'clock. Something in the line of a storm was expected, but not anything like that, and people were driven off the streets bright and early. It continued gnowing lightly until about 9 o'clock, and there was a pause until 5:10 a. m., by which time Old Boreas was ready for another meteorological whirl. Then he started in with a vengeance, and the snow fell fast and rurious until after floo'clock, when the clouds began to thin out, and the sun-shine struggled through, though in tri-turated doses. The weather office predicted this noon, cloudy and threaten-ing weather for tonight and tomorrow. The storm's precipitation was .33 of an Inch in water, or 3.33 inches of snow. t.nd the snow was sloppy and wet. The walking was anything but choice, though had it been colder there would be excellent sleigning this afternoon. The street cars got into trouble bright and early, as the wet snow gathered from the north to Main street coupled together. The center one had broken its trolley rod, and it required a car before and one behind to bring it down town. The "Snowbird" track sweeper was in active service all the morning, and did effective work.

The storm appears to have been gen-eral. It came from the north and west, and was snowing quite lively this morning at Pocatcho. Word to the weather office stated that the snowfall at Bingham canyon was 14 inches; and phone from Marcavia extent the death phone from Marysvale stated the depth there was 8 inches at 9:30 a.m. The snow fall was comparatively light at Modena where the snowfall was 3:10 inches, and in the southern part of the state the precipitation generally was light. A fall of b inches was the record at Miles City. The storm center was at Miles City. The storm center was over eastern Cotorodo this morning, with a barometer of 29.01. The weather office characterizes the storm as exceptionally energetic. The street car operatives in this city and people who had to be out on the streets in the driving snow fully agree with the weather office. They was a rift in the clouds at 1 p. m., and the san came cut with a sweet and winsome smiller but the reformation did not last much longer than in a stage New Year's swear off, and in 20 minutes it was snowing again-just for a change.
