Wonderland.

For the week commencing Thursday, September 28th, a matchless bill of attractions is offered by the management of this resort. Barrett, the comedy-eccentric, will remain for another week, as also the phenomenal whistling-singer Rauchaw. Among the new features each representative on Orientation, the queen of terpsichore, Miss Florence Clayton, the contortionist, and Walter Leroy, Irish comedian, will appear in the theatorium. In the Curio Hall an unusually attractive exhibit will be presented, including Mlle Cinto, the snake charmer, and Mr. George Eastman, the most wonderful tattooed man on exhibition.

Virginia Conference.

Minutes of a conference held Sept. 9th and 10th, 1893, in Louisa county Virginia. There were present President J. G. Kimball, Elders J. G. Ellis, George R. Wallace, George A. Smith, James Allred, W. W. Richards, Oscar DeMill, C. E. Clark, Ephraim Peterson, John P. Cannon, D. M. Gillies, John S. Curtis, James G. Ivie, Hugh W. Findley and James Vance, Jr.

We met first in priesthood meeting for the purpose of hearing the reports of the Elders as to their travels during the past year, who were interested in hearts of their success in the different fields of labor.

We then met in conference, President Ellis presiding. The meeting was occupied by several of the Elders treating upon the first principles of the Gospel.

During the noon recess dinner was partook around by the Saints and friends, of whom there were many, and at 2 o'clock we met in priesthood meeting again to hear the reports of the rest of the Elders. These were all gratifying, and we received much good information from Brother Kimball.

Our conference then was continued and the Elders went from the Presidency of the District and received the Parish and all to Millennium.

On Sunday morning we were favored by the rain, so that we had to seek shelter in the house of F. Hall, who was kind enough to let us have meeting room. At 2 o'clock we met in council meeting, at which President Kimball gave us good advice and instructions as to our labors both spiritually and temporally, so that this would have us and cause no effects with success.

We were then assigned our fields of labor, Myself and Elder Hoch W. Findley were appointed to labor in Louisa county, and the rest of the Elders received their assignment and fields of labor.

Then we met again in public meeting and after the regular exercises President Kimball addressed an address to the congregation, after which meeting was dismissed, but took part with the confirmation of the Gospel. He ordained the Saints to faithfulness and to let no example wanting of faithfulness.

We feel well in the work before and are encouraged that we have the faith and purpose of the Saints. The work of the Lord is upward and onward.

Unknown Writers Wanted.

New writers constantly suppose themselves rejected because they are unknown; but the unknown's name or letter and quality is of all others the least with the editor welcomes it to his page. He knows that there is always a demand for the tempting morsel of unpublished matter, that at any rate, in the order of things, he is passing away, and that if the magazine is not to pass away with the men who have made it, there must be a constant infusion of fresh blood. Few editors are such fools and knaves as to let their personal feeling disable their judgment; and the young writer who gets his manuscript back may be sure that it is not because the editor dislikes him, for none of us search. Above all, he can trust me that the institution has not been passed round, or has fallen of the examination it merits. Editors are not men of irritable temperament, but they do use their judgment, and it is mostly good. From "The Man of Letters as a Man of Business" by W. D. Howells, in the October number of Scribner's Magazine.
