WANTS $20,000 DAMAGES.

That Is the Amount Claimed by a Woman From the U. P. R. R. Co.

The time of the Third District court this morning was entirely taken up with the legal arguments on the trial of the suit brought by Mary Ann Hadley against the Union Pacific Railroad company, to recover damages for personal injuries, which plaintiff alleged were due to the negligence of the company's servants.

The facts were reported in yesterday's NEWS. On January 1st in the present year Mrs. Hadley traveled from Salt Lake to Centerville over the defendants' line. On reaching her destination, after the train had been brought to a standstill, she attempted to alight, but she avers that when in the act of doing so the train was again set in motion without the least warning. She was thrown from the steps to the ground with considerable violence, and received, it is said, permanent injuries to the spine and lower limbs of the body. Mr. and Mrs. Hadley reside on west Seventh South street, in this city.

When the trial was resumed this morning leave was granted the plaintiff's counsel to so amend the complaint as to make the claim for damages $20,000 instead of $15,000, the amount previously demanded. A stubborn fight was waged by Attorney W. H. Dickson on the part of the plaintiff and Attorney Parley L. Williams for the defendant. The case went to the jury this afternoon.

WHAT THE JURY SAY.

After deliberating for three hours, the jury in the case of Mary Ann Hadley vs. the Union Pacific Railway company (tried in Judge Zane's court yesterday and today) returned into court at 3:40 this afternoon and gave a verdict for the plaintiff, assessing the damages at $7,500. The amount claimed was $20,000.

A report of the case will be found on the 5th page of this issue.

The Orange Market.

There are few if any cities, size considered, that consume more oranges than Salt Lake; hence the past season's crop, the probable supply here and the consequent prices are subjects of some little interest. The announcement is made that heavy consignments are to go to England this year, but that will not affect us much, unless the Britons absorbs the entire Florida output—which we do not draw on at all—and then proceeds to draw upon southern California, our exclusive lessee of supplies. The growers of the latter place are much interested in the foreign market, and so are we here; for, while we could get along without oranges, as we did in the early days, it is just as well not to do so.

THE ADAMS CASE STILL ON.

The Mystery No Nearer Solved Than on Yesterday.

TESTIMONY OF WITNESSES.

The Hearing Will Probably Be Concluded This Evening.

The investigation into the Adams attempted murder case was resumed before Justice Gee at 2:30 this afternoon.

EDGE JACKSON

testified that he had known the defendant about three or four months. He came there frequently to read the evening papers. He had heard him say that he was physically weak—that he had been wounded. Mr. Sawyer was at his place as early as half-past six o'clock on Saturday evening last. He read three copies of the Salt Lake Evening Times and then picked up a magazine and read several articles aloud to the family. He remained there until twenty minutes to 10, at which time he took his departure, presumably for home. Witness had since ascertained that his clock was fifteen minutes slow on Saturday evening last, making it five minutes to ten o'clock when the defendant went away. He had investigated the case some—simply that he might make no mistake—because he expected to be called as a witness.

MRS. TOBY

testified that she had seen the defendant pass her home on Saturday night about half-past six o'clock, going down the alley past her place on the way to Mr. Jackson's house.

CHARLES WEBB

testified to having seen the defendant going to Jackson's house on Saturday evening about dusk. To his best recollection it was about half past six o'clock. He was not acquainted with defendant.

MRS. EDITH PITTER

testified that she had first met the defendant in July last. Since then she had never spoken to him but had nodded to him several times. Witness' house was about two rods from Mr. Jackson's place. On Saturday night she was standing on her porch for a few minutes between eight and nine o'clock. She heard defendant reading aloud. He was sitting near the window; the door was open.

WILLIAM SIMON and ANGUS MCDONALD testified to the good reputation of the defendant.

The case was in progress at the time our report closed. It was expected by counsel on either side that the taking of testimony would be finished this evening.

The Queen's Footstool.

(Columbus Dispatch.)

In olden times "to take counsel de la reine," that is, the footstool of the queen, was considered an indispensable adjunct to her throne and to her royal attributes. Its use, however, has become more or less obsolete. Empresses and queens no longer care to expose the size and the shape of their feet to the critical gaze of the denizens of the court, and if they followed their own inclinations the stool would be used rather for the purpose of concealing than of exhibiting their grandeur and ankles.

The Funeral Services at the White House.

A REMEDY AGAINST CHOLERA.

The Annihilation of the Timochians by the Mexicans.

CONFESSION OF A DYING INDIAN.

The Secretary Conference.—A Scale in the English Channel.—Gladstone Must Not Work Hard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Harrison occurred in the east room of the White House this morning at 10 o'clock in the presence of the family, immediate friends and many notable persons. Revs. Hamlin and Bartlett officiated, the services lasting three-quarters of an hour. The remains were then conveyed to the Pennsylvania depot and left for Indianapolis at 11:30.

The services were very simple but beautiful and impressive. The casket was set in the middle of the east room and chairs were arranged about it in a semi-circle. At the head and at the foot large palms, reaching almost to the ceiling. Other palms stood in embrasures, windows and other points about the room, being about the only change from the ordinary appearance of the room, except the floral offerings. These were very numerous and beautiful. They were grouped about the casket, and so many of them as to give the appearance of the casket resting lightly on them as a pedestal. Among the many who sent flowers were the members of the cabinet, diplomatic corps, Mrs. Morton, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the wives of the cabinet ministers, Mrs. George Gould, daughters of the Revolution, ladies of the Mount Vernon association, ladies of the treasury department and the Republican state central committee, California.

Seats were reserved near the casket for members of the family, members of the cabinet and members of the supreme court. Among the early arrivals were Ex-Secretary Blaine, wife and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. The members of the diplomatic corps were also early to their seats.

All to whom the seats of all were occupied and the room was completely filled, many standing along the walls and in adjacent rooms and corridors. In the Green room adjoining the blue room the boys of the choir of St. Johns Episcopal church were stationed. The reason for adding this Episcopal feature to the Presbyterian service was touching. At the funeral of Mrs. Secretary Tracy, two years ago, Mrs. Harrison was so much struck by the singing by the Episcopal choir of the hymn "Lead Kindly Light" that she caused it to be sung in the White House nearly every Sunday since. Because it was so dear to her it was decided to have it sung at the services.

At 10 the vice president and members of the cabinet, as honorary pall bearers, entered the room, followed by members of the afflicted family, the audience awaiting their entrance with bowed heads. When the family was seated, Rev. Dr. Hamlin, the President's pastor, opened the service by reading selections from the Psalms and other scriptures. Then Rev. Dr. Bartlett, formerly Mrs. Harrison's pastor in Indianapolis, took up the service, reading a number of passages from the Old and New Testaments.

The choir then chanted "I heard the voice of Jesus say."

Prayer by Dr. Hamlin followed, and then the choir sang, "Lead Kindly Light." This closed the simple service.

The undertaker entered and removed the flowers from around the casket. The body bearers, selected from among the house servants, took their places, and preceded by the clergymen and honorary pall bearers bore the body to the hearse standing under the porte cochere with two black horses attached. Then followed by the carriages conveying the members of the party to accompany the remains to Indianapolis, the cortege moved out, and passed slowly to Pennsylvania depot, where the casket was transferred to the car, together with the floral tributes. The accompanying party took their seats in the train and, at 11:40, the train pulled out on the sorrowful journey.

THE FRANKLIN EXPEDITION.

Interesting Confession of a Dying Indian.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27.—Rev. E. R. Young, a Methodist missionary to the far north for many years, states that he was sent for by an aged dying Indian some time ago, who confessed that he accompanied one of Sir John Franklin's relief expeditions to the Mackenzie river. The supplies became very low and there was danger of starving. Before Dr. Ilog returned the commander sent this Indian and another across an island to look on the other side. They crossed and discovered in the distance three masts rising out of the ice. They were very excited, and knowing that if they told the commander of their discovery he would go to the place, they decided it would be better not to tell him, for they feared starvation of the entire party in the event of delay. Accordingly they returned and reported having found nothing. Next day the expedition started on the return. The Indian is certain that the masts belonged to one of Franklin's vessels.

LONDON PARAGRAPHS.

Gladstone.—The Liberals.—Irish Contested Money.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Under the insistent monition of Sir Andrew Clark, his physician, Gladstone has decided to limit his presence in the House of Commons during the coming session to the sittings only on days when important measures are under consideration. His deputy in the leadership of the House will be Sir William Vernon Harcourt, chancellor of the exchequer, as there are authentic reports that the ex-ministry from which Sir William is a sufferer, is growing worse.

The Liberals are disturbed at the prospect of disorganized leadership. At a cabinet council today arrangements were probably made to have a substitute ready to take Sir William's place if necessary.

The difference between the two sections of the Irish parliamentary party over the Parnell fund is at last on the verge of settlement. This fund was mostly contributed by Irishmen in the United States and Australia in 1885 to defray the expenses of the Irish members of Parliament fighting for home rule. In 1890 part of the fund was not immediately required and deposited in Paris with Munroe & Co., bankers, in the names of Biggar, Parnell and McCarthy as trustees. After the split occurred in the Irish parliamentary party and after the deaths of Parnell and Biggar, a fight arose over the ownership of the fund, it being claimed by both sections. On Wednesday last Archbishop Croke sent fifty pounds to the fund for the relief of evicted tenants, and to a letter offering the donation, suggested that the fund should be taken from the hands of the Paris bankers and confided to three honest men not connected with either side of the Irish controversy, until an agreement as to its disposal had been concluded. Timothy Harrington has signified that he unconditionally agrees to the archbishop's suggestion and adds that he desires Archbishop Croke to be one of the new trustees. If the McCarthyites agree to this there will be little further trouble regarding the fund.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Indications that It Will Push to Virginia Points.

GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 27.—There are indications that the Southern Pacific railroad is seriously contemplating coming to Virginia points, just across from Galveston. C. P. Huntington has had an option on several hundred acres of water front for several years, and that option expires in August, 1893. The land thus covered is of sufficient area to afford a frontage of 100 miles, besides shops, round houses, etc. Huntington has, it is recently stated that he would build off the coast to Virginia point until there was 22 feet of water on the bar at Galveston. Now those on the inside in this matter state positively that eighteen feet will bring the road here. It is the intention of Huntington to establish an active system of docks at Virginia point, and make a deep harbor there and establish a trans-Atlantic line of fast steamers from this point.

FINANCES.

An Address by Sir John Lubbock in London.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—A meeting of the chamber of commerce was held today. Sir John Lubbock, president, delivered an address in which he dwelt upon the unsatisfactory state of the trade which, however, he declared, had not been affected by the McKinley tariff to the extent expected. The British trade with Africa, he said, had declined less than it had with other countries. The greatest sufferers were the Americans who felt the pinch more acutely than did the British. The Canadian exporters were in a condition of commercial paralysis that could not be indefinitely prolonged.

The McKinley bill constituted the grand opportunity for Canada. This bill placed American farmers at a disadvantage. If Canada profited by her position and lowered the import duty, her merchants would be benefited, because many British products required in the West would inevitably find their way through Canada and across the border without paying the heavy American custom duties.

Referring to the continued dropping in the rates of eastern exchange, Sir John said the matter claimed great attention. He suggested that the Indian mints should change to the ratio of 2 per cent for the coining of silver. This, he believed, would check the fluctuations in the price of that metal.

Sir John declared that bimetallism would never be adopted by Great Britain, as it would be impossible for rates of value.

Railroad Combination.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—It is claimed the party who engineered the Reading and Boston and Maine deal have secured a controlling interest in the New York and New England as a connecting link.

A RUMOR OF VILLAINY.

The Attempt to Bribe a Printer to Mark Ballots.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 27.—The Democrat and Chronicle asserts that an attempt has been made to bribe a printer in the office where the official ballots are printed to mark the Republican ballots so that they would be thrown out when the time comes to count them.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The difference between the two sections of the Irish parliamentary party over the Parnell fund is at last on the verge of settlement. This fund was mostly contributed by Irishmen in the United States and Australia in 1885 to defray the expenses of the Irish members of Parliament fighting for home rule. In 1890 part of the fund was not immediately required and deposited in Paris with Munroe & Co., bankers, in the names of Biggar, Parnell and McCarthy as trustees. After the split occurred in the Irish parliamentary party and after the deaths of Parnell and Biggar, a fight arose over the ownership of the fund, it being claimed by both sections. Timothy Harrington has signified that he unconditionally agrees to the archbishop's suggestion and adds that he desires Archbishop Croke to be one of the new trustees. If the McCarthyites agree to this there will be little further trouble regarding the fund.

AWFUL BARBARITY.

Actors Cruelty Succeeded by Mexican Soldiers.

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 27.—The news of the annihilation of the Temochians, a people who inhabit the village of Temochite and who are nearly pure Aztecs, was received here last evening more circumstantial than at first indicated.

Temochite is situated on the direct road to Guerrero and Jesus Maria in the mountains of southeastern Chihuahua, Mexico, and has been in open rebellion against the state and federal governments more than a year on account of excessive taxation and extortion by the government officials and government interference in their religious belief. Two months ago the government sent the 19th battalion, in command of General Ruajel, to make the people pay the tax required and accept the government officials appointed to take charge, or kill every one of them. This alternative was openly hooted at by the officers to Chihuahua, before the troops started for the town, and when the Temochians heard of it they decided to fight it out, as they knew that even if they should receive the soldiers peaceably, they would be shot on the slightest provocation. When the soldiers made the descent on the village they were met and driven off with one officer and fourteen men killed, and two officers and forty-five men taken prisoners.

The prisoners were confined on the top of an adobe church. General Ruajel was the only officer who escaped. When the news of the affair reached the ears of President Diaz, he decided to annihilate the village, and of whom the people were notified, they answered, "God is with us and we will not be taken."

The soldiers left Chihuahua two weeks ago and formed, in conjunction with others from Paso Alto and Guerrero, a number of 1200. On Monday the attack was made on all sides. The Temochians with their families took refuge in the church awaiting the attack. It was made on all sides and the slaughter was terrible. At last the soldiers gained an entrance to the church and a terrible hand to hand fight took place. The soldiers completed the massacre with the loss of four number killed and many wounded. The village is now in possession of a terrible view. The streets leading to the church was filled with bodies and blood seemed to flow in torrents. Not a man of the Temochians fled left. Except the women and children to be out in the mountains, but the government has paid dearly for its victory. The Temochians were some time ago a very wealthy people in cattle and farms, but lack of rain and the failure of their crops had brought them to poverty, and they were unable to exist under the extortions of the government and its petty officials, and were brought near to starvation. They were very hospitable and several weeks ago, when several parties of Americans passed through from Guerrero to Chihuahua, they were treated kindly and well cared for, though government officials objected to their going, they saying that the Temochians were hostile.

The feeling against the government is very strong, and the incident has been called the "second Alamo," which will bring fight and liberty to the Mexican people as it did to those of Texas.

If people only knew how cheaply this can be done there would be far more comfortable homes and less unpleasantness. We have things in such shape now that we can offer to furnish a Working Man's house throughout for a sum of money that ten years ago would not even furnish a parlor. We do not mean with poor, rickety Furniture, but with good, strong, sound, reliable articles. At the same time they combine an elegant appearance with luxurious comfort. Of course we have a better class of goods for those who can afford to pay more; in fact, we claim to be able to fit out, at short notice, the house of a millionaire or a laborer.
