The chain of evidence is complete. There can be no doubt that this is the long lost "Manuscript Found" about floor, and Mr. Lauer, who appeared in which there has been so much specumuch distress, said he had shot her in lation. Lauer was arboth examined it critically, compared It with the Book of Mormon and came to the conclusion that there was not the sightest connection between the two books and no similarity whatever in matter, purpose, narrative, names, linguage, style or anything else. The manuscript looks old and tailed, has one bundred and seventy odd pages, small quarto, and was tied up with a string in a coarse paper wrapper. Mr. Ross made a literal copy, errors, crasures and all, before sending it to Oberlin College, and a copy was made after its arrival under the Protessor's supervision, for the Reorganhis wife was lying and found her place ized or Josephite church, who have published it at Plano, Illinois. Rev C. M. Hyde, D. D., of the North Pacific Missiohary Institute, contribates an article to the Boston Congregationalist, in which he gives a history of the manuscript from the beginning and of the attempts made by Hurlburt, Howe and others to connect it with the Book of Mormon, and thus concludes his lengthy and lateresting contribution:

"The story has not the slightest resemblance in names, incidents or style to anything in the Book of Mormon, its first nine chapters are headed: Introduction: An Epitomy of the Author's Life, and of his Arrival in America; An account of the Settlement of the Ship's Company; Many Particulars respecting the Natives; A
