FRAGMENTS.

CITY COUNCIL: In regular session to-night.

This is pay day on the D. & R. G. Western.

Sur notice of an estray calf. Peterson & West, butchers, are its owners.

We surrender editorial space to a fuller report than other papers of the arguments for the defence in the Clawson case.

The Caledonia Society give their first social of the season, at the Social Hall, to-morrow evening. All the members are requested to be present, at 7.30 sharp.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to prosecute those scribblers who call witnesses liars, while a trial is progressing, and endeavor by every hook and crook known to their villainous craft to secure a conviction on the popular prejudice which they mostly create by their infernal lying?

LOCAL NEWS.

Detained Here.—Elder W. D. Johnson, Jr., of the Kanab Stake Presidency, is detained here several days by the severe illness of his wife. He is teaching along home to Kanab last week; his friends there, seeing this, will understand the cause of his delay.

Departing Missionaries.—Elders George S. Taylor, bound for New Zealand, Robert B. T. Taylor and Hyrum S. Harris, destined for the Sandwich Islands, with a number of others, will leave for San Francisco, from which port they will sail, by this afternoon's 4.30 train over the Utah Central.

Crayon Portraits.—A very creditable portrait in crayon has lately been finished by J. B. Fairbanks of Payson; the subject being General H. S. Eldredge. Mr. Fairbanks is only a beginner, but is in partnership with John Haden, of Springville. His portrait of Mr. Eldredge has been on exhibition in the Co-op, office at Ogden, and has won favorable criticism from many.

Time for Activity.—Two weeks from to-day the election for Delegate to Congress from Utah will take place. If the several county committees of the People's Party are not astir and making all necessary preparations to have the election go off with vim, and to guard the interests of the people jealously, it is time they were. We trust they will work earnestly to that end from this time forward. All hands should work to secure a full vote.

Temperance Lectures.—The meeting of the blue ribbon movement in the M. E. Church, Third South Street, last night, was well attended. Mr. Glover's subject was "Our Boys," in which he went to show the necessity of their growing up under the improved system of education of the present age, being kept from the temptations to use intoxicating liquor, so that they may have a free chance to make the best use of their superior advantages. Mr. Glover gave, in an amusing manner, sketches as samples of the kind of sharp, witty and intelligent boys now growing up in our midst, and saying that their very sharpness might help them to the commission of the greatest crimes, unless they were carefully guarded and kept in the right path. Elder Stewart read a passage of Scripture and offered prayer. Mrs. Hayton sang very sweetly, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth." The subject announced for to-night in the same place was "Our Girls."

Y. L. M. I. A. Anniversary.—The thirteenth anniversary of the Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Association of the Eleventh Ward, was duly celebrated at the Ward meeting house last evening. A sumptuous feast was spread at six o'clock, and a numerous though select company sat down to partake of its bounties. A nice and varied programme was then carried out by the following named young ladies: Gertrude Sampson, Lida Leaker, Dora Hodgson, Eveline Tucker, Edith Sampson, Maggie Frazee and Cecile Coulam, and addresses were given by several of the visitors. The proceedings were conducted by Sister Mary A. Frazee, president of the association. Among the visitors and those who addressed the assembly were the Presidency of the Stake, Bishop A. McEae, and Sisters Cannon, E. B. Wells, H. M. Whitney, Nellie Colebrook, and Mattie H. Tingey. Altogether it was a very pleasant occasion, which all present will long remember.

Civil Cases.—Judge Twiss yesterday disposed of the following business in the chambers of the Third District Court.

In the case of Salt Lake County vs. J. M. Rupp, the demurrer to the answer was sustained and twenty days' time allowed to file an amended answer.

In the case of W. C. Lyne vs. W. D. Brandt, the demurrer to the amended complaint was overruled. Exception. Twenty days given to answer.

In the case of Jones vs. Gebhardt, the demurrer to the complaint was sustained. Exception. Ten days' time allowed to amend complaint.

In the case of Rody vs. Raleigh, the application for a writ of certiorari was refused. Exception noted, and proceedings stayed for ten days.

In the case of Collins vs. Letham, the demurrer to the answer was sustained. Defendant excepts. Ten days' time allowed to file an amended answer.

In the case of Harriet Mining Co. vs. Phoenix Mining Co. et al. The motion for a new trial was overruled. Exception. Thirty days stay of execution allowed.

In the case of Bristow vs. The American Anthracite Co., default was entered and judgment rendered.

In the case of E. Hooper vs. C. Crow et al., the demurrer to the complaint was argued and taken under advisement.

In the case of John W. Lowell Wagon Co. vs. J. G. Snyder, a motion made for an order to sell property held under attachment, was argued and submitted.

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE CHIEF JUSTICE ZANE.

Tuesday, Oct. 21, 1908.

Admitted citizen—Wm. J. Gross, formerly of England, now of Box Elder.

United States vs. Redger Clawson, polygamy; Cont. charges Jeff. Jury. Defendant excepts to refusal to charge; also charges given.

People, etc. vs. O. E. Trojan, assault etc.; motion for new trial.

LAMBOURNE'S PAINTINGS.

HOW TO SPEND A HALF HOUR PLEASANTLY AND PROFITABLY.

We have been gazing at a cluster of painted gems which owe their existence to the brush, palette and genius of Alfred Lambourne, landscape and marine artist, well known in this, his all-but-native community. Several subjects in oil are on exhibition at Savage's Art Bazar, occupying a portion of central space on the south wall of the upper gallery. They embrace landscapes, "seascapes," rural scenes and historic objects, local and remote, and present varied and pleasing and instructive. We will name a few of the more prominent.

Perhaps the most noticeable marine study is "Sunset on the Pacific," sketched at the entrance to the Bay of Monterey. The sun, sinking line the sea, pours a glorious crimson light as a good-night benediction, upon the heaving bosom of the waters. A dark reef of rocks stretches out from the shore, taking on added somberness from the coming night, only in part relieved by the reflected brilliance from the burnished waves. This picture, which is known to be the artist's best in his line. Turning from it the eye rests on a woodland scene in Missouri, just the place a sentimental person would like to die in, or eat his lunch. Overhanging trees, a meandering stream, a fallen tree forming a natural bridge, a vista of azure sky and green field beyond. This was sketched in 1874, named "Forest Shade," and the original is in the neighborhood of St. Louis.

The artist's finest picture is the Old Carmel mission, founded by Father Serra, a Spanish priest, in the year 1770. The picture depicts the beautiful with the sacred character of the old decaying structure, and the softened blending of hues in earth and sky give a melancholy tinge to the picture which makes one feel almost in duty bound to be sad and weep, without exactly knowing why. The power of the painter's art in moulding the sentiment of the beholder, is here vividly portrayed.

Opposite or on the other side of the group, is a picture as notable for its wild tumult as the other is suggestive of peace and rest. It is the "Incoming Tide," or the Lighthouse at Monterey. One can almost hear the roar of the white-crested breakers, as they dash in untrammelled freedom against the coal-black rocks above which gleams a sparkling foam of light. The sea and the Carmel mission were sketched for purposes of contrast. The artist's first study of them was taken about 18 months ago, but before finishing the pictures he made a second trip to the coast and gathered additional features which he has introduced. Outside of Utah scenery, Mr. Lambourne has made a specialty of the coast scenery around Monterey. Next to visiting the celebrated resort, one might try the salubrious effect of these paintings. "Signal Station" at Golden Gate, is another coast study and "Dawn at Cypress Point" another.

Among home scenes a masterpiece of painting of "Sunset on the Great Salt Lake," some thing all can appreciate, the "Source of the Weber" and the "Valley of the Rio Virgen," in which gorgeous coloring vies with accuracy of description in attracting interest and enchainment attention. What we particularly admire about Mr. Lambourne's paintings is their sublimity and splendor. They are Brionie in grandeur, if we may apply (and we think we can) the poetical comparison, for they appeal to lofty imagination, and excite the same wild thrill as the sublime passages found in that poet's immortal oceanic rhapsodies, or melancholy musings on solitude and ruined places.

We had almost forgotten to mention two little gems called the "Remains of War and Peace." One is a picture of the "Old Coast Guard at Monterey" a rusty cannon projecting over a cliff and commanding the Bay, the original of which General Sherman is said to have wept over on one occasion. The other is the interior of the Old Carmel Mission, which doubtless the old priest would weep over now, if he could "revisit the glimpses of the Moon," which shine in calm and holy mellowness through its crumbling arches and ruined portals. We can recommend Mr. Lambourne's exhibition to all who desire to spend a half hour in a visual feast on meritorious productions of the painter's art.

Civilized Impertinence.—Two little boys, aged 9 and 8 years respectively, children of Samuel Sutherland, who lives in City Park, and who were stopped near the Eagle Gate last night by a man and two women, and impudently interrogated as to their father's domestic relations, whether he had more than one wife, if they were polygamist children, etc. They were probably visitors who accosted the children, but from their manner of catechizing and unparalleled impudence, one would suppose they were deputy marshals training for the anti-"Mormon" campaign.

Two rural decorations on the Sacramento stand in the Tabernacle, designed and constructed by George Hamlin, for the funeral services of the murdered Elder W. S. Berry and John H. Gibbs appeared so pretty and unique, that I photographed the same, and to perpetuate the memory of the above Elders, I thought the portraits of these martyrs would be considered in their place enshrined in this floral emblem. Copies of the portraits of their husbands, which they kindly responded to by sending the portraits of their husbands, that I copied from was found in his pocket at the time of his death. That of H. Gibbs was photographed with Elder W. H. Jones, the missionary that escaped. These photographs are now on sale at my gallery, corner of Third South Street and Main, or they can be mailed to any address at the following prices: 10c. each; 25c. each; 50c. each; 1.00 each; 1.50 each;
