BREVITIES.

Three concise rules for velocipede riders—Straddle, paddle, skedaddle.

Ole Bull and Blind Tom gave rival exhibitions at Syracuse, N. Y., lately.

The Houses of Parliament in London cost fifteen millions of dollars in gold.

A bit of soap rubbed on the hinges of doors will prevent their creaking.

If your flat-irons are rough rub them with fine salt and it will make them smooth.

Sun-dried oysters, cured like beef, by hanging in the sun, are becoming an important article of traffic in California.

The King Chan, or Pekin Gazette, has no record of its age, having been printed for centuries.

A young lady in Kansas, who had her vote refused at the last election, has brought suit against the election officers for $10,000.

A Georgia farmer says that a row of castor beans planted around a cotton field will protect cotton from worms and other destructive insects.

"Driving the last spike" has become a California phrase. It is now applied to all active exertions, and is something similar to the war phrase of "fighting it out on that line."

A fellow in Illinois advertises a runaway wife, who, he says, "has left him just as his summer's work was beginning, notwithstanding he has had the expense of wintering her.

For the approaching Œcumenical Council in Rome, a corps of stenographers is being organized. All the deliberations will be in Latin. The reporters are divinity students, selected from the different national colleges at Rome.

The New York Sun says: "The immortal hammer which drove the last spike in the Pacific Railroad is now on exhibition in seventeen of the principal cities of the United States. The spike itself, being of gold, is considered too costly to duplicate.

A rich but miserly peasant near Paris failed to employ a lawyer for his daughter, she being accused of crime, knowing the court would assign one. The case was skillfully and successfully argued, and the grateful father sent the eloquent advocate a dozen eggs.

A sporting Quaker put his bet thus: "Friend Edward, thee thinks thy horse is faster than mine. I value my opinion at twenty dollars. Now if thee values thy opinion at the same rate, we will put the money together and ask our horses what they think about it, and leave the conclusion to them."

A Duke of Orleans now exists for the first time since 1812. His mamma is the Countess of Paris, who was confined at Twickenham, England, on the 6th of February. The young Duke is a great grandson of Louis Philippe, by both father and mother.

A rebel soldier of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who returned home at the end of the war to find his wife living illicitly with his brother, and the mother of an illegitimate child, recently sued the false brother for $10,000 damages. The jury gave the plaintiff $3,000.

A Jew appears as senior wrangler this year at Cambridge University, England, for the first time. He is the son of a French Professor, Hartog, of the Jews' College. The question whether he can be made a Bachelor of Arts, omitting the Christian form of oath, is yet to be decided.

A curious physiological experiment was recently made by placing a few grains of barley before a hungry pigeon. While pecking at the barley, the brain of the pigeon was frozen by means of a spray of ether. The bird being thus deprived of consciousness ceased pecking and remained as if dead. The barley was then removed, and the ether spray having ceased, the brain was allowed to thaw. The bird soon returned to life and its first act was to renew the pecking for a time, although no food was before it.

An English chancery suit, recently commenced, has developed some facts concerning the construction of chignons and other hirsute deceptions. Thus it appears that mohair, or the hair of the lama goat, is largely used for headdresses, moustaches and waterfalls. It is first boiled until the animal matter is extracted, then washed in a hot bath of salt and water; then it is plunged into a bath with sulphate of copper, where it remains twenty-four hours; then it is boiled in catechu liquor, to which, after a while, sulphate of iron is added; finally it is washed in warm soap suds, and then dried.

A Chinese named Ah Sam, who kept the Lord Nelson Restaurant in Victoria, Vancouver Island, became bankrupt, and was ordered to file a schedule of his assets. Not knowing the names of his customers he had entered short descriptions of them in his ledger, and when he entered Court he had nothing more than the following to show. It was given me by his solicitor as a legal curiosity: A butcher owes $18; captain of a schooner, $50; cook in a ship galley, $8; red shirt man, $27; man comes late (a printer?), $10; cap man, $8 50c.; lean man (white man), $20; fat Frenchman, $30 62c.; (captain tall man), $20; French old man, $8; whiskers man, $18 37½c.; blacksmith, $49; barkeeper, $5; workman, $5; whiskers man's friend, $6 25c.; double blanket man, $6 50c.; little short man, $10; double blanket man's friend, $15; lame leg man, $50; fat man, $9 25c.; old man, $8; red whiskers, $7 50c.; steamboat man, $18; Indian Ya, $4 62½c.; Dick make coal shoveler, $28; Yea Yap earrings, $25; flower pantaloon man, $16; shoemaker gone to California, $15 62c.; a man—butcher's friend, $39; stableman, $16; get tight (drunk) man $7. The last entry the Commissioner decided was of much too general a character to allow of the slightest hope of fixing the debt upon any one in particular.—All the Year Round.
