EDITORIAL NOTES.

The principal astronomical event of next year is a total eclipse of the sun, which takes place on the 6th of May. At some point on the central line the totality will last nearly six minutes; but so forgetful is the eclipse of the convenience of astronomers that this line, the whole of which is included in the South Pacific Ocean, only touches land on a small island situated north of the Society and west of the Marquesas group.

Mr. Joseph Thomas, the young African traveler and geologist, who accompanied the late Keith Johnston in his explorations of the dark continent, and who, on the death of this geographer, took charge of and so successfully conducted the expedition to the lake region, is about to undertake, under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society of London, another tour of exploration to the same inhospitable country. The field of the new expedition lies to the east and northeast of the Victoria N'yanza, and special attention is to be directed toward an examination of the mountain peaks Kili-ma-njaro and Kenia.

Professor Alphonse Milne-Edwards, the director of the "Travailleur" deep-sea dredging expedition, in an address on oceanic exploration recently delivered before the French Academy, declared that the jelly-like substance which is spread or found over a considerable portion of the oceanic bottom, and which, under the designation of Bathybius had been considered by some naturalists to represent the simplest form of living matter—a sort of intermedium between animate and inanimate bodies—was in reality a mucous excretion from certain sponges and zoophotes, whose tissues came in rude contact with the dredging apparatus. The Bathybius, which has too much occupied the scientific world, will thus have to descend from its pedestal and be consigned to oblivion.

Judge Jere Black, the great jurist and sound Democrat, thus expresses himself on his political position, in which he is surrounded by a host who desire the perpetuity of those institutions established by the founders of the nation: "I am a Democrat, with sentiments of unspeakable reverence for the founders of that party and strong attachment to the true and good men who, in latter years, struggled so faithfully and against such fearful odds, for personal liberty and the right of local self-government. But I am a Democrat according to my own definition of democracy, which is this: The common sense and common honesty of a free people, applied within constitutional limits, to the making and administering of the laws."

"MORMONISM" IN NEW ZEALAND.

Several New Zealand papers, among them the Wellington Times, Wellington Evening Post, Auckland Star, etc., contain accounts of a meeting held at Spiller's Hall, Wellington, at which Elders Farr and Hansen, two missionaries from Utah, by invitation addressed an audience of about four hundred persons who were admitted by tickets, no ladies being present. From the reports of the meeting it is evident that it was arranged with a view to some amusement and with the expectation of hearing that which would not be proper in the presence of the softer sex. The chair was taken by Mr. Thomas Dwan, who claimed to have lived in America, and on that account to be able to pronounce "Mormonism" a lie. He introduced the two young missionaries, stating that he hoped they would have a fair hearing, and proceeded to interrupt and cast ridicule on Elder Farr until the latter strongly objected to the occupation of the chair by such a disorderly person. He then vacated it and it was occupied by Mr. J. E. Evans, Mr. Dwan taking the floor and continuing his interruptions. The meeting was opened with singing, which was applauded, and with prayer.

Elder Farr made an address in which he related the visions of Joseph Smith and the translation of the Book of Mormon, the chairman calling the angel Moroni, "Maloney," and another gentleman declaring that Mormon was "The winner of the Geelong cup." Elder Farr continued his address and bore testimony to the truth of the Gospel, notwithstanding these interruptions, and at the close agreed to answer proper questions that might be put. A great many questions were asked and promptly answered, some of them, put for ridicule, being replied to in a manner to turn the laugh upon the questioner. For instance a Mr. Swain was anxious to know what was done with the young women "decoyed" to Utah, and was informed that they were "taken out of the way and saved from men of his stamp," which elicited great applause to the discomfiture of the querist. Elder Farr answered numerous questions about "polygamy," explaining the laws of the United States against it and referring to the Bible as teaching that doctrine. In answer to a question whether the New Testament did not forbid polygamy, he replied that it neither taught nor condemned it. He also corrected the erroneous ideas put forth by Mr. Dwan about the Mountain Meadow massacre.

Elder Hansen attempted to address the meeting, but had to reply to a running fire of questions, some of them apparently of an improper character.

Elder Farr performed a piece of instrumental music, and a vote of thanks was given to the two young missionaries, after which the meeting adjourned.

We refer to this that the friends of the Elders, who we believe are both from Logan, may know of the obstacles which our missionaries have to encounter while far from their homes traveling to preach the Gospel without purse and scrip. Although the meeting described was intended rather for evil than good, it is to be hoped that benefits will arise from it as it is unlikely that all who were present were of the same class, and some would, in all probability, receive impressions of the truth. At any rate the effect will be to create interest, which will be sure to result in opening the way of the Elders to the hearts of those who are seeking for the way of life. The missionaries in Australia and New Zealand are deserving and in need of encouragement as well as the faith and prayers of the Saints in Zion.

SELF-CONVICTED CLERICAL IMPOSTORS.

During the proceedings of the Eighth Congress of the Episcopal Church of the United States, held at Richmond, Virginia, a discussion took place among the ministers present on "The Priestly and Prophetic Functions of the Christian Ministry." The diversity of opinions on this important subject among the men who ought to have definite information concerning it, was truly remarkable in view of the fact that they all claimed to have the authority of the "Christian ministry."

The first speaker was Rev. William R. Huntington of Massachusetts, who considered that the Christian ministry contained in it both the priestly and prophetic offices, that of the former being to minister and of the latter to teach. Mr. Huntington thought that to the prophetic function must be assigned the first place. The primary duty of the Christian minister was to preach the word of God, to bring the message of God to the human race. The priestly functions were but secondary. The pulpit was the joy and throne of the Christian minister.

The next speaker was Rev. S. D. McConnell of Philadelphia. He was entirely opposed to the first speaker. He emphatically denied that either the priestly or the prophetic function belonged to the ministry of this dispensation. The power of absolution delegated to ministers had been called a priestly function. It was not a priestly but a kingly function, the power of the commandment to declare and pronounce the absolution and forgiveness of sins being a delegation of royal not priestly prerogative.

He was followed by Rev. Frederick Courtenay, of Boston, who took another view of the subject. He held that there were no Christian priests because there were no sacrifices for them to offer. The only sacrifices recognized by the New Testament were those of the whole people, and it was not the exclusive privilege or duty of the ministry to offer them.

Then came Bishop Peterkin, of West Virginia, who held that the priestly functions ceased with Christ, but the prophetic office lived on. St. Paul, he declared, ordained Apostles, Prophets, and Teachers but no Priests.

Dr. Greer, of Rhode Island, frankly acknowledged that he did not know whether he was a priest or prophet, or what he was, but took the ground that the Christian ministry included both the preaching and the ministering functions. He thought the fundamental idea was worship, and that preaching alone did not make true worship. If there were nothing at church but preaching, he asked, why go to church at all, when one could remain at home and read a better sermon than he could hear at church, when the sermons of a Stanley or a Robertson lie on the study table. If the church had nothing more to offer than preaching, he was of opinion that men might as well read for their edification these masterly productions and save themselves the trouble of going to church.

The debate was closed by Rev. Mr. Hopkins, who considered that the previous speaker had left the subject in a fog. He could not dissipate it however, nor throw any further light upon the matter, and the Episcopal ministers had to come to the conclusion that on the subject of the functions of their own callings they had no definite knowledge and must "agree to differ."

It must be understood that the gentlemen who thus discussed the question of the functions of the Christian ministry were all "priests," if there is any virtue in their ordination. If they are not "priests" then the whole theory of their calling and setting apart to the ministry is a sham and imposture. The service performed over their ordination is contained in the "Book of Common Prayer," and may be understood by anyone who can read. Nothing can be clearer than that they take upon themselves the office of a priest and are formally ordained to it by the laying on of hands. And yet some of them deny the existence of any priests in the Christian Church, while the others are completely in the dark concerning the functions of their offices.

"The decline of clerical authority" is one of the topics of the times. The fact is patent to all candid observers; the reason of it is a subject of dispute. But is it at all extraordinary that the authority of orthodox ministers has almost ceased to exist in the public mind, when they have no definite conception of its extent and even doubt its existence themselves? The Episcopal clergy, by their very position before the people, claim divine authority to act in the priesthood of their church; to administer ordinances in the name of the Holy Trinity such as baptism, the Lord's supper, matrimony, the services for the living and for the dead, all as the professedly authorized representatives of Deity. What solemn mockery must all these ceremonies be to men who doubt their own position, know nothing about the actual functions of their ministry, and even dispute the existence of the priesthood which they pretend to hold! Even the Catholic priest whose doctrine and claims they denounce and condemn, is in a far better position than they; for with all his errors he really believes in the continuance of the priesthood from apostolic times down to himself, and is not in a quandary as to the functions of his office.

The discussion of which we have given a brief account is a clear exhibition of the weakness and lack of true authority in the Episcopal Church, which, next to the Roman Catholic Church, makes the strongest claims to the possession of priestly functions of any of the multifarious sects in Christendom. One would think that if the ministers who took part in that debate were honest, they would never more pretend to act in the priestly office until they learn what it is, what are the extent and limits of its duties and powers, and whether they really possess it or not.

Think of a man officiating as a priest and not knowing whether or not there is any such thing now-a-days; of another who thinks he ought to be a prophet, but doesn't know whether the prophetic office is part of his calling or not; of another who thinks the pulpit is all in all, and of another who thinks that a Christian might just as well read a sermon as hear one preached. And all these "priests" without a priesthood and "prophets" without any prophecy, are ministers of the same church. They are not sectaries of different creeds, they are all Episcopal clergymen, and one of them is a "Bishop!"

When they appear before the great white throne and give account for their acts in mortality, what will they be able to answer when the Eternal One, whose name they have so often taken in vain in their services and ceremonies without vitality because without authority, asks them who gave them the right to stand as His priests and minister in His stead? Surely the Lord will not hold them guiltless.

And these are the men that chiefly stand in the way of the servants of God who have been called and ordained to the Holy Priesthood which has been sent down from heaven to earth in this last dispensation. They will not enter into the kingdom themselves nor suffer those who would to enter therein. Blind leaders of the blind, they teach with their human learning, draw near to God with their lips while their hearts are far from him, and make the children of men to err and stumble in the way, and drive faith from the human heart because of their false pretences and counterfeit authority. Verily of such is not the kingdom of heaven!

Dismissed.

San Francisco, 2.—The libel suit brought by J. W. Schaeffer, of this city, against E. Kennedy, supreme treasurer of the Order of Chosen Friends, was dismissed to-day by the police court.

Drowned.

Picton, 2.—The schooner H. Folger, from Cleveland for Brockville with coal, went ashore on Salmon Point Reef on Thursday night. She was commanded by W. McDonald and had a crew of eight men. All were lost. Two bodies, one supposed to be that of the captain, were washed ashore to-day. The Folger was a large three-masted schooner owned by Dennis & Ellis of Cape Vincent, N.Y.

Senator Riddleberger Insulted—Talk of a Duel.

A Richmond special says: An insult was given to Senator Riddleberger by Capt. Page McCarthy and the anticipated duel between them has been the subject of excited comment to-day. Captain McCarthy is still concealed near the city and friends here, it is understood, have his address and every convenience for affording Senator Riddleberger an opportunity to send a challenge should he desire. It is understood that Riddleberger has not availed himself of the opportunity. Riddleberger will leave the city for New York where Senator Mahone is now sojourning, but whether he goes to seek advice of Mahone is a matter of conjecture. The anti-Mahone men are chuckling over what they regard as Riddleberger's back down. It is supposed that McCarthy will remain in hailing distance of Richmond as long as Riddleberger is hereabouts, and then return to his post at Washington. The Mahonites are not inclined to talk about the affair. McCarthy's reflections in his paper upon Riddleberger are the cause of the trouble. McCarthy was a principal in the Mordecai duel in 1873, when Mordecai was killed and McCarthy desperately wounded.

UPRIGHT PIANOS

Are made of the best materials that money can purchase, and the workmanship is of the VERY HIGHEST ORDER. Their construction is of the

MOST SOLID CHARACTER,

Having a FULL iron frame with two and three doublings; a pin-block made of eight thicknesses of maple, vertically crossing and re-crossing each other; a Bessemer steel action-frame, which holds the action with such absolute firmness that no unfavorable condition of the atmosphere can in any way affect it. All these valuable improvements have been patented the present year, and now enter into the construction of these pianos, securing for them the proud distinction of the Most Durable Piano Made.

Another valuable patented improvement is the maple bridge made of END WOOD, and the inserting of specially selected maple wood in the capo d' astro, producing a tone of truly wonderful richness, clear and sympathetic quality. The scale is entirely new, and is in reality that of a

GRAND PIANO

In an upright position, giving it great volume of tone and carrying power. The action and touch is precise, prompt and elastic. I speak advisedly when I say that these upright pianos

ARE UNEQUALLED

By those of other agencies in the Territory, and at a VERY MUCH LESS PRICE, which I am prepared to publicly demonstrate at any time. It will give me pleasure to furnish all who desire it, an illustrate description of the interior of the instrument in all its parts, and to personally explain, on the piano, the several points of excellences.
