N. C. EDLEFSEN,

Vice-President.

Logan, June 20th, 1887.

Lithotomy.

Yesterday afternoon Thos. Robertson, of Orderville, Kane County, underwent a painful surgical operation. For seven or eight years he has been a great sufferer, and yesterday Dr. F. W. Anderson, assisted by Drs. Hamilton and Hall, performed an operation upon him, removing two stones from the bladder. The lithos each measured two and a half inches in circumference and weighed five-eighths of an ounce. The patient is now progressing favorably. ing favorably.

Notes from Ireland.

By letter from Elder William Wood, bearing date of June 13th, 1887, we learn that he is now laboring as a missionary in the Emerald Isle. He was at that date located temporarily in the town of Lurgan, which he describes as a pleasant little place, situated 20 miles from Belfast, near a beautiful fresh water lake. His health was good and he evidently enjoys his labors in the present effort to open up a new field. He states that there is one great advantage in his recent transfer from England to Ireland and that is that the atmosphere is much one great advantage in his recent transfer from England to Ireland and that is that the atmosphere is much clearer, and not being saturated so thoroughly with smoke and fog, and all things considered, he thinks he shall enjoy his labors in Ireland even better than while in Exgland. He states that several meetings have been broken up by mobs, both at Lurgan and [Belfast, where he previously labored, but no one was injured and he thinks this will lead eventually to good results, as many are thereby attracted to the meetings, and good seed is being sown. He finds the people in this part of Ireland easily excited, but having a strong predilection for fair play, and like those whom he traveled among in the Southern States of America, they are eminently hospitable and kind to strangers.

Resolutions of Respect.

In the Territorial Supreme Court yesterday afternoon, Arthur Brown Esq., presented the following, which were ordered spread on the records of the Court: the Court:

Whereas, Deata has removed from our midst, the Hon. John A. Hunter, late chief justice of the Supreme Court of Utah Territory, and Whereas, In the high station which he filled and honored for so many years, he by his abilities as a judge and virtues as a man won the esteem and confidence of the bar and people of the Territory, and was before him has been suddenly cut off; therefore, Resolved. That we deeply deplore his death, not only as an individual bereavement, but as a public calamity. Resolved. That in his decease the law lost one of its brightest ornaments and citizens and his family a devoted husband, dutiful son and loving father. Resolved, That we recognize that he occupied this position at a time and under circumstances when it was peculiarly difficult, in consequence of the political character of many questions coming before him; that he met such questions with a bravery rare to be found and noble to be observed, and decided the same according to his convictions, whether it met the approval of the public or not, and we commend his course in this regard as eminently judicial.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to the bereaved wife, daughter and mother of deceased, and the Supreme and District Courts of the Territory be requested to have the same spread upon their journals.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL CON-VENTION.

The Body Organizes and Begins

For the sixth time since the settle-ment of Utah Territory, a convention of delegates to frame a State Constiof elegates to frame a State Consti-tution met and organized to-day.

The Legislative Chamber in the City Hall in this city had been provided for the occasion, and desks and tables prepared for the members. Over the stand for the presiding officers of the Convention was neatly festooned "the national flag. Above this was a white star fringed with gold, and decorated with the stars and stripes. On the white ground of the star was the Creer, Thomas Harris, Esq., was chosen sergeant-at-arms.

Hon. John T. Caine, having been notified of his election, here entered the room, and was received with applause. He spoke as follows:

Gentlemen of the Convention:

I thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me. I appreciate this token of your confidence, and with your fobearance and assistance I hope to be able to discharge the duties of this responsible position to your satisfaction.

We have met here to-day as the representatives of the people of Utah, to frame a constitution embodying their views of government, and to take such steps as may appear necessary to obtain the admission of Utah into the Union as a

FREE AND SOVEREIGN STATE.

Our authority to act in these most important matters comes from the people. Under the institutions of this republic, the people are the source of all political power. This principle of popular sovereignty is fundamental to the system of government nuder which we live. It is the very essence of true republicanism, the vital breath of pure democracy. In the United States the men who occupy the position of rulers are but the servants of the sovereign people. They govern in that capacity and therefore the people are really self-governed. The national authorities express the will of the whole nation. Local authorities voice the views of the people of their locality. If we had assembled by virtue of some legislative enactment, our authority would have come indirectly, instead of coming, as now, directly from the people. There are some official acts which, to be lawful, must be done under legislative authority. Our proceedings are not necessarily of that uature. There is no established rule or legal requirement that renders legislative action necessary to a popular convention.

THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE

to peaceably assemble and petition the government for redress of grievances is guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. It would be a popular right if never expressed in a written instriment. It is natural and inherent. It belongs to the people in the Territories as much as those in the States, no matter what extreme views many be taken of the political feehleness of the territorial system. The grievances of the people of this Territory are chiefly involved in their lack of participation in the affairs of the government under which they exist, and statehood pation in the affairs of the government under which they exist, and statehood will afford them the only real and permanent relief. Their right to take the measures that have brought us together as their delegates is one that cannot be successfully disputed. Our authority then to perform the delicate and onerous task entrusted is ample, and we may proceed with the fullest confidence.

THE CONSTITUTION

which we are here to fashion, for the people to adopt, should be broad and liberal and conservative of the rights of sall who shall be affected by its provisions. This is not a convention representing merely one class or section; it has no religious bearing or proclivities; this is a political body entrusted with political powers to bring about political issues. The rights and privileges of minorities must be held as sacred as those of majorities and treated in that spirit. What Utah wants is a government of the people in which no individual shall be deprived of any right or deuled any privilege, that can be justly claimed under republican institutions.

Heretofore there have been obstacles

Heretofore there have been obstacles that have prevented the recognition of Utah's claims for free government. These obstacles freely and frankly if we expect success. If we can honorably meet the demands If we can honorably meet the demands of the country so as to bring this part of the body politic into that harmony with the rest of the nation which it is claimed has not previously existed, and place Utah on the highway to a prosperous and happy union with the glorious sisterhood of free and sovereign States, we shall perform a noble work and gain the perform a noble work and gain the approbation of the wise and just of the present and succeeding genera-

MUST NOW BE MET

I am proud to be associated with men of such intelligence, ability and recognized worth as those whom I see before me to-day, and I trust our association will be both pleasurable to ourselves and profitable to the people whose interests we represent as a labor of love. I am with you heart and soul in this earnest effort to lift np to the plane she was destined to occupy, and hope and believe that our work will be crowned with complete success. Let us be diligent, careful, untiring and devoted to this cause, and our re-ward will be in the shouts of "Vic-tory!" which will greet the eurollmen of Utah on the records of the nation, and her star shining on the flag of our country gleaming with the loyalty and devotion to this glotious republic of a freed, grateful and happy people.

Hon. Wm. Creer—We have elected no chaplain. Would it not be as well to pray ipstead of swear?
Hon. W. W. Riter could see no objection to administering the oath, and to do so might be construed unfavorably to the movement. The oath could be consciuntiously taken by all the delegates, and it should be done.
Hon. A. Hatch thought each delegate should take an oath that he was an American citizen and held the elective franchise.
The motion was then put before the Convention and carried.

Convention and carried.

Hon. Franklin D. Richards was called upon and offered the opening

An oath was then read to be taken by the officers and members of the Convention. It included all the provisions of the Edmunds-Tucker test oath.

Hon. John E. Booth objected to the oath except as to that part requiring obedience to the Constitution and laws of the United States and laws of the Territory and that the members would perform their duties faithfully. He thought the remainder of the oath was an insult which the members of the convention should not impose thought these which the members of the convention should not impose upon themselves, and moved that all else but what he had suggested be stricken out.

Hon. S. R. Thurman said he had taken the oath to qualify him as an elector, but was not hunting around to take such as to take such an

OBJECTIONABLE TEST OATH.

Hou, F. S. Richards said the oath should be formulated to meet the conditions that might exist or arise in the proceedings of the convention, and he thought that the one presented did not do this.

Hon. James Sharp argued that it was not beneath his dignity to take the oath. He wished to start right and proceed carefully, that no discredit be thrown on the labors of the Convention.

Hon. F. S. Richards moved that the motion be laid on the table till the motion be laid on the table till the next session.

Hon. D. H. Peery opposed deferring the taking of the oath, and wanted it done right away.

Hon. W. W. Riter thought the usually prescribed oath, provided as a pre-requisite for the exercise of citizenship in Utah Territory, should be taken by the members. The nation expected something to be done to place the people more in harmony with the mation, and that work may as well be commenced right now.

After some further discussion the motion of Mr. Booth to strike out part of the oath was lost.

THE OATH,

In was moved by Hon John E. Booth that the constitution adopted by a Constitutional Convention April 27th, 1882, and ratified by the people May 22, 1882, be taken as a basis on which to work at present. Carried.

Hen. James Sharp presented a resolution for the appointment of the various committees of the Convention, which was adopted.

The Convention then adjourned till 10 a.m to-morrow.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, JULY 1.

Discharged.

The proceedings in the case of John Isaacs, charged with unlawful cohabitation, before Commissioner Norrell, this morning, were very brief. His wife was sworn, but declined to testify on the ground that she was his legal wife. There were uo other witnesses, and the Commissioner had no alternative but to discharge the defendant, which he did., He was arrested last evening.

An Afflicted Family.

An Afflicted Family.

Last evening, a son of Brother D.

L. Davis, of the firm Barnes & Davis, died of diphtheria. The conviction that the lad would die, when forced upon the mind of his mother, so affected her that she gave premature birth to a child, which was living at last accounts. Last advices were to the effect that Mrs. Davis was in a critical condition.

We condole with Brother Davis in the severe afflictions that bave overtaken his family. The funeral of the boy, whose name was Harry, was set for 5 o'clock this afternoon, as it was the advice of the quarantine physician to hasten it.

Heber. S. Cutler, Esq., was nominated as Messenger of the Convention, by Hon. James Sharp, and was elected.

Hon. E. A. Smith moved that Justice George D. Pyper administer the oath to the delegates and officers of the convention.

Hon. J. T. Hammoud did not see the necessity of administering the oath; he thought such a proceeding would be improper.

Judge Smith said previous conventions had bad the oath administered to the members.

Hon. S. R. Thurman-Previous conventions have always falled. I move we dispense with it.

Hon. Wm. Creer—We have elected no chaplain. Would it not be as well to pray instead of swear?

Hon. W. W. Riter could see no objection to administering the oath, and to do so might be construed unfavorable to the reversers.

The cet to convention, day with appropriate ceremonies. All the people of the ward turned out to show their respect for him and sympathy for his bereaved family.

Brother Amasa Myers Burton was the son of Joseph Penn and Eliza Anderson Barton, and was born May 27th, 1837, at Paragoonah, Iron County, and by his energy and industry had become well established here, and was one of the most substantial and reliable members of this mission.

He was an affectionate nusband and father, was firm in the falth of the Gospel, strict in the performance of his duties, and died with the full assurance of a glorious resurrection.

The school trustees met last evening

The school trustees met last evening according to call.

Mr. Stewart first distributed a few copies of the school law. He explained to the trustees the work done by the book convention and the manner and cost of exchange. He urged the trustees to attend to this matter.

Commissioner P. L. Williams was introduced to the meeting and spoke, somewhat as follows: He was glad ito meet the trustees and to see so many present. Referred to the manner of levying taxes on different kinds of property. If taxes are levied they should be levied legally; would be pleased to give his views on the matter and instruct the trustees on the law in relation to the matter; explained the manner of taking the school census, and presented form for that purpose. He thought his form more fully filled the required ments of the law than the old one did, said that the law required the census to be taken on or before the second Monday in July, but if the trustees cannot do this, then it will not be unlawful if not in before the third Monday.
