

East Tennessee Conference.
Long and the Elders of the East Tennessee conference looked forward with some anxiety to the time when they should again meet and enter the spiritual rest which always characterized the conferences of the Latter-day Saints, which really they experienced on October 1st, when the Rev. Wm. Wesley Hartnett, who visited Clark in 1855, and who always has a good word for Zion and the unity of her people likewise his wife, a perfect lady, did all he had power to make the gathering a great success.

Long and his associates gathered in a multitude of kind, hospitable, trusting people, who used every effort in making us comfortable and happy. The spirit of love and unity abounding between the saints was manifested in every way we could find to buy until they got a glimpse of the emotional handshakings or hear our joyful conversations.

Four general meetings were held, in which the general meetings were delivered by the Rev. Wm. Wesley Hartnett, his beloved president, Elias S. Kimball. The audience is in a flourishing condition with bright prospects for the future. Our last report for the past year shows a total of 1,000 members, 2,000 meetings held, 2,000 families visited, 2,000 Sabbath school participants, 1,700 baptisms, 22 tracts distributed, 22,000 printed publications of all kinds, 8,000 families received, 2,700 New day schools, 22 Sunday schools, 17 tract sales.

A number of council meetings were held, in which many instructions were given, and new methods introduced. Rich Klime reported his labors and how faithfully he served the cause of the gospel. The spirit of truth rested upon us all.

During over half an hour part of the daily refreshments spent upon the seats by the friends in the surrounding country.

After a short program previously arranged, was commenced in making the way a pleasant one. The timely instructions received and perfect harmony which prevailed will long be remembered, and the spirit of brotherhood ever held in east Tennessee. After a group photo was taken the Elders were given their commendations and gifts of labor, and on Tuesday morning Oct. 15, separated with mutual exchange and a determination to meet once more, thus making the mission a success.

Following are the names of the Elders, together with the counties in which they will travel.

Rev. J. H. Hartnett and Robert B.

Judd will visit the counties in the mountain, E. W. Payne, C. A.

Hobson, Hamilton county, Tenn.; F.

M. Houston, Joe, Franklin, Grainger, and Campbell counties, Tenn.;

H. L. Hill, R. W. Hobson, Blount

county, Tenn.; James A. Hill, C. H.

Owens, Bradley county, Tenn.;

Robert Egert, J. E. Hart, Calhoun

county, Tenn.; J. W. Webster, Joe

Walter Christensen, Clark-

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 16, 1895.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN C. DIXON, died Sept. 20, 1895.—Hildegard John C. Dixon passed from this mortal existence October 9, 1895, after an illness of six weeks' duration, caused by the effects of a heart attack. She was the beloved wife of George Dixon, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, November 20, 1848, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the remaining three were interred at the cemetery where their beloved father and grandfather lie.

She was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, December 20, 1820, and was the only child of

John C. and Mary A. (Dixie) Dixon.

Her funeral services were held in the West Auditorium on the 10th instant.

REV. MARY A. PADDIES, died Oct. 11, 1895.—After a brief illness, Rev. Mary A. Paddies, died October 11, 1895, at the age of 75 years. She was the beloved wife of George Paddies, the son of the prominent number of such well-known men of the community presented him to the city when she died; the