

WARD CHOIRS OF ENSIGN STAKE

Will Render Special Musical Programs in Various Chapels
Tomorrow Evening.

Following the custom recently inaugurated by the presidency of the Ensign stake the choirs in the various wards tomorrow evening will visit contiguous meetinghouses and change places with the singers, affording special musical programs throughout the stake. The plan has created distinct interest both among singers and congregations so much so that the various chapels have invariably been crowded to their capacity. With the exception of the Twenty-seventh and the Eleventh wards where home missionaries will be the speakers in each case those who will address the congregations will be named by the bishopric.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—Salt Lake was given an other opportunity last night to note what a variety of musical talent there is within her borders. Something entirely new, at least in recent years, was presented by Prof. C. D. Schettler, in his group of 60 young people of both sexes, playing mandolins and guitars with a solitary cello in the center. The strains which the united instrumentalists sent forth, were delightful to listen to, and whether in their own selections or in accompaniment to voices they were equally fine. Mr. Schettler conducted and brought forth some charming effects, especially in the sleight ride number, and the "Poet and the Peasant." The solo work was done by Willie Stafford, a young mandolinist, who might be called a boy prodigy, by Miss Coggie, who rendered a duet with Mr. Schettler in very excellent fashion; by Mr. Walter Smith, a young Samoan, who both plays and composes, and Miss Mulvey, also an advanced performer. By way of variety, Mr. Schettler presented several vocal soloists, Miss Edna Evans singing in her usual ringing and charming style, and being awarded the usual encore. Mr. Ensign rendered a very melodious song entitled "The Same Moon Will Shine Again," and was heartily recalled. He endeavored in vain to make Mr. Smith, the young Samoan mandolinist and the composer of the song, rise and share the honors, but he declined.

The event was under the management of Fred C. Graham and the handsome audience, no doubt means that it was a financial success. Prof. Schettler has reason to be proud of his achievements, and especially of his advanced pupils.

DISTRESS IN PARK CITY.

A prolonged close-down of our mines since the first of the year, coming in the wake of a protracted siege of labor strikes antedating almost three months, has brought many of our families to a condition bordering upon distress, if not quite approaching a state of necessity and want. Unless the mines re-open, and this does not seem imminent, these conditions will gradually become worse and dire privation and suffering will be the probable outcome.

The Park City Citizens' Club has taken this problem up and in order to raise a fund will give a Charity Ball, the proceeds of which will be used by the club to thwart the need and suffering of the helpless families of the town.

The people of Park City have been most liberal and open-hearted in furnishing a hall, music and other requisites to make the Charity Ball the success so worthy an object deserves. It will be held in Maple Hall on the evening of Thursday, February 27th. Tickets are one dollar and can be had from any business house in Park City or from the Secretary of the Park City Citizens' Club.

ANNUAL REPORT FILED

Insurance Companies Make Showing—Home of Utah and Continental in the List.

The period is again at hand when all the fire, life and accident insurance companies doing business in the state of Utah, must file their annual statements with the secretary of state, and pay the necessary license and tax fees for the privilege of doing business within Utah's borders. The income to the state from this source has risen to a heavy figure and is constantly growing as the business public becomes more and more acquainted with the value of the different forms of insurance.

The revolutions in the life insurance business, the San Francisco conflagration, and the failure of several mutual companies, have all had the effect of inducing the public to exercise greater care than ever in the choice of the insurance companies it patronizes, both life and fire. For this reason the statements of condition of January 1st, filed with the secretary of state, will be scanned more closely than ever, to learn how the companies whose funds were invested in stocks and bonds have passed through the recent tremendous slump in values.

As the dispatches and insurance journals have stated, the insurance companies have taken a liberal view of the question of values, and it is their policy to allow insurance companies to value their assets on 70-cent basis (when the actual value has fallen to 50 cents) and to average of the values during the past 12 months and to call that a fair estimate on January 1. If this were not done, the surplus of some companies, and perhaps the capital stock, might be impaired.

THE HOME FIRE OF UTAH.

The only fire insurance company now existing in the Intermountain region, is the Home Fire of Utah, whose statement has been filed and makes a strong showing. The company is now in its twenty-second year, having attained its majority in September last. The wisdom of its directors in always keeping its assets valued considerably below the markets, has been demonstrated by the financial slump, which reduced the value of stocks and bonds temporarily, all along the line. In spite of this, the rule of the Home company in placing conservative values on its property, enabled it to emerge from the financial panic in a stronger condition than ever, and its statement below shows its capital of $250,000, and its surplus of $200,000, stand the same as before, while it has no current liabilities, whatever. Its assets, which have passed the half million mark for the first time, include the representative stock of the institutions of the state, and the values placed on them show that they are still about $100,000 under market prices.

The following is the company's statement presented to stockholders at the recent meeting:
